OUR HOUSE
GOSSETT TEAM HOUSE

The Gossett Football Team House expansion project, which began with the first phase in the Spring of 2002, will improve the University of Maryland's football facility to better meet the needs of Terrapin student-athletes and recruits through the expansion of four components:

- Expanded academic support and career development unit
- New recruit meeting room/dining facility with kitchen
- New team meeting auditorium
- Expanded entrance and lobby

Phase One of the 15,500 square-foot renovation included the creation of an expanded academic support lab. This increased the existing space dedicated to support and strengthen the academic and career-achievement initiatives of football student-athletes by more than 4,000 square feet. In addition, a brand new video board was finished in time for the 2002 season, giving fans a more vibrant and exciting experience in Byrd Stadium with game action and replays shown on a board measuring 21 feet by 28 feet.

Phases Two and Three, completed in the summer of 2004, include a 3,500 square-foot meeting room and dining facility which will provide a multi-purpose showcase for hosting recruits and their families.

It also includes a new team meeting auditorium which will give the entire football team the opportunity to meet together in one room, allowing the coaching staff to teach using state-of-the-art technology in an environment that has sufficient seating space for all the players. This addition will help transform the staff's capability to effectively present offensive and defensive game plans.

The construction also includes an enhanced entrance and lobby for the Gossett Team House that will showcase the program's tradition, importance and success. An impressive first impression for recruits and visitors, the entrance and lobby will highlight the rich past of Maryland football and will showcase the Terps' return to national prominence.

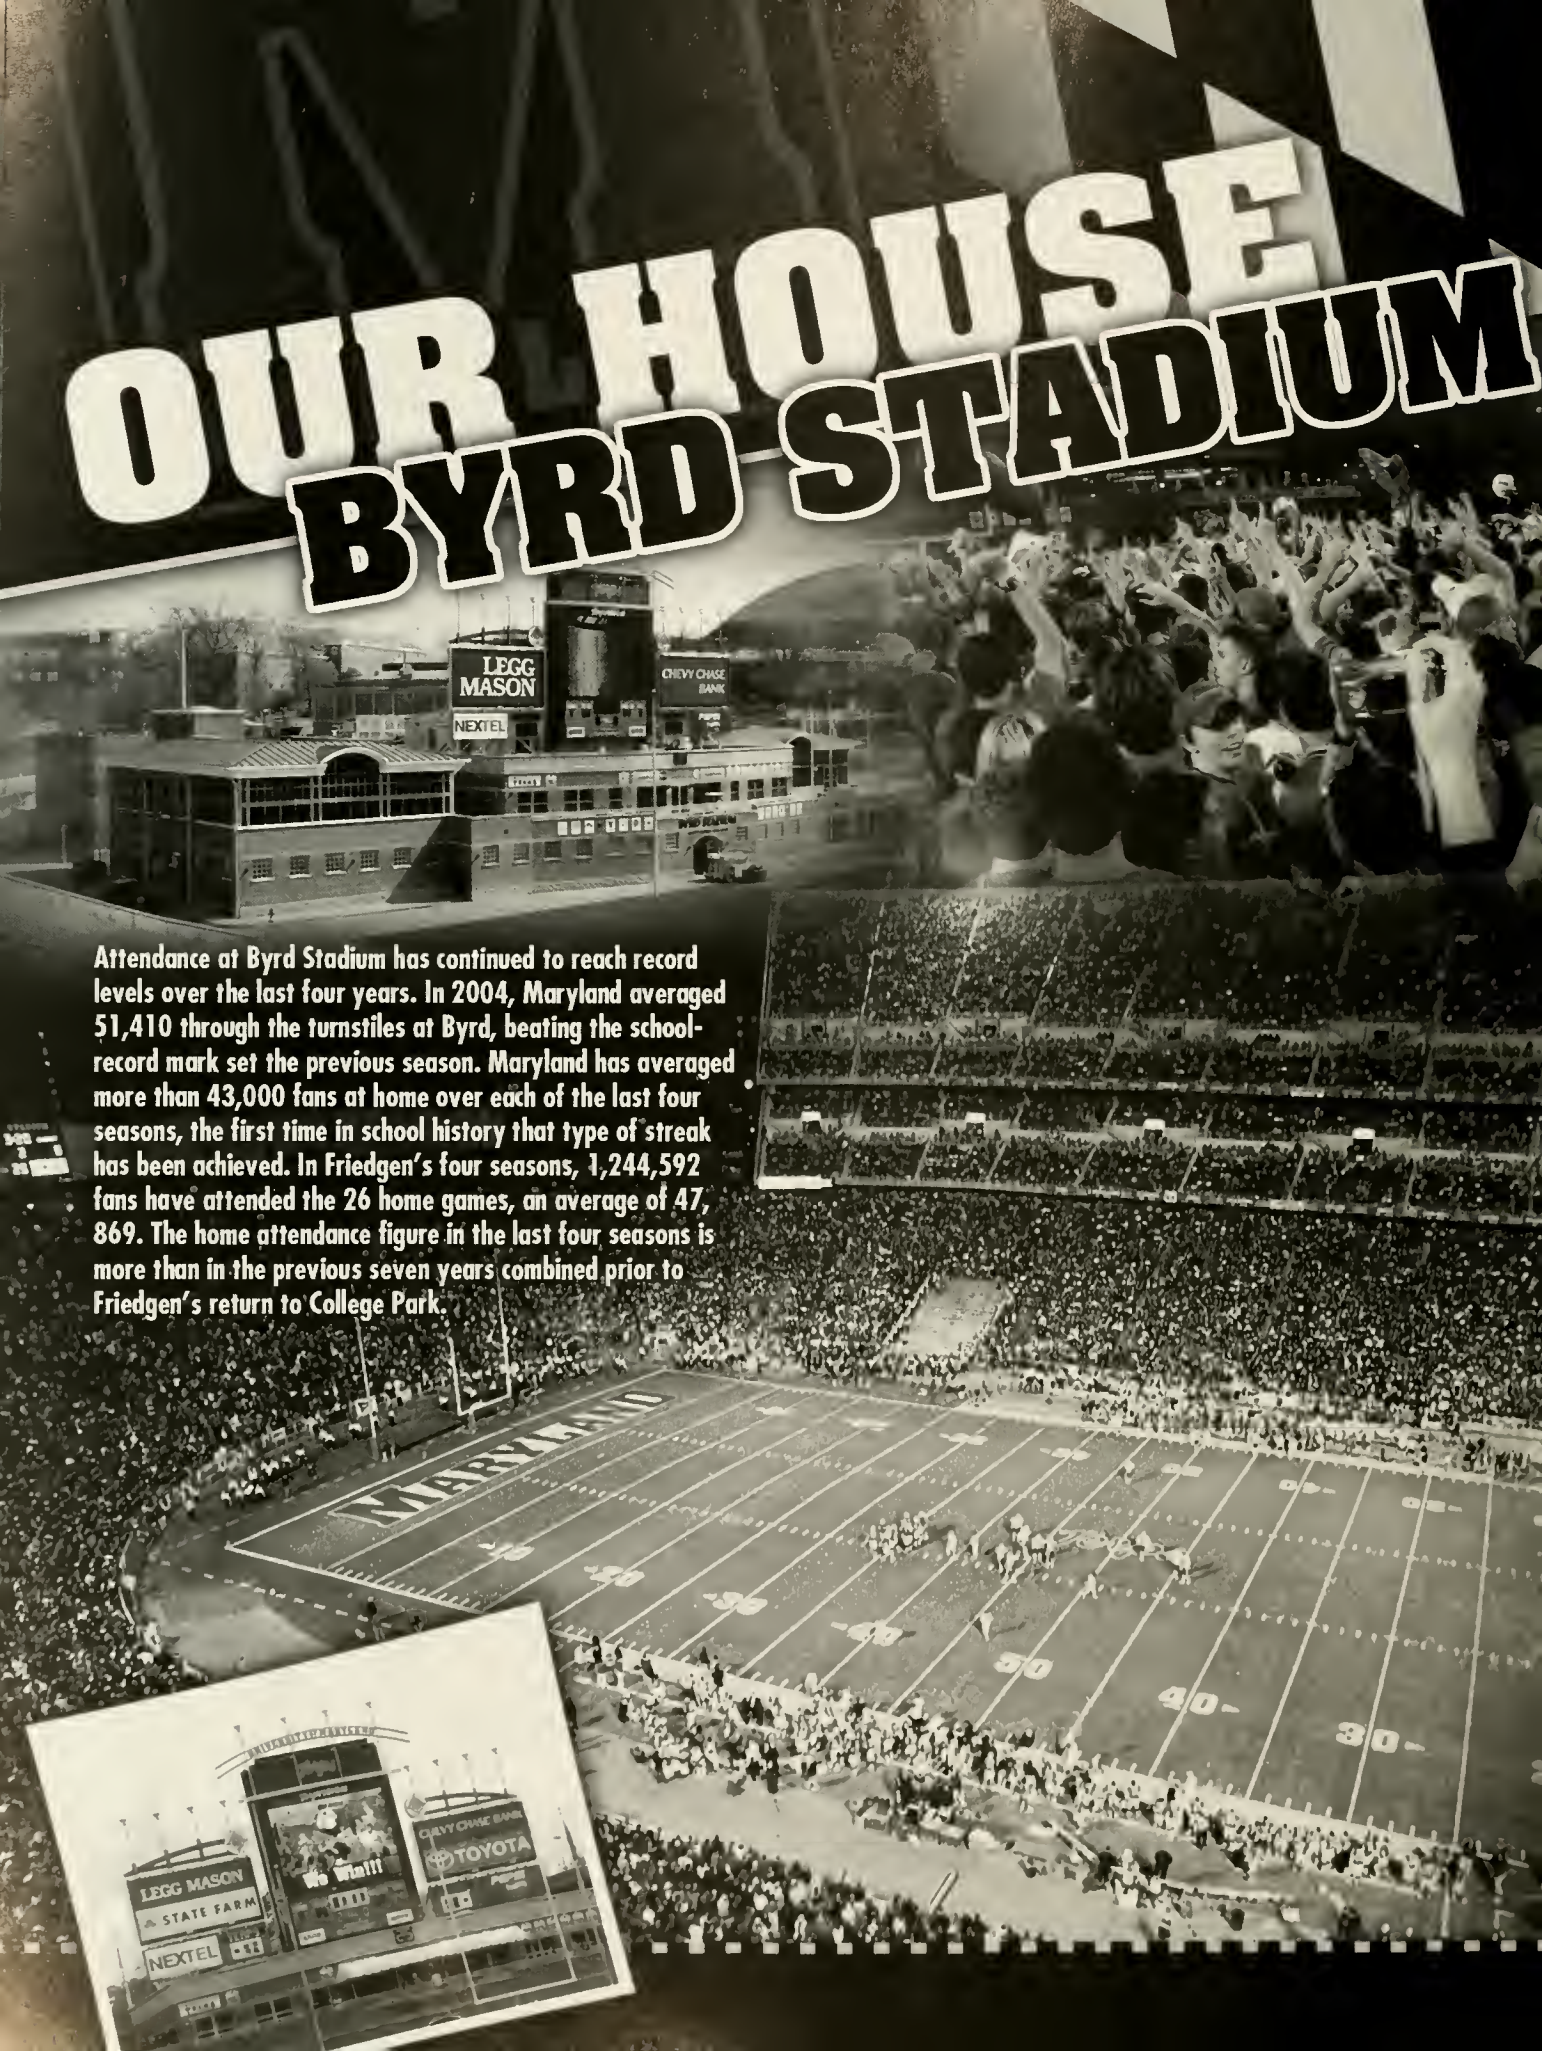
OUR HOUSE
BYRD STADIUM



Attendance at Byrd Stadium has continued to reach record levels over the last four years. In 2004, Maryland averaged 51,410 through the turnstiles at Byrd, beating the school-record mark set the previous season. Maryland has averaged more than 43,000 fans at home over each of the last four seasons, the first time in school history that type of streak has been achieved. In Friedgen's four seasons, 1,244,592 fans have attended the 26 home games, an average of 47,869. The home attendance figure in the last four seasons is more than in the previous seven years combined prior to Friedgen's return to College Park.

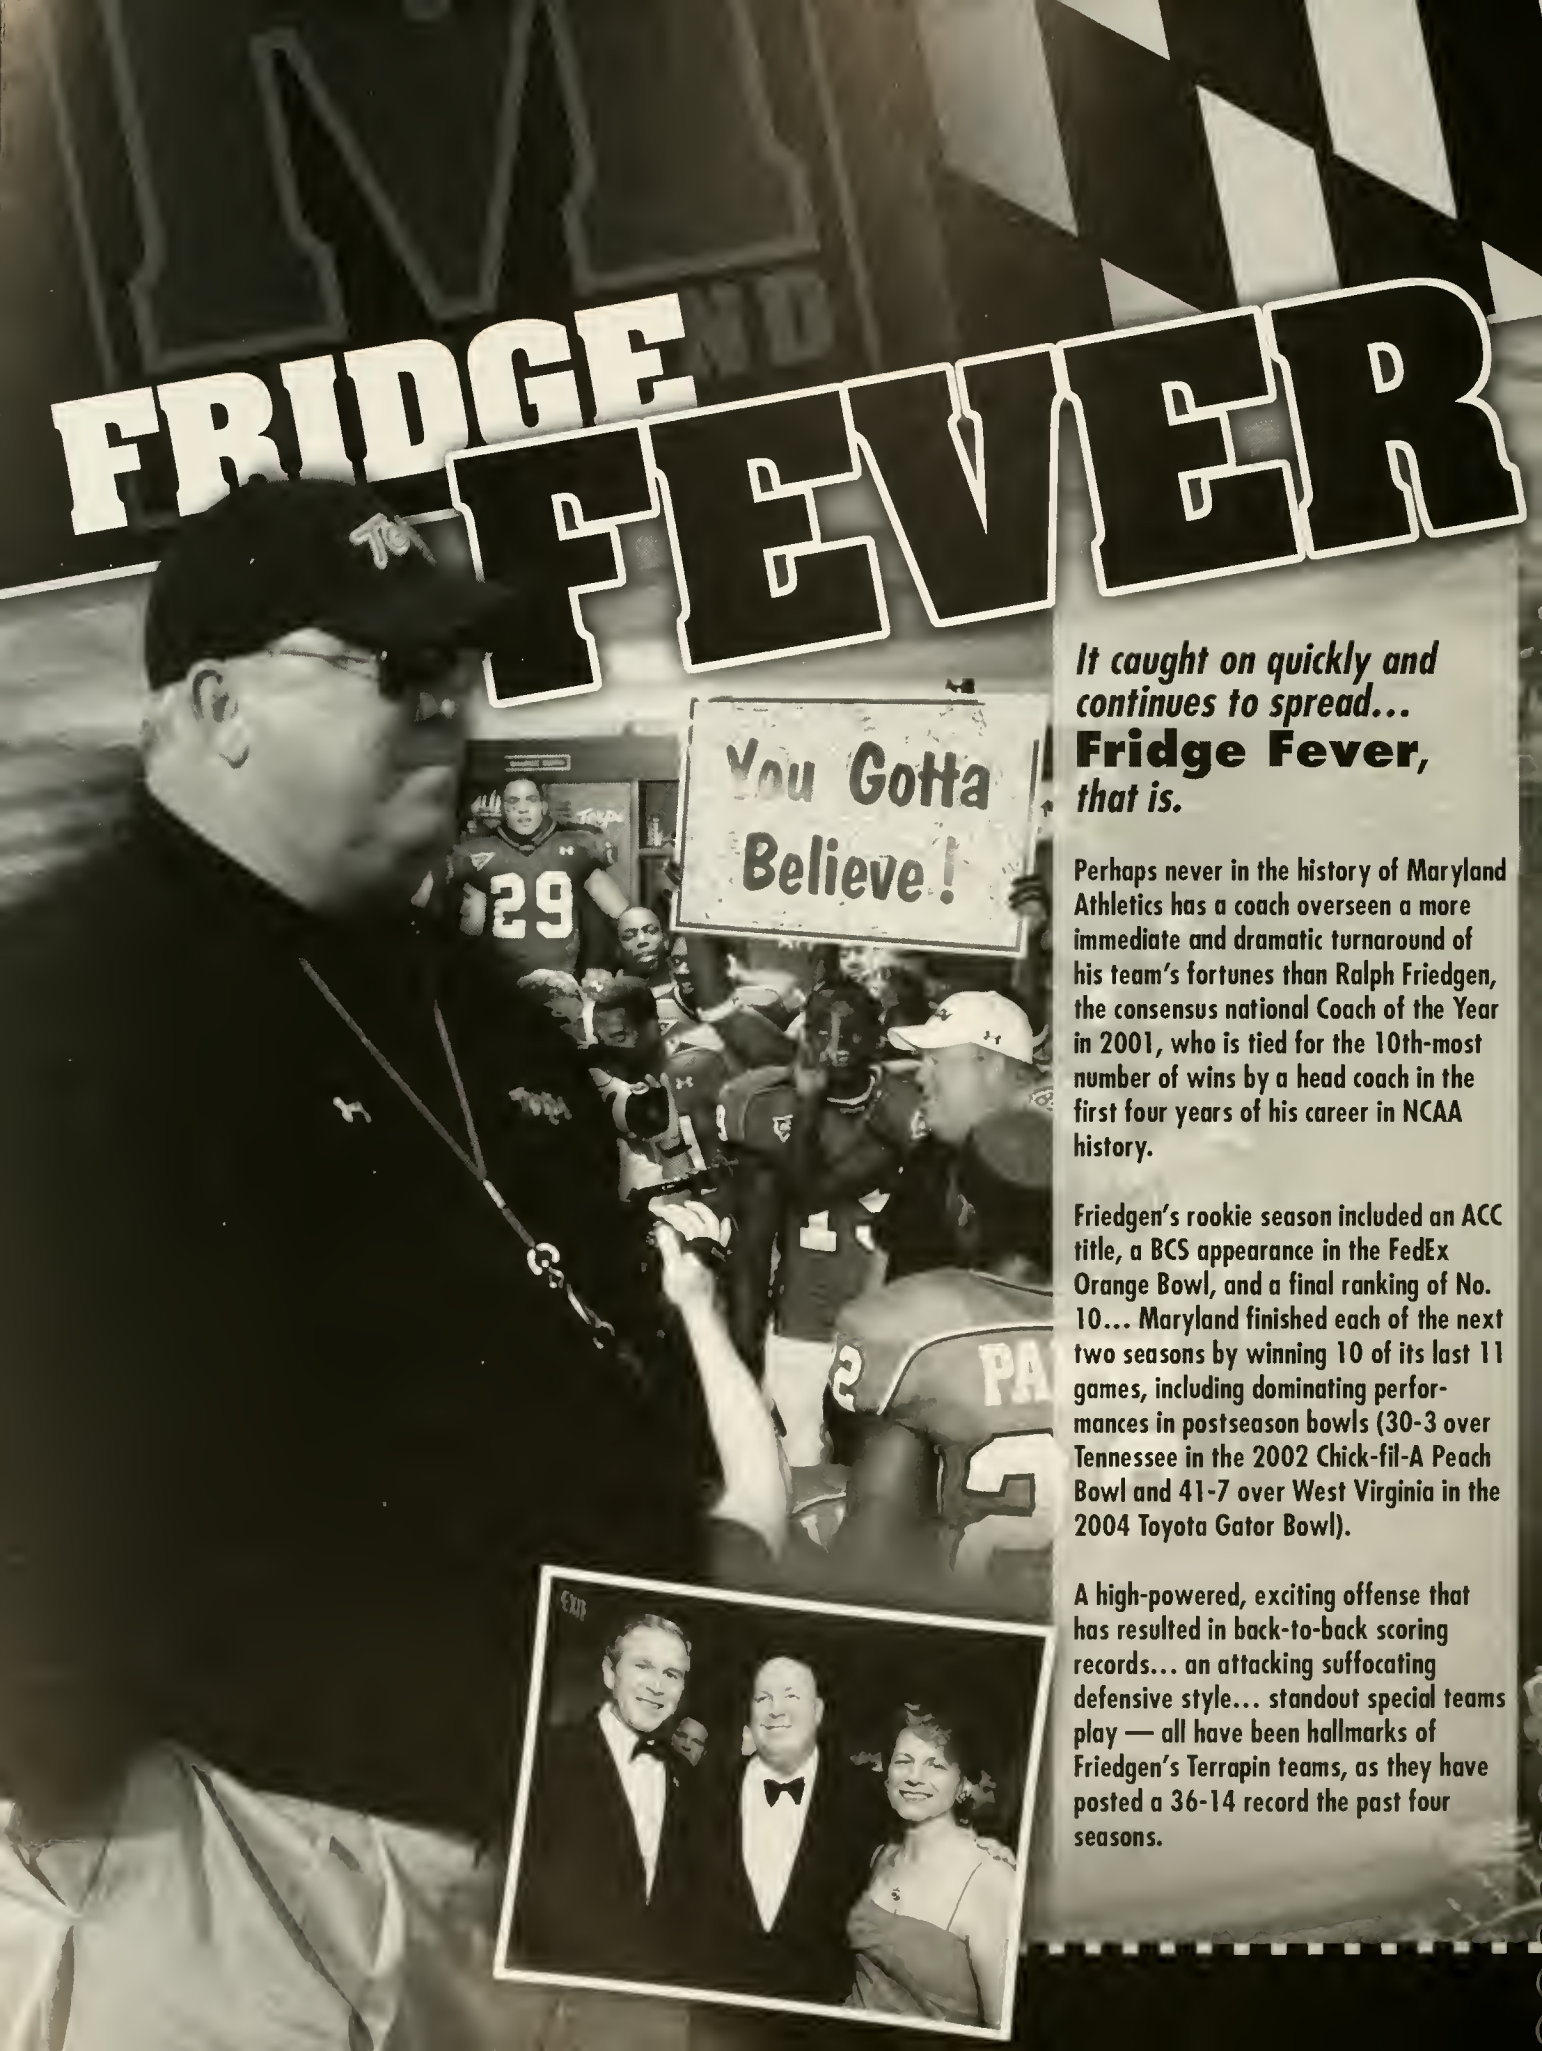
FRIDGE FEVER



It caught on quickly and continues to spread...* Fridge Fever, *that is.

Perhaps never in the history of Maryland Athletics has a coach overseen a more immediate and dramatic turnaround of his team's fortunes than Ralph Friedgen, the consensus national Coach of the Year in 2001, who is tied for the 10th-most number of wins by a head coach in the first four years of his career in NCAA history.

Friedgen's rookie season included an ACC title, a BCS appearance in the FedEx Orange Bowl, and a final ranking of No. 10... Maryland finished each of the next two seasons by winning 10 of its last 11 games, including dominating performances in postseason bowls (30-3 over Tennessee in the 2002 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl and 41-7 over West Virginia in the 2004 Toyota Gator Bowl).

A high-powered, exciting offense that has resulted in back-to-back scoring records... an attacking suffocating defensive style... standout special teams play — all have been hallmarks of Friedgen's Terrapin teams, as they have posted a 36-14 record the past four seasons.

Friedgen was featured in the Sports Illustrated 2003 College Football Preview.

"Those of us who watched Coach Friedgen for all those years as an assistant knew that if any school would finally have the good sense to hire him, he would be a dynamic head coach. His first three years at Maryland have certainly proven to be true. Everyone knew he had a brilliant offensive mind, but now Coach Friedgen has shown that he has the complete package of skills to make Maryland an annual contender for the ACC championship. Ralph Friedgen is the real deal."

Tony Barnhart,
The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

"Some people look at a football field and see hash marks and yard lines. Ralph Friedgen sees plays and patterns invisible to every other naked eye. And if anyone on defense does see them, they see them a step too late. More important, Ralph has the skill to teach what he sees to his players.

You always hear about great middleweights who are 'pound for pound' the best fighters in the world. That's meant as a compliment to smaller men. Ralph is not a small man, but pound for pound he's still the best offensive coach in the country."

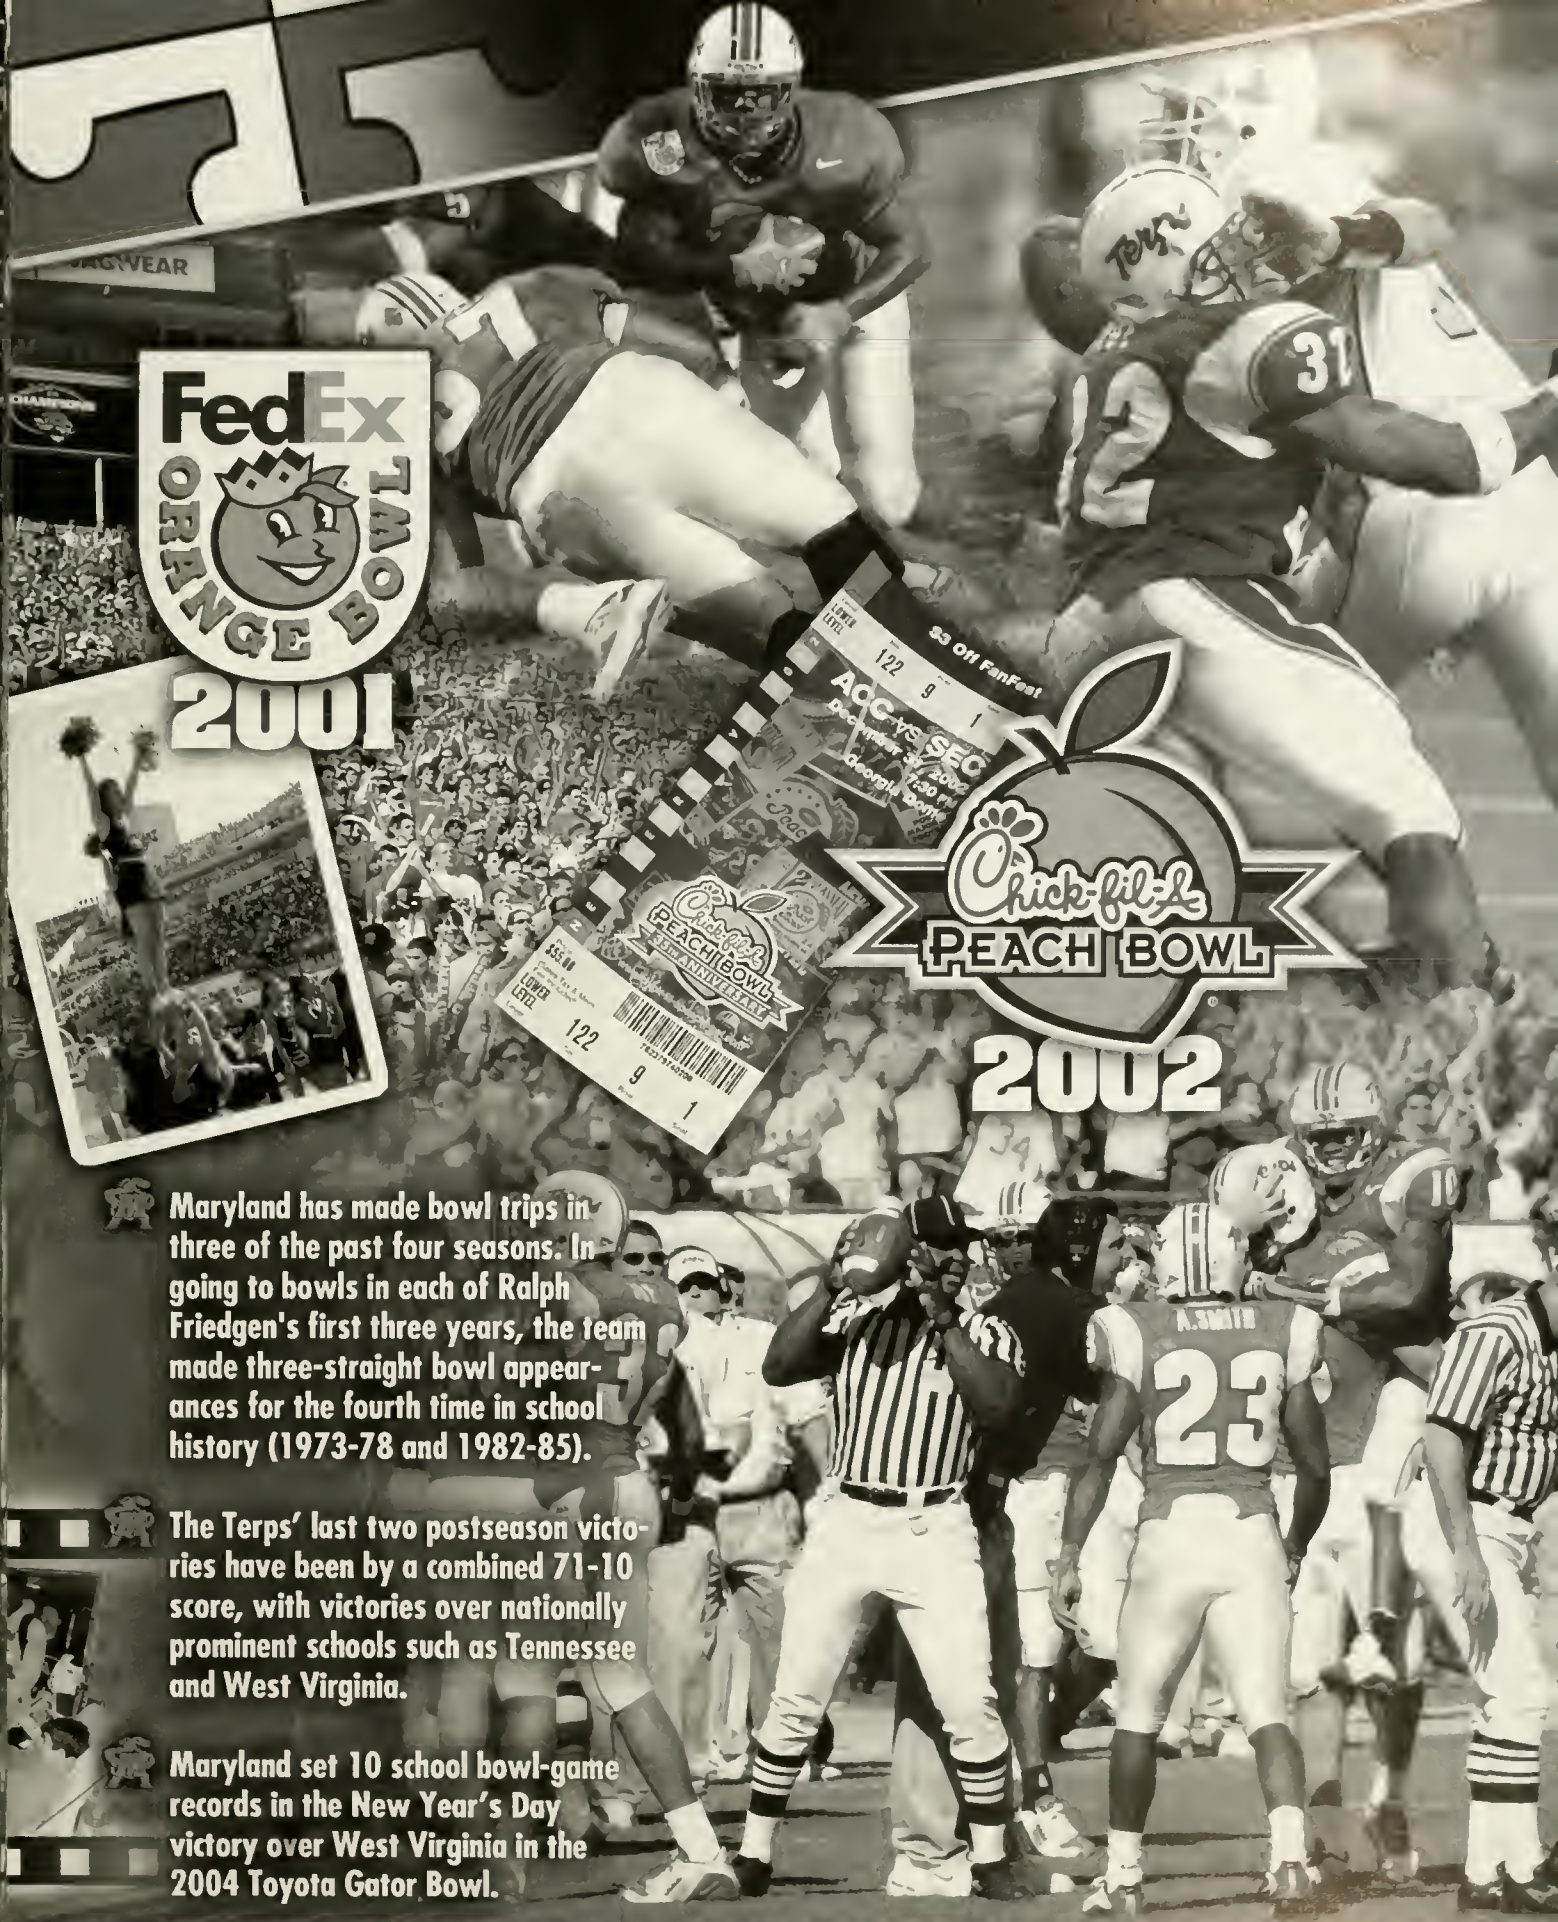
GOING BOWLING

The University of Maryland made its third bowl trip in as many years when it was invited to play West Virginia University in the 2004 Toyota Gator Bowl. For the second straight year, the Terps saved one of their best efforts for a national TV audience and the postseason, as they beat West Virginia, 41-7.

Maryland fans continued to show their ability to travel with their Terps, as more than 15,000 fans were estimated to have made the trip to Jacksonville.

TOYOTA GATOR BOWL 2004

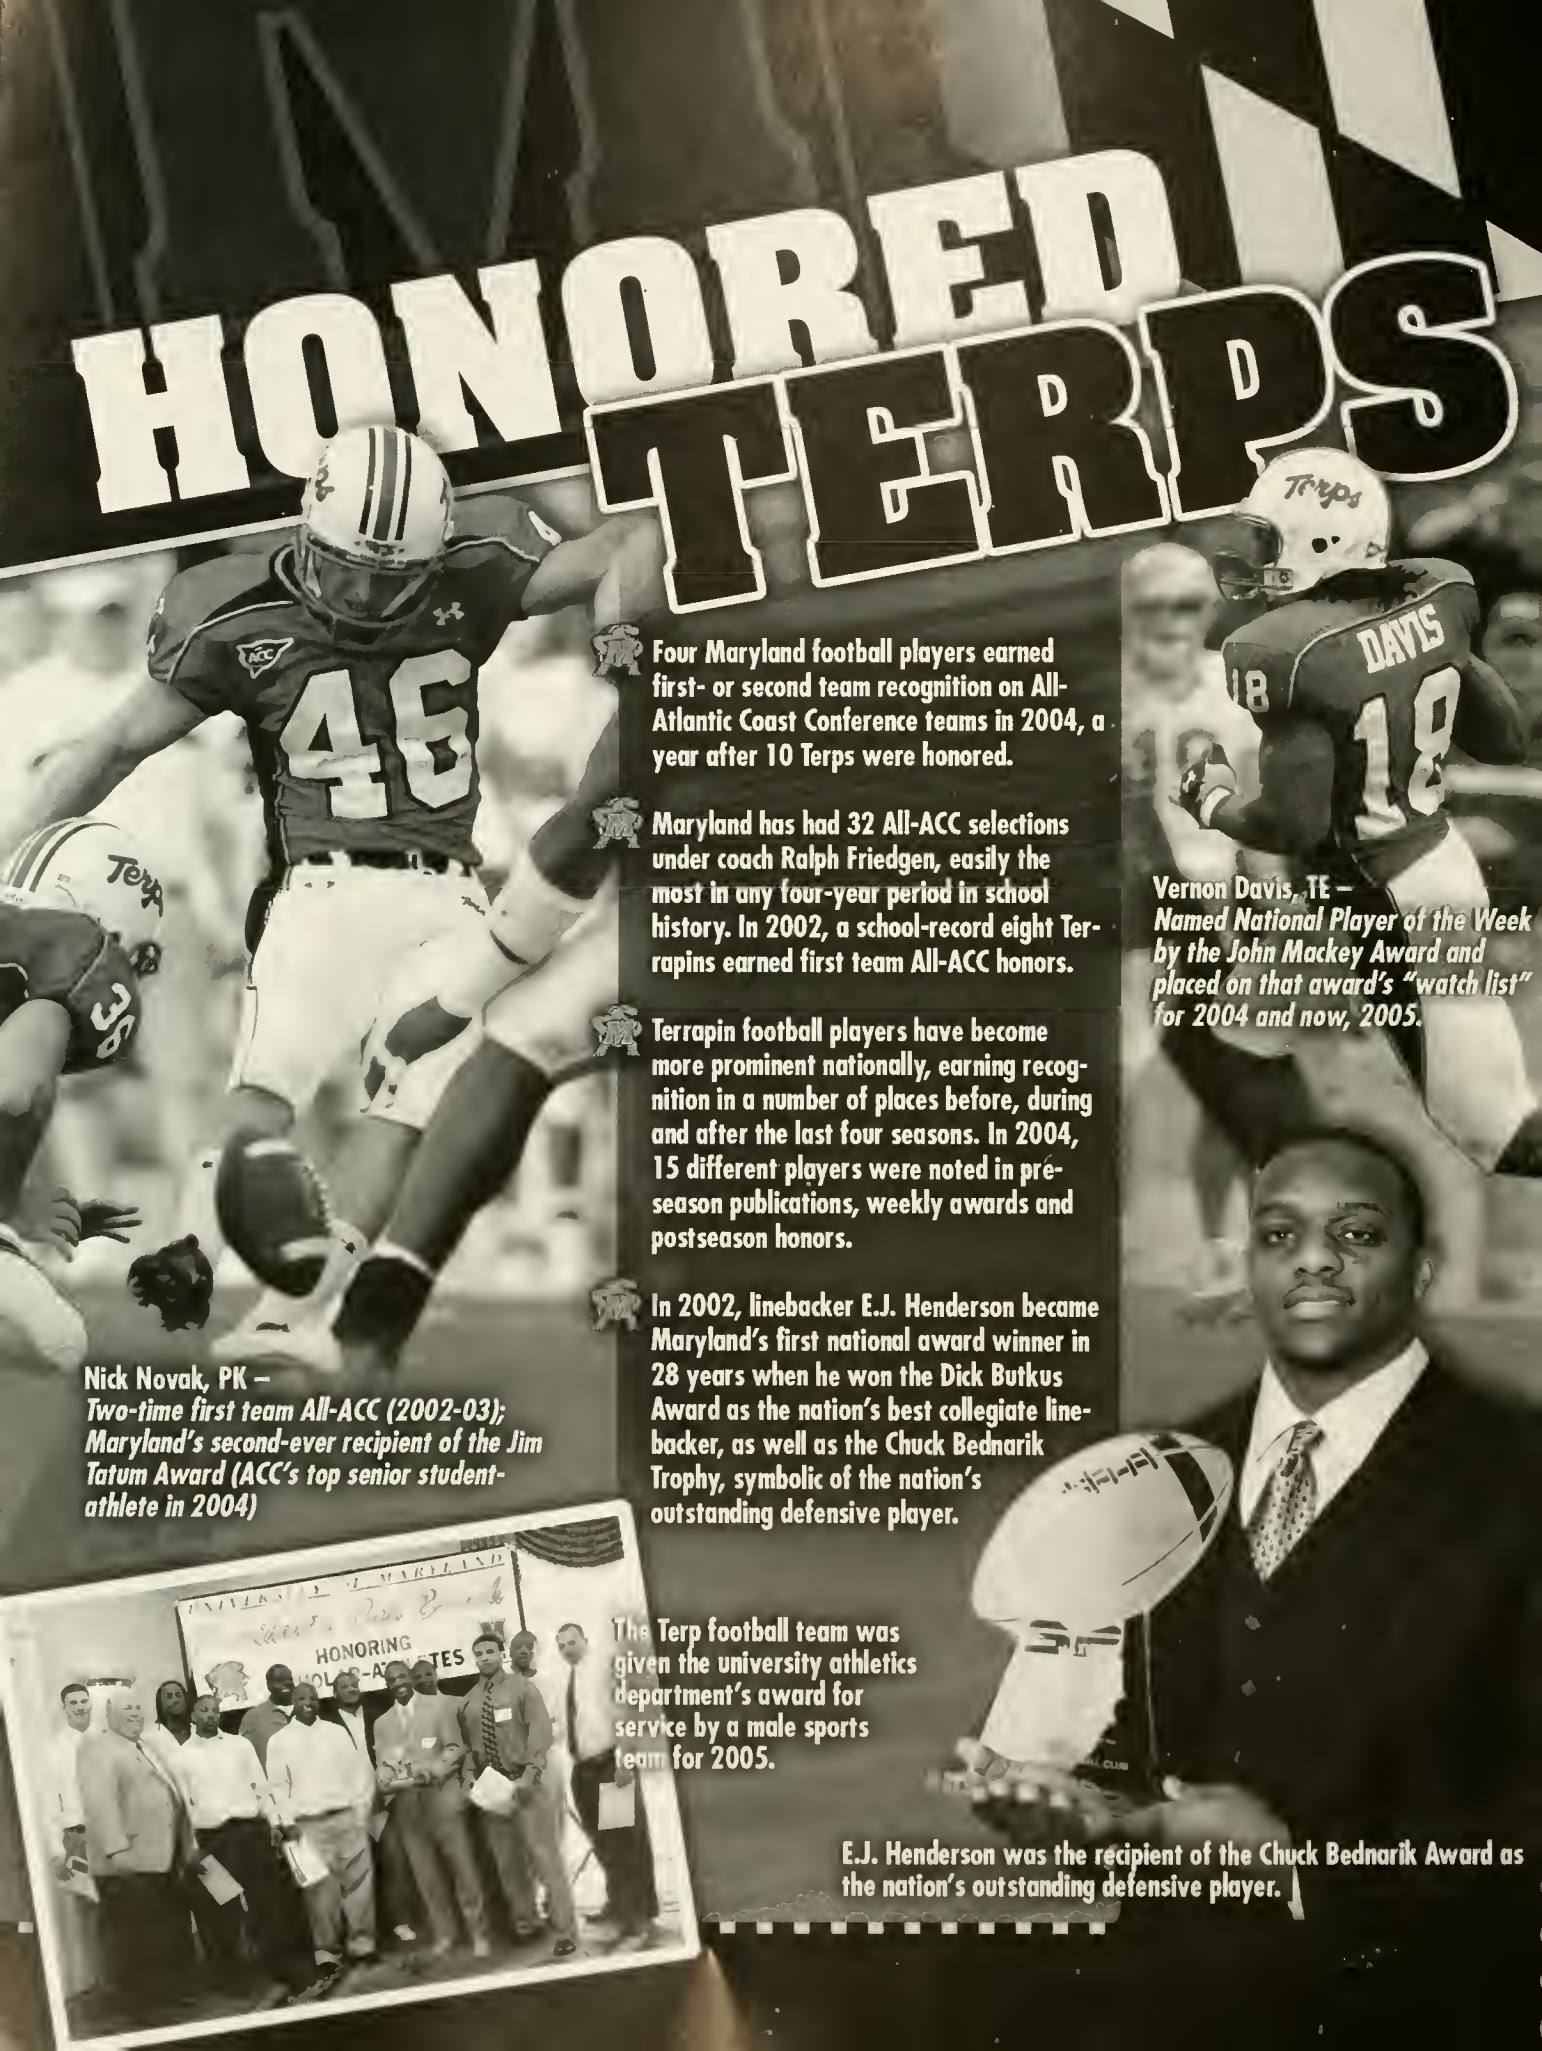


Maryland has made bowl trips in three of the past four seasons. In going to bowls in each of Ralph Friedgen's first three years, the team made three-straight bowl appearances for the fourth time in school history (1973-78 and 1982-85).

The Terps' last two postseason victories have been by a combined 71-10 score, with victories over nationally prominent schools such as Tennessee and West Virginia.

Maryland set 10 school bowl-game records in the New Year's Day victory over West Virginia in the 2004 Toyota Gator Bowl.

HONORED TERPS



Four Maryland football players earned first- or second team recognition on All-Atlantic Coast Conference teams in 2004, a year after 10 Terps were honored.

Maryland has had 32 All-ACC selections under coach Ralph Friedgen, easily the most in any four-year period in school history. In 2002, a school-record eight Terrapins earned first team All-ACC honors.

Terrapin football players have become more prominent nationally, earning recognition in a number of places before, during and after the last four seasons. In 2004, 15 different players were noted in preseason publications, weekly awards and postseason honors.

In 2002, linebacker E.J. Henderson became Maryland's first national award winner in 28 years when he won the Dick Butkus Award as the nation's best collegiate linebacker, as well as the Chuck Bednarik Trophy, symbolic of the nation's outstanding defensive player.

Nick Novak, PK –
Two-time first team All-ACC (2002-03); Maryland's second-ever recipient of the Jim Tatum Award (ACC's top senior student-athlete in 2004)

Vernon Davis, TE –
Named National Player of the Week by the John Mackey Award and placed on that award's "watch list" for 2004 and now, 2005.

The Terp football team was given the university athletics department's award for service by a male sports team for 2005.

E.J. Henderson was the recipient of the Chuck Bednarik Award as the nation's outstanding defensive player.

White usually got in the bigger, nastier licks.

The Atlantic Coast Conference has a brand new look for the 2005-06 year, its 53rd in existence. The new year brings Boston College into the conference, and with last year's addition of Virginia Tech and Miami, the ACC is now one of the top leagues in all of college football.

ACC teams have won two of the last six national championships, five titles since 1990 and nine national crowns overall since the 1981 season.

The ACC now features three teams who have played in five of the first six BCS National Championship games.

For the fourth straight year, the ACC had at least six teams take part in postseason play. The ACC is one of only three I-A conferences to have had each of its current league members participate in a postseason bowl game since 1993. In 2002, the ACC set an NCAA record for the percentage of teams in a conference make the postseason, when seven of the then-nine teams earned bids.

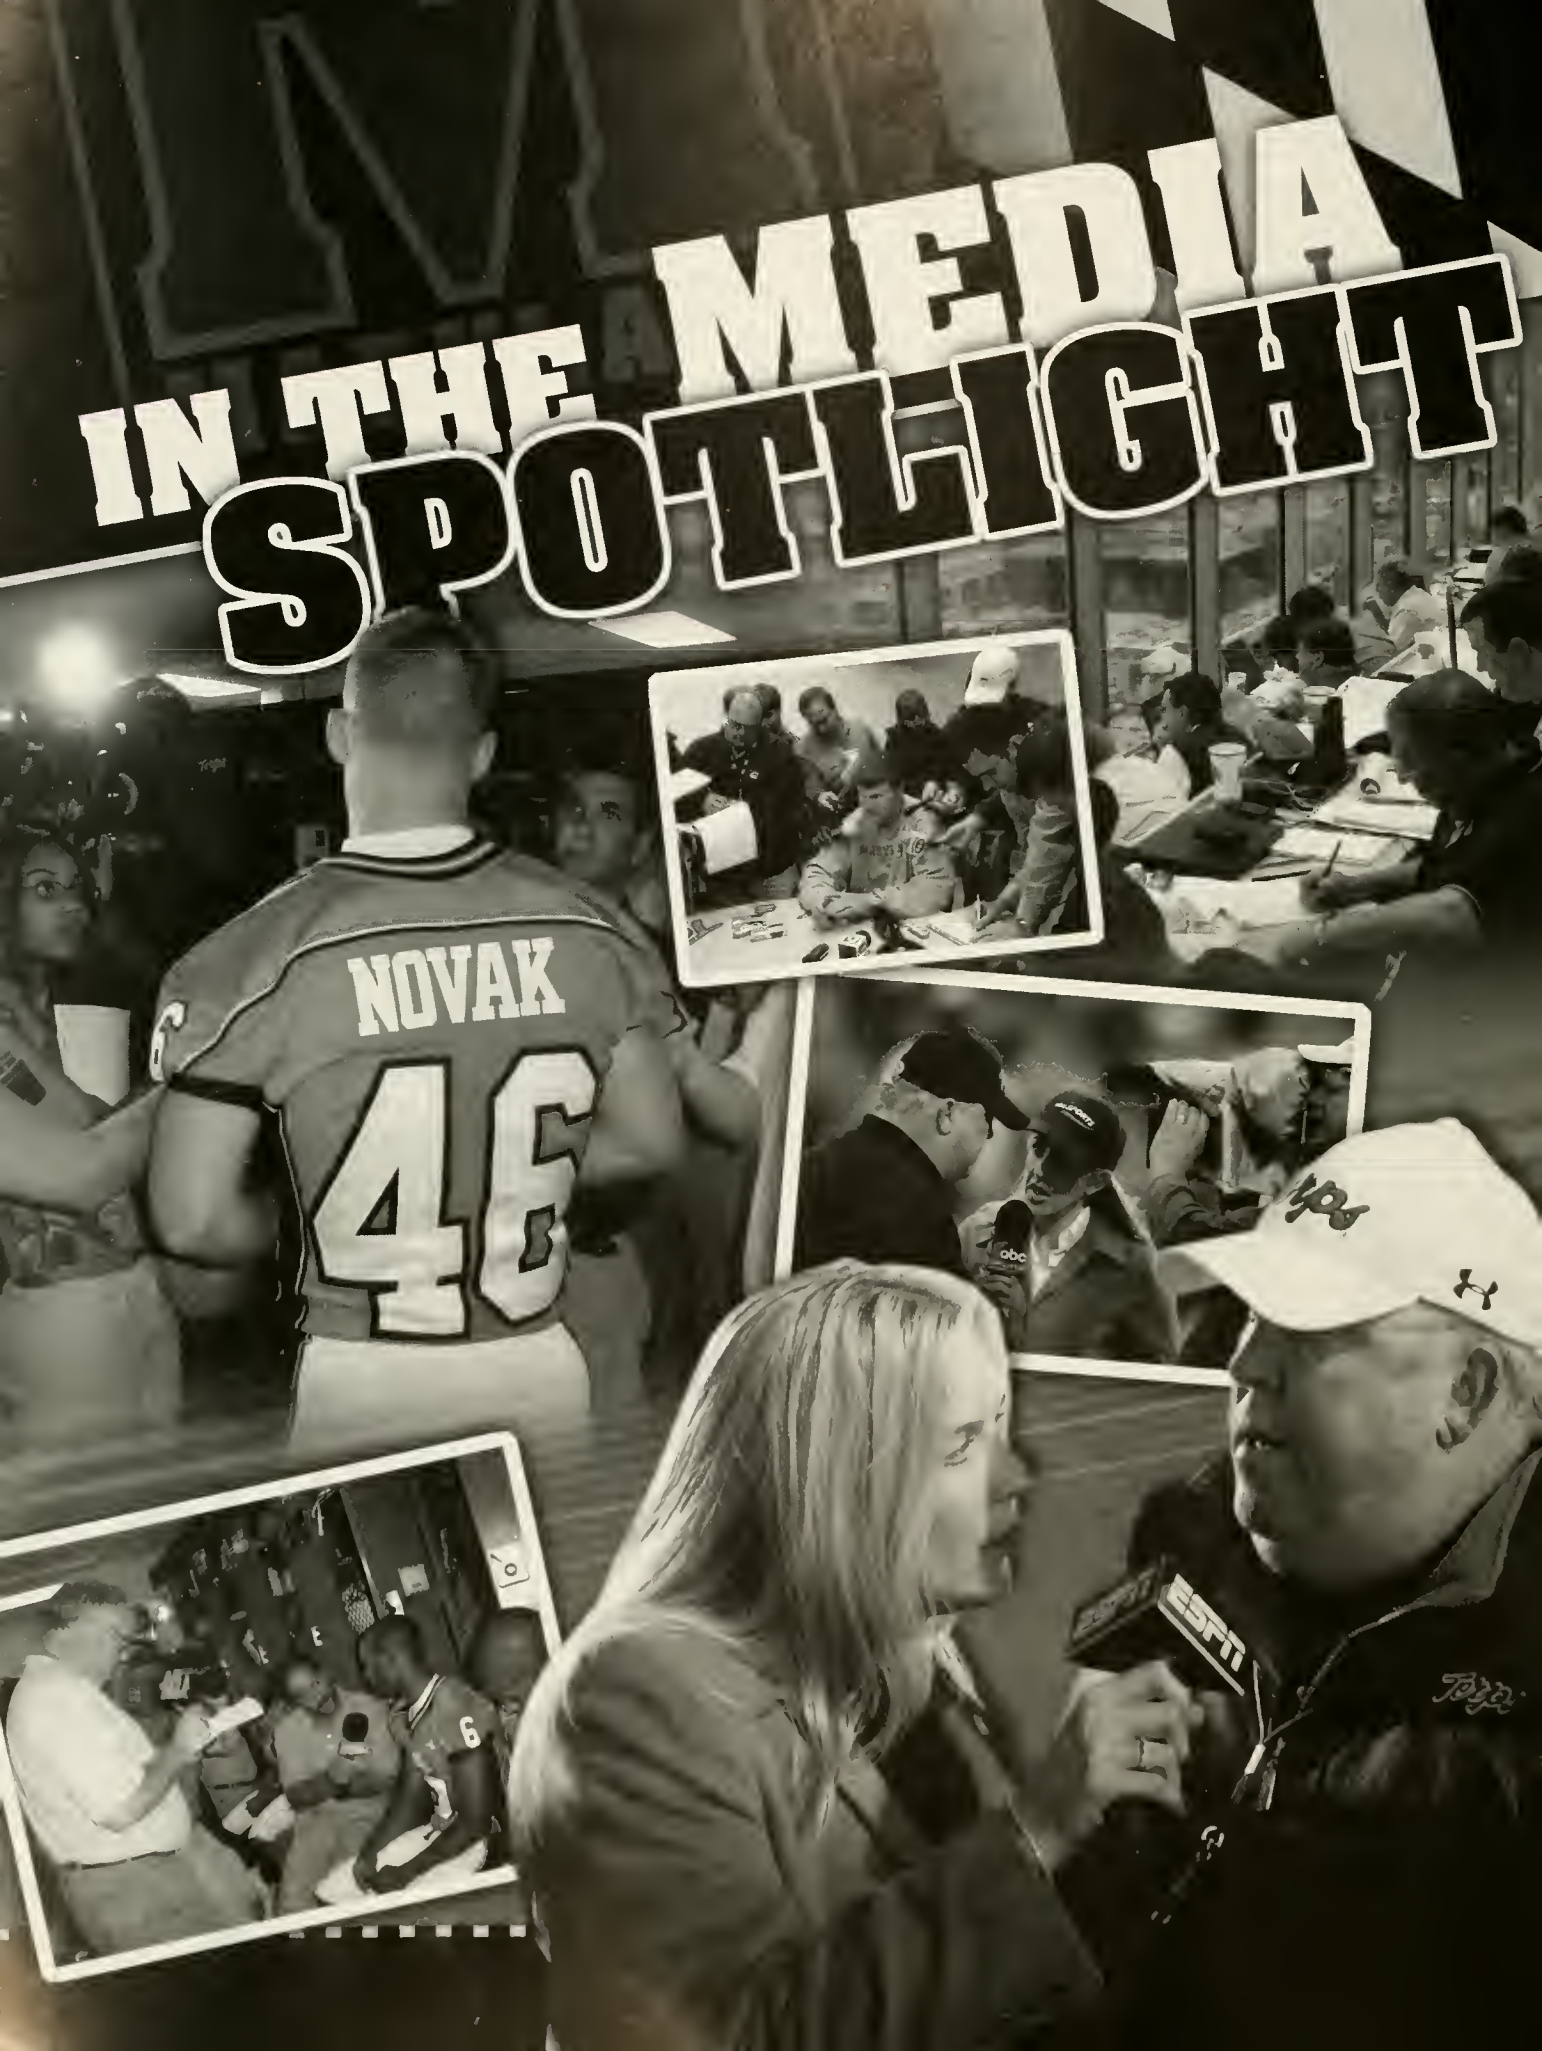
The ACC set two attendance records in 2004 when 3,693,032 fans attended league games, for a record per-game average of 55,655. It was the fifth straight year the ACC broke the per-game mark.

The ACC remains the all-time winningest conference in bowl action among leagues with 50 or more appearances. The ACC is 16-9 in bowl games the past four years and has the best bowl winning percentage (.640) among all BCS conferences.

Parity ruled in 2004, as 20 of the 44 ACC games were decided by seven points or less, including four overtime games.

For the second straight season, the ACC was the top-ranked conference in the final Sagarin Computer rankings.

IN THE MEDIA SPOTLIGHT



DID YOU KNOW?

Playing for the Terps means competing in the nation's fourth-largest media market.

The Terps are covered extensively by two of the nation's top 10 newspapers: the Washington Post and the Baltimore Sun.

USA Today, the nation's newspaper, is headquartered less than 20 miles from Byrd Stadium.

The Maryland Terrapin radio network, which can be accessed up and down the East Coast, boasts one of the largest coverage areas in collegiate sports. Johnny Holliday, one of the top announcers in college football, is in his 27th year as Voice of the Terps.

Every major national television network – ABC, NBC, CBS and FOX – has a major news-gathering affiliate in both Washington and Baltimore. No university in the East boasts eight major news outlets within a 35-mile radius of its campus – except the University of Maryland.

ACC football will receive extensive live television coverage over the next decade, with ABC, ESPN/ESPN2 and Jefferson Pilot Sports combining for more than 200 telecasts.

The Atlantic Coast Conference was cleared on more than 300 radio stations during the 2004 season, totaling more than 500 hours of live game coverage.

ESPN, which originated its first-ever sports telecast from the University of Maryland in 1979, has been a regular visitor to Byrd Stadium over the years. Two Terp games for 2005 have already been tabbed for national coverage by ESPN.

The Tyser Tower press box at Byrd Stadium seats more than 160 members of the print media on its third level and features state-of-the-art facilities for radio and television on the fourth level.

FridgeTV.com made a successful debut in 2003 and has unique insider's views of the Terrapin football program, making it the top coaches' web site in college football.

TERPS NFL CONNECTION

Beginning with Maryland's first-ever NFL draft pick in 1937 and continuing in 2000 with Frank Wycheck's lateral in the "Music City Miracle," the Terrapins have fashioned an impressive tradition in the National Football League. Names like Scarbath, Jones, Nolan, White, Avellini, Esiason, Shiner, O'Donnell, Collins, Nehemiah, Lewis, Glover, Atkinson and Mike-Mayer have dotted NFL rosters over the years. In all, nearly 150 Terrapins have gone on to play professionally following their Maryland careers.

DID YOU KNOW?

Maryland has had 189 National Football League Draft choices since 1937, fourth-most among Atlantic Coast Conference schools.

Including Shawne Merriman, the 12th pick overall in the 2005 draft, there have been 13 Terrapins taken in the first round of the NFL Draft, including a pair of No. 2 overall selections in Jack Scarbath (1953) and Randy White (1975).

Butkus and Bednarik award-winning linebacker E.J. Henderson was selected early in the second round of the 2003 NFL Draft by the Minnesota Vikings. Henderson was the 40th selection overall.

Four former Terrapin quarterbacks have appeared in the Super Bowl: Boomer Esiason (1988), Frank Reich (1990-93), Neil O'Donnell (1995, 2000) and Scott Zolak (1996).

22 former Terrapins were on NFL rosters prior to the start of the 2005 training camps.

Three former Maryland head coaches (Bobby Ross, Lou Saban and Clark Shaughnessy) and four former Maryland players (Dick Modzelewski, Dick Nolan and Ron Waller) have gone on to serve as head coaches in the NFL, while former Maryland player Mike Tice is in his fourth season as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

Former Dallas Cowboy Randy White made eight Pro Bowl appearances during his career, among the most in NFL history. White was co-MVP of Super Bowl XII and was later inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

In three seasons, the Terps were 24-4-1 with Scarbath as QB, including 10-0 in 1951. He went on to become Maryland's second first-round draft pick, going to Washington in 1953.

DICK SHINER (1961-63) — An honorable mention All-America selection in 1962, Shiner was a three-year starter for the Terps. He was a two-time first team All-ACC choice who helped lead the Terps to a 21-17 win over Penn State in just his seventh game as the signal-caller. He was later drafted by the Washington Redskins and went on to play 11 years in the NFL.

BOB AVELLINI (1972-74) — In his first start as a sophomore, he showed a glimpse of things to come, setting school marks for total offense (312 yards) and passing yards (314) while completing 21 of 31 passes in a game vs. Duke. He still ranks among the most accurate passers in school history, completing 58.6 percent of his passes for 3,222 yards. A sixth-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears in 1975, he went on to have a 10-year NFL career.

BOOMER ESIASON (1981-83) — He was a two-time All-American who set 17 school records and led the Terps to the ACC championship in 1983 and a berth in the Tangerine Bowl. Arguably the most prolific left-handed quarterback in NFL history, Esiason was a four-time Pro Bowl selection and spent 14 seasons in pro football. In 1988, he was named the league's MVP and led his Cincinnati Bengals to Super Bowl XXIII against the San Francisco 49ers.

FRANK REICH (1983-84) — Best known for leading the Buffalo Bills back from a 32-point deficit in the 1992 NFL playoffs against Houston, he also commanded the greatest comeback in the college game as well. On Nov. 10, 1984, Reich replaced Stan Gelbaugh at halftime against No. 6 Miami (Fla.) down 31-0. Thirty minutes later, Maryland pulled off the miracle upset, 42-40, preserving its run for a second consecutive ACC title. He finished the season as one of the top-rated passers in the country. He was drafted in the third round of the 1985 draft by Buffalo and appeared in four Super Bowls

STAN GELBAUGH (1984-85) — He played behind Boomer Esiason and Frank Reich before moving into the Terps' starting lineup in 1984 when Reich went down with a shoulder injury. Gelbaugh stepped in to lead Maryland to four wins and a narrow one-point loss on the road to Penn State. The following season, the anticipation of Gelbaugh's return brought the Terps a preseason No. 1 ranking by Sport magazine. The Terps went on to win the ACC title and a Cherry Bowl championship in '85. He served a pair of NFL clubs, the Buffalo Bills and Seattle Seahawks.

NEIL O'DONNELL (1987-89) — A two-year starter for the Terps, he ended his career in the No. 2 spot on most major Maryland passing charts. Drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1990, he became the team's franchise player during his six seasons on the team, making a Pro Bowl appearance in only his second year and leading the Steelers to an appearance in Super Bowl XXX. O'Donnell continued his career with the New York Jets, Cincinnati Bengals and Tennessee Titans.

SCOTT ZOLAK (1989-90) — Despite starting just one season for the Terps, he finished his collegiate career among Terp leaders in passing yards (3,124) and completions (270). His 2,589 passing yards in 1990 ranked as the second-highest single-season total in school history and helped earn him honorable mention All-America recognition from Football News. He was taken in the fourth round of the 1991 NFL draft by the New England Patriots.

Shaun Hill

SCOTT MILANOVICH (1993-95) — He left campus as one of the most decorated Terrapin QBs ever. In fact, Milanovich still owns or shares 31 Maryland passing records, including career standards for passing yards (7,301), touchdowns (49) and completions (650). He was drafted in 1996 by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

SHAUN HILL (2000-2001) — He came to Maryland as a junior-college transfer, won the starting job and flourished under the new system installed by Ralph Friedgen. Hill sparked the Terrapins to the 2001 ACC championship and earned team MVP honors, throwing for 13 touchdowns and rushing for seven more. He was given a chance as a free agent by former Terrapin Mike Tice, currently the head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, and stayed with the squad as their third-team QB. Hill spent the spring of 2003 with the NFL Europe Amsterdam Admirals, where he threw for 2,256 yards and 13 touchdowns. Hill is currently in his fourth year on the Vikings roster.

Scott McBrien

SCOTT MCBRIEN (2002-2003) – After entering the 2002 season still competing for a starting job, few had hopes for Scott McBrien as high as the goals he would accomplish in his two years as a Maryland starter. The southpaw transfer from West Virginia led the Terrapins to 21 wins in his two years as a starter -- most by any Terp QB in two years – and was named most valuable player of the Peach and Gator Bowls. A free agent signee of the Packers in 2004, McBrien left Maryland third all-time in yards (5,169), third in TD passes (34) and first in pass efficiency (142.03) for his career. In 2005, McBrien was the starting quarterback for the Rhein Fire of NFL Europe.

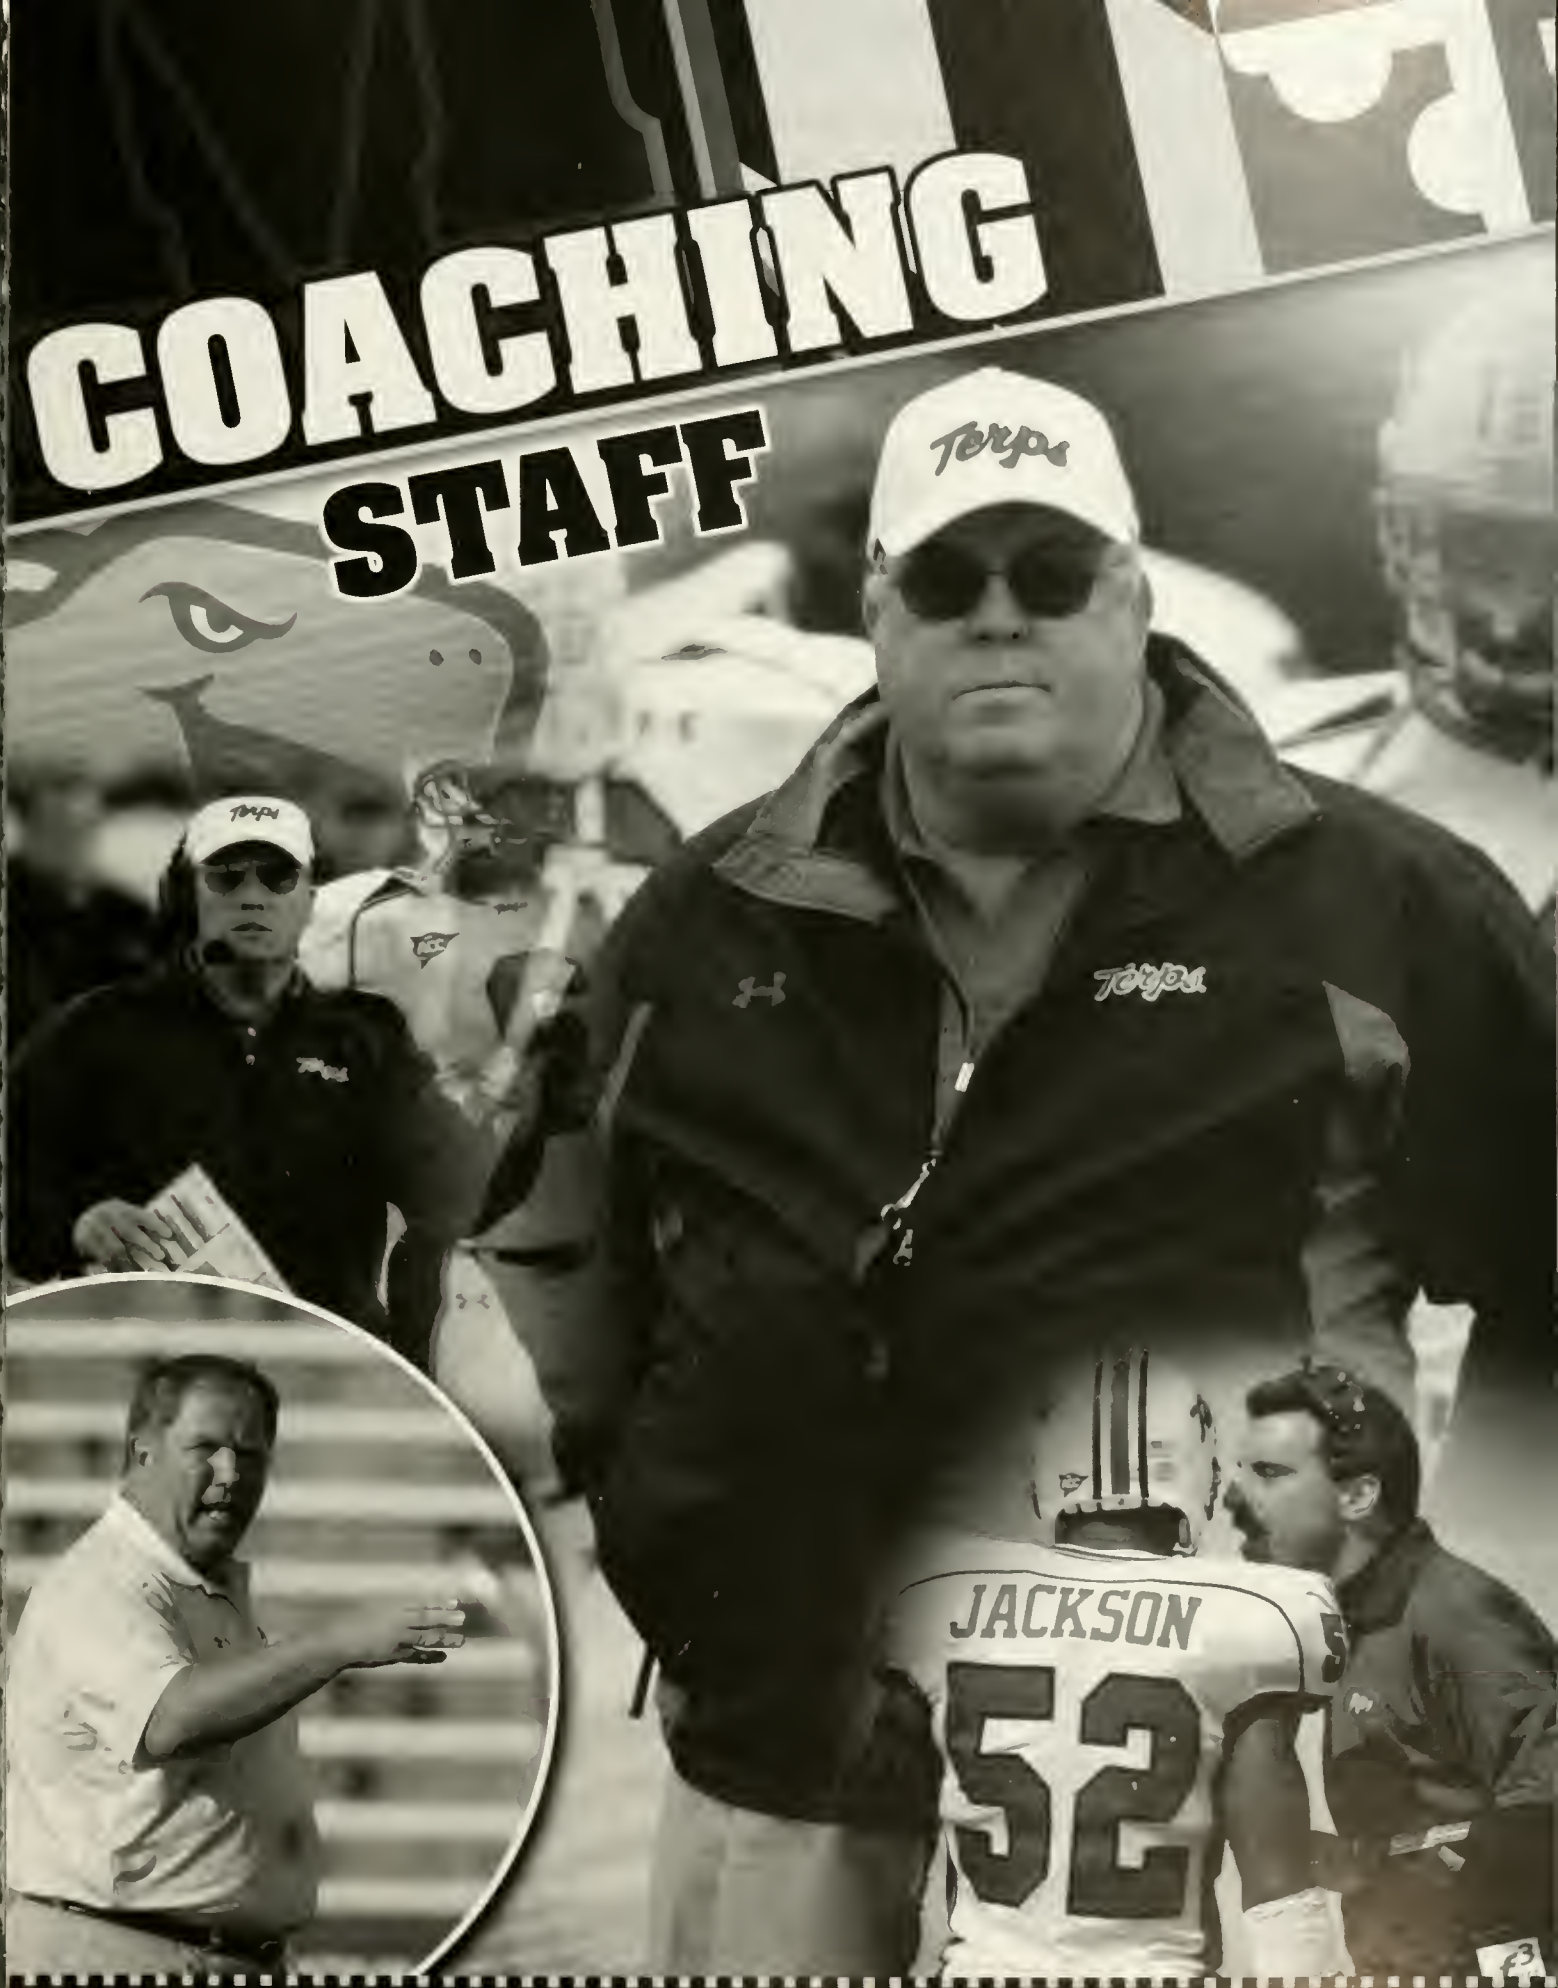
COACHING STAFF



HEAD COACH

RALPH FRIEDGEN

Maryland '70 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Ralph Friedgen, the winningest fourth-year coach in Atlantic Coast Conference history, enters his fifth year at the University of Maryland with a reputation as one of the top coaches in the game.

A long-time successful assistant coach at Georgia Tech, where he was credited with overseeing one of the nation's most potent offensive attacks, Friedgen continues to build a new level of pride and glory to his alma mater's football program, guiding the Terps to a 36-14 record and a trio of major bowl appearances – including two decisive wins -- in his four seasons as a collegiate head coach.

Not only are his 36 wins more than any other fourth-year coach in ACC history, but in his first three seasons at the helm of the Terrapin program, he became the first coach in conference lore to lead a team to three-straight seasons of 10 wins or more. In addition, his 36 wins in four years rank him in the top 10 in NCAA history, surpassing the fourth year marks of coaches such as Frank Leahy and Joe Paterno.

The consensus national Coach of the Year in 2001 after leading Maryland to its first ACC championship since 1985, Friedgen and Company have returned Maryland to prominence on the national scene. The Terrapins have won more games (36) in the four seasons under Friedgen than they had in the nine seasons prior to his arrival (35).

Long overlooked as a head-coaching candidate, the 1970 Maryland graduate was tapped as the Terps' head football coach following the 2000 season, and he wasted no time in returning the program to the glory days it achieved when Friedgen was an assistant to Bobby Ross in the 1980s.

Four years ago, in his first season as the Terps' grid boss, Maryland won its first seven games and eventually halted Florida State's reign as perennial ACC champion, earning the league's automatic berth in the Bowl Championship Series. In 2002, despite a 1-2 start and without 19 seniors from the previous year, the Terps made their way back to a major bowl game, winning 10 of their last 11 games and finishing in a tie for second in the ACC. The 2003 campaign provided a bit of déjà vu for Friedgen and the Terrapins as they again started 1-2, and again ran off 10 wins in their final 11 games to earn a second New Year's bowl bid in three years. The Terrapins' 2004 season was the first without 10 wins under Friedgen, but it did not go without highlights as the young team beat Florida State for the first time in school history.

Friedgen's Terps have gone to bowl games in three of four seasons, participating in the BCS Orange Bowl his first year before posting lopsided victories over Tennessee (30-3) in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl and over West Virginia (41-7) in the Toyota Gator Bowl.

Named the winner of the Frank Broyles Award as the top assistant coach in the country in 1999 while at Tech, Friedgen brought 32 years of assistant coaching experience – including 21 as an offensive coordinator either in college or the NFL – with him in his return to College Park.

The 58-year-old Friedgen (pronounced FREE-jun) owns the rare distinction of coordinating the offense for both a collegiate national champion (Georgia Tech in 1990) and a Super Bowl team (San Diego in 1994).

Friedgen spent 20 seasons with the aforementioned Ross in coaching stops at The Citadel, Maryland, Georgia Tech and the NFL's San Diego Chargers. He returned to Tech in 1997, where he served another successful stint as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach under good friend George O'Leary.

A 1970 graduate of Maryland, where he earned a degree in physical education, Friedgen launched his coaching career as a graduate assistant before heading off to a series of jobs that included stints at The Citadel (1973-79), William & Mary (1980) and Murray State (1981). In '82, he returned to Maryland as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach under Ross, with Friedgen's tenure lasting until 1986. During that stretch, the Terps captured three consecutive ACC championships (1983-85) and played in four bowl games. All told, the Terrapins were 39-15-1 from 1982-86 and won two bowl games (the Sun Bowl in 1984 and the Cherry Bowl in 1985). It is the type of success Friedgen has re-instilled in his current group of Terrapins.

The Ross-Friedgen connection began in 1973, when Ross hired the former Maryland offensive lineman as defensive line coach at The Citadel. Friedgen spent seven seasons at The Citadel, the last three as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. Friedgen then worked one season (1980) as offensive coordinator at William & Mary and one season (1981) as

On Friedgen...

"Some people look at a football field and see hash marks and yard lines. Ralph Friedgen sees plays and patterns invisible to every other naked eye. And if anyone on defense does see them, they see them a step too late. More important, Ralph has the skill to teach what he sees to his players."

"You always hear about great middleweights who are "pound for pound" the best fighters in the world. That's meant as a compliment to smaller men. Ralph is not a small man, but pound for pound he's still the best offensive coach in the country."

– Ivan Maisel, ESPN.com

On Friedgen...

"The thing that is most impressive to me about Ralph Friedgen is that he adapts to personnel changes and the shifts that you see in the course of a game unlike many coaches you will find in the college game. He is a coach that gives you a secure feeling that — no matter how many players leave the program through graduation or through the NFL – this is a team that will never feel like it is rebuilding. That it will always be on a steady flow upward.

"I think great leaders have a certain aura that you can't pinpoint and he is a tremendous leader because he gives such a secure, confident feeling to the fans and anybody associated with the program that a solid job is going to be done and that Maryland is going to be in contention, year-in and year-out."

assistant head coach at Murray State before Ross tapped him to be his offensive coordinator at Maryland in 1982.

During his five-year stay at Maryland under Ross, Friedgen was instrumental in the development of future pro quarterbacks Boomer Esiason, Frank Reich and Stan Gelbaugh, all of whom spent at least 10 seasons in the National Football League. Esiason played professionally from 1984-97, Reich from 1985-98 and Gelbaugh from 1986-95.

Friedgen followed Ross to Georgia Tech in 1987, becoming the Yellow Jackets' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for the next five seasons, including the 1990 campaign when Tech, unranked in the preseason, captured the national championship with an 11-0-1 record. The national title came just two years after the Jackets had posted back-to-back seasons of three wins or less.

When Ross was named head coach of the San Diego Chargers in 1992, he tapped Friedgen to serve as running game coordinator for two seasons (1992-93) before elevating him to offensive coordinator in 1994, when the Chargers advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in franchise history. During his time with the Chargers, Friedgen helped a club that had not made the playoffs in a decade reach postseason play three times in five seasons.

Known for developing balanced offensive attacks with multiple looks, Tech was one of only two teams in the country in 1999 to average at least 200 yards rushing and 200 yards passing. Tech also accomplished the feat under Friedgen's guidance in 1990, '91 and '98. The 1999 team, with the diminutive Joe Hamilton at quarterback, set 59 school records, rewriting many marks established by the 1990 national championship team, which was led by another Friedgen pupil, Shawn Jones (1989-92). Friedgen was a finalist for the Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach in 1998 when the Rambling Wreck set a then-school record with 50 touchdowns.

The first Maryland alum since Bob Ward (1967-68) to serve as the Terps' head football coach, Friedgen originally

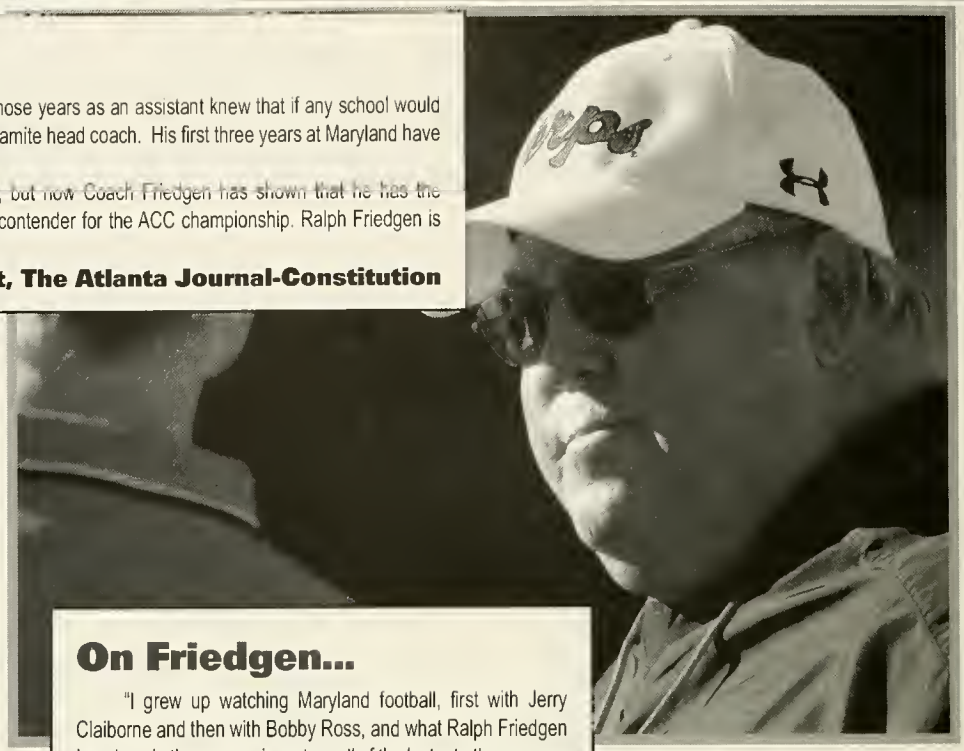
On Friedgen...

"Those of us who watched Coach Friedgen for all those years as an assistant knew that if any school would finally have the good sense to hire him, he would be a dynamite head coach. His first three years at Maryland have certainly proven that to be true.

"Everyone knew he had a brilliant offensive mind, but now Coach Friedgen has shown that he has the complete package of skills to make Maryland an annual contender for the ACC championship. Ralph Friedgen is the real deal."

–Tony Barnhart, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution



came to Maryland as a quarterback in the mid-'60s and spent most of his career as an offensive lineman, lettering in 1966 and '68 and capturing Academic All-ACC honors. He was a two-time winner of the George C. Cook Memorial Award (1968-69) for having the highest academic average on the football team.

"Coach Friedgen is an experienced and consistently successful football coach who also has a passion for Maryland," said Maryland athletics director Deborah A. Yow. "He understands the ACC, embraces Maryland's philosophy of the student-athlete, and has a clear and complete vision for returning Maryland to national prominence."

Because of his obvious ties to Maryland as a university and a state, Friedgen has stated implicitly that he wants to keep the area's best players at home.

"I think that has to be the main focus of our recruiting," said Friedgen. ""We have to get the better players from the state. Not every player is meant to come to the University of Maryland, but a large portion of them should. I know a lot of coaches in this area and they know me from the last time I was here, a lot of the coaches are former Maryland players and I think it is time the Maryland community unites. We have a Terrapin now as the head coach. The alumni, the fans, the former players; we all have to become a strong force. Part of that is going to be recruiting in the state and I am going to rely on those former players to get the better prep players to stay in state."

Friedgen's coaching roots run deep. His father, also named Ralph (though not a "Sr."), was a high school coach for more than 30 years and masterminded, among other teams, the 1964 Westchester County (N.Y.) High School team that went undefeated and averaged 44 points per game running what was then an unusual multiple offense. It was an offense run by a 190-pound quarterback later recruited by Maryland who shared his name. Maybe as a sign of things to come, the younger Ralph called all of his team's offensive plays from his junior year on.

Friedgen and his wife, the former Gloria Spina, have three daughters: Kelley, Kristina and Katie. Gloria is currently serving as an adjunct professor at the University of Maryland; Kelley passed the bar and is currently in Germany on a law fellowship; Kristina is in her second year in the theater program at Maryland; and Katie is a student at Sherwood High School.

On Friedgen...

"I grew up watching Maryland football, first with Jerry Claiborne and then with Bobby Ross, and what Ralph Friedgen has done in three years is restore all of the luster to the program that those guys built. The tradition that they established, he took years of dust off of it and shined it probably brighter than when those great coaches were here.

"I think that what is most exciting for all of us who are Terrapin fans is to see where it is that he takes the program from here. Because when he gets all of his guys in there – look out. There is no reason to believe that Ralph can't take Terrapin football to heights it has never seen before."

– Scott Van Pelt, ESPN anchor and Maryland grad

Ralph Friedgen and his wife, Gloria, meet President George W. Bush at the 2002 White House Correspondent's Dinner.

TERP HIGHLIGHTS UNDER FRIEDGEN

- A 36-14 record in his first four years, including the first back-to-back-to-back 10-win seasons in university history (10-2 in 2001, 11-3 in 2002 and 10-3 in 2003).
- A school record-tying 11-victory season in 2002, when the Terps won 10 of their last 11 games. Only the 1976 team won as many games.
- Maryland was joined by only four other Division I-A schools - Miami (Fla.), Oklahoma, Texas and Washington State - to have won as many as 10 games in the 2001, 2002 and 2003 seasons.
- A top 20 final national ranking in both major national polls for three straight years (2001-03). Maryland ended 2003 ranked 17th in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' poll and 20th by the Associated Press A year ago, the Terps were ranked 13th in both polls and in 2001 the team finished 10th in the ESPN/USA Today poll and 11th in the AP standings. It was the program's best three-year ranking finish since 1974-76 (when the Terps finished 13th, 13th and eighth).
- Friedgen is the most successful fourth-year coach in ACC history, with his 36-14 mark eclipsing those of such former league mentors as Danny Ford, Bobby Ross and Lou Holtz. Friedgen is also the eighth-winningest active head coach in the NCAA with a .720 winning percentage.
- Bowl appearances in three of his first four seasons, including dominating wins in the 2004 Toyota Gator Bowl (41-7) and a 2002 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl victory over perennial national power Tennessee (a team ranked fifth in the two major preseason polls). The Terrapins also earned a BCS Orange Bowl berth during the 2001 campaign.
- A 22-10 (.688) Atlantic Coast Conference record, including a 7-1 mark in 2001 when the Terps became the first team other than Florida State to win an outright ACC title since the Seminoles joined the league, and a 6-2 mark and runner-up finish in 2002.
- Twenty-three wins in 26 games at Byrd Stadium, where the Terps averaged a school-record 51,410 fans in six home games.
- The program's first major national award winner since '74 in linebacker E.J. Henderson, a two-time consensus first team All-American who was named the winner of the Dick Butkus Award (nation's outstanding linebacker) and the Chuck Bednarik Trophy (nation's outstanding defensive player) in 2002.
- Back-to-back school records in number of first team All-ACC performers in 2001 (7) and 2002 (8) and an ACC-best 13 overall all-conference honors.
- Twenty-nine weeks in at least one of the country's two major Top 25 polls, including a streak of seven consecutive weeks at the start of the 2004 campaign.
- The only consensus national coach of the year award (2001) in Maryland football history.
- Consecutive seasons of over 31,000 season tickets sold.
- Back-to-back school scoring records (2001 and 2002) and a two-year team scoring average of more than 33 points per game in those seasons.
- Four-straight impressive season-long defensive performances in which the Terps have allowed under 20 points per game since he became head coach. Maryland finished 2004 ranked in the top 25 nationally in three categories (pass defense, pass efficiency defense and total defense).
- Fifteen Terps earning All-American recognition, including seven who earned national citations in 2002 (three in 2004).
- Twenty-one national TV appearances, including a school-record eight showings in 2002. Maryland played on ESPN or ABC Regional a total of seven times last season.

FRIEDGEN THROUGH THE YEARS

Friedgen (17) was the starting quarterback for Harrison High School in New York, playing under his father Ralph Friedgen.

Friedgen returned to Maryland as an assistant coach in 1982, where he served through 1986.

Friedgen as a student at Maryland in 1968.

A high school quarterback, Freidgen spent most of his playing days at Maryland on the offensive line.

Friedgen, winner of the 1999 Frank Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach, with 2000 winner Mark Mangino, then an assistant at Oklahoma.

After stints at Georgia Tech and with the NFL's San Diego Chargers, Friedgen returned to his alma mater, as he was named head coach on Nov. 29, 2000.

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS

CHARLIE TAAFFE

Siena '73 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Since Taaffe's arrival, the Terps have earned the respect of opponents with a balanced attack that can beat opponents both on the ground and through the air. Last season was the offense's toughest in the last four years, but the season still produced a near-win on the road against the nation's No. 7 team (West Virginia) and the school's first-ever victory over Florida State, then ranked No. 5. A year earlier, Taaffe helped guide the Terps through a myriad of injury problems to finish the season ranked in the top 30 nationally in four offensive categories (rushing (24th), total offense (28th), scoring (27th) and pass efficiency (26th)). It was a season that began with some difficulty, but ended with Maryland rolling to an average 514.6 yards of offense in its last five games.

In 2002, the Terps set a school record for points scored with 451 while finishing second in the ACC in rushing (198.8 ypg) and scoring (32.2 ppg) offense. Taaffe helped guide quarterback Scott McBrien from what seemed like a possible early season liability into an honorable mention all-league performer who finished 12th nationally in pass efficiency.

In his first year, Taaffe was able to steer Maryland to 390 points (then a school record as well), or an average of 35.5 per outing. The Terps' 439.7 yards of total offense per game were tops in the ACC. Taaffe's expertise in the option helped the team to an average of 220.7 yards per game on the ground, second-best in the league. From an individual standpoint, Shaun Hill flourished at quarterback, becoming the leader of the offense en route to a second team All-ACC selection.

Before making his way to Maryland, Taaffe spent two years with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, where he served as head coach in 1999 and 2000. With Taaffe at the helm, the Alouettes had a combined 25-14 record (back-to-back 12-6 regular seasons and a 1-2 playoff record) and advanced to the 2000 Grey Cup finals. For his efforts in 1999 and 2000, Taaffe was named CFL Coach of the Year, making him only the second Montreal coach to earn such distinction (Marv Levy being the first in 1974) and the first coach in league history to earn the honor in each of his first two years. He also earned the same distinction from the Canadian Football Writers Association. All together, Taaffe spent four years in Montreal, as he served two years as the Alouettes' offensive coordinator before taking over as head coach.

While in Canada, Taaffe's offenses put up some lofty numbers. In 2000, the Alouettes broke the all-time league record for points in a regular season as they posted 594. Taaffe helped quarterback Anthony Calvillo to a 112.9 pass efficiency rating in 2000 after a 108.9 rating led the league. Former Boston College back Mike Pringle also excelled in Taaffe's system, as he ran for a league-best 1,656 yards in 1999.

Prior to his stint north of the border, Taaffe was the head coach at The Citadel from 1987-96. Taaffe took the Bulldogs to new heights in his 10 years with the Division I-AA school as he won more games than any coach in the history of the school. Prior to his tenure, The Citadel had not won a league game or road game in more than two seasons. Under Taaffe, the Bulldogs won a Southern Conference championship, finished a regular season (1992) ranked No. 1 in the country and advanced to the Division I-AA playoffs three times. He was the 1992 recipient of the Eddie Robinson Award (which recognizes the top coach in Division I-AA), the Southern Conference Coach of the Year in 1988 and '90, and the Kodak Region II Coach of the Year in those same seasons. In addition, his teams beat six different Division I-A opponents (in 12 tries), including upsets of South Carolina (1990) and Arkansas (1992), and four of his teams were ranked in the final national I-AA poll (14th in 1988; 15th in 1990; 20th in 1991; 1st in 1992).

His 1992 team was arguably the best in The Citadel's history as it finished 11-2, was the top ranked team at the end of the regular season, and fell to the eventual champ (Youngstown State) in the quarterfinals. For his efforts in '92, Taaffe was named AFCA Division I-AA National Coach of the Year. His overall record at The Citadel was 55-47-1, with six seasons of .500 or better.

Taaffe came to The Citadel after a successful stint as an offensive assistant at the U.S. Military Academy from 1981-86. In the three years Taaffe served as Army's offensive coordinator, the Cadets had a combined record of 23-13.

Taaffe's ties to the Atlantic Coast Conference are strong. Before his stint at The Citadel, Taaffe coached at three different ACC schools for a total of seven years. From 1976-80, he was an assistant at Virginia where he coached the offensive backfield, linebackers and special teams. His position with the Cavaliers came on the heels of graduate assistantships with NC State (1975, backs) and Georgia Tech (1974, receivers).

The 1973 season was Taaffe's first as a coach at the collegiate level as he was an offensive backfield coach at Albany (N.Y.) State College. The position came right after his graduation from Siena College in Siena, N.Y., where he was a quarterback for three years and earned a B.A. in education in 1973. He was inducted into Siena's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1990.

Born April 20, 1950, Taaffe is married to the former Jan Anderson, a former athletic trainer at Army. The couple has one son, Brian, an aspiring young athlete who was born March 17, 1989.

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR/SECONDARY

GARY BLACKNEY

Connecticut '67 • Fifth Year at Maryland

In four seasons, Blackney has taken the Maryland defense and transformed it from a liability to one of the best units in the nation. In each of his four years, the Terps have finished the season in the nation's top 30 in scoring defense, with the 2004 team's 27th ranking being the only time the team finished outside of the top 20. In fact, only one school (Georgia) has finished higher than Maryland in the NCAA rankings each of those four years.

Last season, the Terrapins were put in one tough spot after another but remained one of the nation's best units, particularly in the pass defense department. Maryland finished 21st nationally in total defense (315.3 ypg) while ranking eighth in pass defense (172.3 ypg) and 16th in pass efficiency (106.59) while allowing just seven passing TDs all year. The defense produced two first team All-ACC players in DE Shawne Merriman and LB D'Qwell Jackson while Merriman was the 12th overall selection of the 2005 NFL Draft.

In 2003, the Terp defense was the rock while the offense took a few games early to get on track. In the end, the team finished ranked in the nation's top 25 in pass efficiency defense (17th, 105.86), total defense (15th, 308.4 ypg), scoring defense (sixth, 15.9 ppg) and pass defense (12th, 179.0 ypg). That season, all four of Blackney's starting defensive backs earned all-conference recognition.

In 2002, the Terrapin defense ranked first in the ACC and seventh nationally in scoring, allowing a paltry 16.3 points per game. In addition, the Maryland rushing and passing defense each ranked in the top three in the league while the team was second in the conference in sacks (37) and red-zone defense.

Under Blackney's guidance in 2001, the Terrapin defense led the ACC in scoring defense (19.1 ppg), rushing defense (90.6 ypg) and sacks (37). In addition, the Terps were second nationally in interceptions (24) and tied for seventh in turnovers forced with 34. The 24 interceptions were the most by a Maryland team in 51 years.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Blackney most recently served as the head coach at Bowling Green State University. He resigned his post following the final game of the 2000 season after 10 successful years with the program and an overall record of 60-50-2 (47-32-2, Mid-American Conference). The BGSU job was his first as a head coach and his 60 wins ranked third on the school's all-time list when he took the Maryland job.

Blackney left Bowling Green as the only coach in school history to win a bowl game, as he led the Falcons to victories in the 1991 California Raisin Bowl (28-21 over Fresno State) and the 1992 Las Vegas Bowl (35-34 over Nevada). With 11 wins in 1991 and 10 in 1992, he is the only coach in BGSU history to have back-to-back seasons of 10 wins or more. In doing so, he also became one of just three coaches ever to have been named Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year in consecutive seasons. Other honors at Bowling Green included being named a finalist for Football News' National Coach of the Year award in 1991 as well as two selections as AFCA Region 3 Coach of the Year (in '91 and '92).

The 1991 season was Blackney's first as a head coach, and with 11 wins that year, he tied an NCAA record for most wins by a first-year head coach. In fact, his career at Bowling Green began with a MAC-record 19 straight conference wins and a 22-game unbeaten streak in the first two years. But the accolades did not end on the playing field for Blackney. When he left, he was the only coach from the MAC to have his recruiting classes receive the American Football Coaches Association Academic Achievement Award (70 percent or better graduation rate) each year of the award's existence. His first recruiting class (1991-92) finished with one of the top marks in the nation at 93 percent.

Prior to taking over at Bowling Green, Blackney was an assistant coach for 21 years. After serving as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Connecticut, in 1968 and '69, he got his first full-time position in 1970 as a defensive backs coach at Brown. He then spent two seasons (1973-74) as offensive backs coach at Rhode Island.

From there his stint serving big-time programs began, often alongside some of the game's most recognized names. From 1975-77, he was a defensive backs coach and ultimately defensive coordinator (1977) at Wisconsin. After three years with the Badgers, he moved to the west coast and UCLA where he worked as a defensive backs coach under Terry Donahue. In 1980, Blackney came back east to Syracuse where he held the same post from 1980-83 under Dick MacPherson. His final coaching spot before Bowling Green was at Ohio State where he began his tenure in 1984 as a defensive backs coach under Earle Bruce and ended as an inside linebackers coach from 1988-90 under John Cooper. In between (1985-87), he was the Buckeyes' defensive coordinator.

Of all of his positions, however, none had the eventual name power that could match that of his playing days at Connecticut. In Storrs, he was on a team that featured names such as Rick Forzano, Lou Holtz, former Cleveland Browns head coach Sam Rutigliano, as well as eventual NFL assistants Dave Adolph and Dan Sekanovich.

A 1967 graduate and former running back/defensive back at UConn, Blackney is a native of Plainview, N.Y., and was born in Astoria, N.Y. He and his wife, Lauretta, have four children (Debbie, David, Kyle and Gary, Jr.) and four grandchildren (Kene, Jamie, Abby and Celia).

Blackney's granddaughters Abby, Keri, Celia, and Jamie.

INSIDE LINEBACKERS

TIM BANKS

Central Michigan '95 • Third Year at Maryland

Tim Banks enters his third season at the University of Maryland, serving as the Terrapins' inside linebackers coach after joining the staff in 2003. Banks came to College Park from the University of Memphis.

In his first two seasons with the Terps, Banks helped coach a linebacking unit that was one of the keys to a defense that has been consistently among the national leaders since 2001. Under his tutelage, D'Qwell Jackson has become one of the top linebackers in the country, earning first team All-ACC honors in 2004 while finishing a close second in Defensive Player of the Year voting for the league. Jackson led the ACC and finished 11th in the NCAA in tackles with 123 while pacing a Terp defense that ranked 21st nationally, allowing just 315.3 yards per game.

Banks joined the Tiger staff when former Clemson head coach Tommy West took the reins of the Memphis program in '01. He oversaw outside linebackers in his first season in Memphis before taking over as cornerbacks coach for the 2002 campaign. In his first season coaching cornerbacks, the Tigers finished ninth in Division I-A in pass defense, allowing an average of just 165.8 yards per game.

Now entering his 10th year of coaching at the collegiate level, Banks is another Terrapin coach with ties to the current staff. Prior to his being hired at Memphis, Banks served as defensive backs coach at Bowling Green State under current Terp defensive coordinator Gary Blackney. Like his first season coaching cornerbacks at Memphis, Banks' first season coaching defensive backs at Bowling Green offered immediate results as the Falcons tripled their interception total from the previous year.

In addition to coaching under Blackney, Banks also served alongside current Terp assistant Al Seamonson, who was the Falcons' linebackers coach in 2000. All told, Banks spent two years as a full-time coach at BGSU -- both during the Blackney regime -- serving one (1999) as a running backs coach and the other (2000) in charge of the defensive backs.

Bowling Green was also the site of the start of Banks' coaching career as he was the school's graduate assistant for the 1996 season after completing his collegiate playing career. After serving that season working with the Falcons' defense, he was hired to his first full-time post, coaching defensive backs at Ferris State University in Big Rapids, Mich. In his two seasons, he worked as the Bulldogs' defensive backs coach while also having a hand in the passing game and special teams.

A four-year letterwinner at cornerback for Central Michigan, Banks graduated in 1995 with a bachelor of science degree in industrial management. In his time with the Chippewas, Banks earned All-Mid-American Conference honors as a junior and a senior while also being named his team's most valuable defensive back in those seasons. A team co-captain his senior year, Banks finished his career with over 200 tackles and a pair of interceptions.

Born December 16, 1971, Banks is a native of Detroit, Mich. He and his wife, Robin, were married in 1994.

WIDE RECEIVERS

BRYAN BOSSARD

Delaware '89 • First Year at Maryland

Bryan Bossard is in his first year as wide receivers coach at Maryland after joining the staff in early March, 2005. He comes to the Terps after a three-year stint at nearby Delaware.

Bossard's most recent stint with the Blue Hens – his second – was a productive one. In his first season back in Newark, Delaware succeeded offensively despite the team having four different freshmen starters at wide receiver and a first-year quarterback. Most importantly, his efforts in '03 helped lead the Blue Hens to a 15-1 record and the Division I-AA national championship. For the first time in school history, three different UD receivers caught 50 passes or more.

In 2004, Bossard helped coach receiver David Boler to a top 30 national ranking in I-AA in both receptions per game (21st, 5.91) and receiving yards per game (29th, 82.1).

Prior to heading back to Delaware, Bossard served as a defensive backs coach at the University of Wyoming from 2000-01. He took that post in Laramie after one year at Army, his first coaching job at the I-A level (wide receivers).

Bossard's longest consecutive stint at any school was his in first post at Delaware where he was receivers coach from 1994-98. The highlight of his first stint included playoff appearances in 1995, 1996 and 1997, each of which featured 12-2 records and national semifinal berths.

Now in his 15th year overall as a full-time coach, Bossard's first collegiate coaching post was as a graduate assistant at Delaware (1990), followed by jobs with Morehouse College (1991), West Chester University (1992) and Bucknell (1992-93). Every job he has had has either involved coaching receivers or coaching the players trying to stop them (defensive backs).

Prior to beginning his career as a college coach, Bossard served one year as an assistant coach at Glasgow High School in Newark, Del., helping lead his team to the state title in his only season.

In addition to his coaching at the collegiate level, Bossard also served summer coaching internships with the National Football League's Chicago Bears in 1996 and '97.

A native of and all-state prep performer from Dover, Del., Bossard was a standout defensive back at UD from 1985-88, helping the Blue Hens advance to the I-AA playoffs in both his sophomore and senior seasons. A three-year letterwinner, he earned second team All-Yankee Conference honors as a senior and was selected as the team's Outstanding Senior Defensive Player (Blue Hen Touchdown Club). He posted 122 tackles that season, including the fourth-highest total in school history (22 vs. Navy).

Bossard graduated from Delaware in 1989 with a bachelor's degree in agricultural business management.

OFFENSIVE LINE

TOM BRATTAN

Delaware '72 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Tom Brattan is in his fifth season as the Terps' offensive line coach. He boasts 33 years of coaching experience, including 23 at the collegiate level.

The Maryland offensive line has been one of the strengths under Brattan since 2001, producing six first team all-conference performers, including guard C.J. Brooks in 2004. The 2003 season was one of Brattan's most challenging, yet rewarding seasons as a collegiate coach. The '03 Terrapin offensive line suffered through injury after injury – specifically at the guard position – but Brattan continued to field a unit that fought and clawed until the Maryland offense got on track. In the end, Brooks was named first team All-ACC, and center Kyle Schmitt had his best season, posting the team's highest grade. Despite the early injury trouble, the Terps finished the season allowing just 20 sacks while ranking second in the league and 24th nationally in rushing offense (191.3 ypg).

In 2002, Brattan directed a group that was among the most decorated in the ACC. Four of five starters in '02 earned All-ACC recognition. The honors were a product of the Terrapins' continued success on offense, as they boasted the league's second-rated rushing (198.8 ypg) and scoring (32.2 ppg) offense while allowing just 21 sacks in 14 games.

The Terps' success in year two was a perfect follow-up to their offensive start in 2001, a season that saw them average 35.5 points per game, allow just 18 sacks (third-best in the ACC) and pave the way for a Doak Walker-finalist season by tailback Bruce Perry (1,242 yards). From an individual standpoint, two of Brattan's linemen (Melvin Fowler and Todd Wike) earned first team All-ACC recognition, with Fowler also being named a finalist for the Rimington Award and ultimately being picked in the third round of the NFL Draft by the Cleveland Browns.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Brattan spent two years at Stanford University, where he served as the Cardinal's offensive line coach in charge of centers and guards. Of the two years Brattan spent with the Cardinal, 1999 was the brightest. Stanford went 8-4 that season and had wins over Arizona, UCLA, Oregon State and Notre Dame on the way to a Rose Bowl bid. The '99 Stanford offense scored at least 31 points in all but three games and hit the 50-point plateau three times. That year, Brattan's offensive line allowed a paltry 15 sacks despite 385 passing attempts (an average of one sack for every 27 attempts).

Brattan took his first job at the collegiate level at William & Mary in 1983 as an offensive backfield coach. After just one season, he was promoted to offensive coordinator and served the remainder of his tenure (1984-91) in that capacity. He also worked with the offensive line at William & Mary. While Brattan was there, the Tribe advanced to the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs three times. From 1986 to 1990, William & Mary earned national rankings in three seasons (No. 9 in 1986; No. 13 in 1989; No. 7 in 1990). The success was largely a product of Brattan's offense as his unit ranked in the top 20 in offense in 1985 and '86, while it had the top-rated attack in Division I-AA for the 1990 season and the sixth-best in '91.

Brattan took his success at the I-AA level to his next job, Northwestern, where he resided from 1992-98 as offensive line coach. In Brattan's first three years at the school, the Wildcats continued their struggle to regain their winning ways, pushing their streak of seasons without a winning mark to 23.

Then in 1995, the Wildcats were in the national spotlight as they came seemingly out of nowhere to win the Big Ten championship for the first time in 47 years and advance to the Rose Bowl where they ultimately fell to Southern California. They finished that season — despite the Rose Bowl loss — ranked seventh in the nation with a 10-2 record. Brattan's offensive line played a huge role in the team's success, as it allowed just eight sacks all year while helping propel Darnell Autry to a new school rushing record. As a team, Northwestern finished fifth nationally that season in rushing.

The Wildcats went on to post a combined 15-1 conference record in 1995 and 1996, taking the Big Ten crown both years after having won just five league games in the previous three years. In '96, they earned a bid to play Tennessee in the Citrus Bowl.

Brattan got his start in coaching as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Delaware, in 1972. After one year in Newark, he took his first full-time coaching post at Highland Springs (Va.) High School as an offensive line coach. After three years (1973-75) at Highland Springs, he moved back to his home state and took his first head coaching job at McKean High School in 1977. He spent one year at McKean – the same high school that helped produce Maryland legend Randy White -- before moving back to Virginia and taking over as the head coach at Lloyd C. Bird High School. After serving at Bird in 1978, he returned to Highland Springs — this time as a head coach — for his final four years (1979-82) at the prep level. That final stint was a successful one, as he led HSHS to one Central Region and three district championships in his four years.

A native of Newark, Del., Brattan is a 1972 graduate of his hometown University of Delaware, where he earned his bachelor's degree in history and later earned his master's degree in education in 1977. He was a member of the Blue Hen football team and earned a varsity letter in 1971. He and his wife, Anne, have three children — Kristen, Kate and Megan.

RUNNING BACKS

JOHN DONOVAN

Johns Hopkins '97 • Fifth Year at Maryland

John Donovan is in his fifth season at Maryland and his first as running backs coach. Donovan spent his first four years with the Terps as assistant recruiting coordinator.

Prior to taking over as running backs coach, Donovan's position in the recruiting department included maintaining and organizing the Terrapins' recruiting database, setting up all recruiting events (official and unofficial visits, game day visits, recruiting weekends, etc.) and serving as director of all football camps held by the University of Maryland. In addition, he oversaw the group of graduate assistants employed by the team from 2001-2004.

Donovan's current post is his first full-time coaching position at the Division I-A level, but that is not to say that he lacks experience in the coaching ranks. Prior to coming to College Park, he served as an offensive graduate assistant at Georgia Tech for three years, working directly with then-offensive coordinator Ralph Friedgen. In that time, he broke down all opponent game film, assisted with coaching quarterbacks (1998) and the offensive line (1999-2000) while helping Friedgen with game planning and practice preparation. During his tenure, Tech won an ACC Championship (1998) and had the nation's leading offense (1999), averaging over 200 yards passing and rushing while setting 59 school records in the process.

Notably, Donovan's first job as a position coach at the Division I-A level – though temporary -- came when Friedgen departed at the end of the 2000 season to become the Terrapins' head coach. Bill O'Brien was elevated to serve as the team's offensive coordinator for the 2000 Peach Bowl in Friedgen's absence and Donovan was called upon to serve as the Yellow Jackets' running backs coach for the game.

Prior to his arrival in Atlanta, Donovan worked as an assistant secondary coach at Villanova, helping the Wildcats in 1997 to a 12-1 season and a No. 1 ranking (Division I-AA) in the season's final six weeks. His responsibilities with the Wildcats included coaching the team's safeties, coordinating scout teams for the offense and special teams and breaking down game film for the defense.

A 1997 graduate of Johns Hopkins, Donovan was a three-year starter for the Blue Jays' football team. He was twice named an all-conference defensive back and recorded 12 career interceptions. While in school, he worked as a training camp intern for the Carolina Panthers, assisting general manager Bill Polian with the team's internal operations. He later went on to earn his master's degree in economics from Georgia Tech.

A native of River Edge, N.J., Donovan married the former Stacey Spicer of Potomac, Md., in May, 2005.

SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR/TIGHT ENDS & H-BACKS

RAY RYCHLESKI

Millersville '79 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Ray Rychleski is in his fifth year as Maryland's special teams coordinator and tight ends/H-backs coach. He is in his 26th year of coaching overall, and his 24th at the collegiate level.

Last season, Rychleski helped add a new arsenal to the Terp offensive attack as he coached the team's H-backs. Along with the team's blocking tight ends, Vernon Davis, Rob Abiamiri and Jason Goode gave the team versatility in the passing game, ultimately leading to Davis pacing the team in receiving yards with 441. On special teams, Nick Novak became the Atlantic Coast Conference's all-time leading scorer with 393 points (tied for fifth in NCAA history) while Adam Podlesh had another strong year en route to second team All-ACC honors. In addition, return man Steve Suter set the all-time ACC record for punt return yards as he finished his career with 1,271.

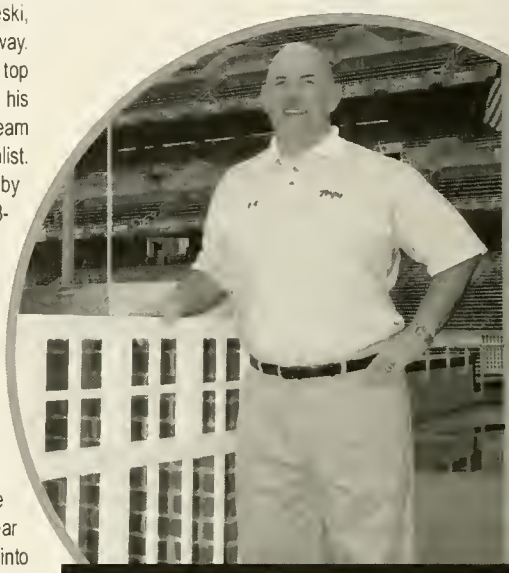
The 2003 season was a strong year for Rychleski, as his tight ends and special teamers both made headway. TE Jeff Dugan continued to impress as one of the top blocking tight ends in the country while Novak had his second consecutive 100-point season, earning first team All-ACC honors and being named a Lou Groza semifinalist. Podlesh -- the first Terp freshman ever to be honored by the league -- was a Ray Guy semifinalist with his 42.3-yard average and Suter – though hobbled – returned two punts for touchdowns, repeating as a first team all-conference pick.

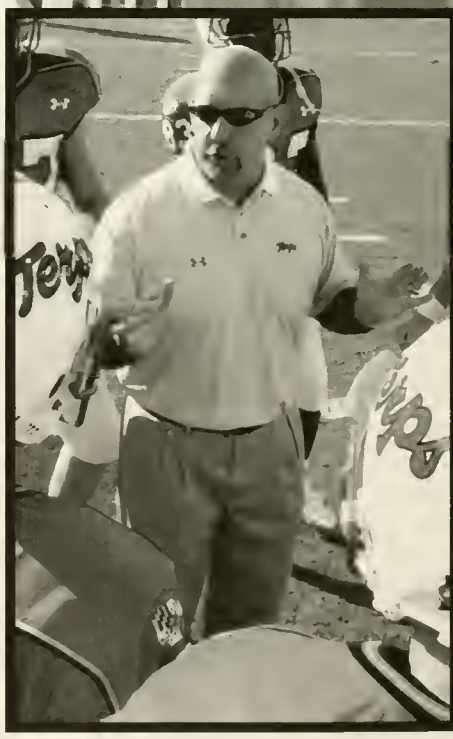
In 2002, Rychleski saw Dugan earned honorable mention All-ACC status, while the special teams had three first team All-ACC performers. Novak finished his sophomore season ranked fifth in the NCAA in field goals and 16th in scoring, and Brooks Barnard led the ACC in punting and finished 12th nationally with a 43.1-yard average. But while the Terrapin return game was nearly an afterthought the year before, Suter blossomed under Rychleski's guidance into one of the top return men in the country. Suter finished 2002 with an ACC-record 771 punt return yards while finishing second in the conference in kick return average and tying an NCAA record with four punt returns for a touchdown.

The 2002 season came on the heels of an inaugural season that saw Maryland tight ends and specialists shine as well. In 2001, Matt Murphy went from a player in search of a position to a tight end displaying enough skills to be selected by the Detroit Lions in the 2002 NFL Draft. Highlights from Rychleski's special teams units included the fourth-best net punting average in the nation, first team All-ACC recognition for Barnard, and Novak earning honorable mention all-conference status in just his first year.

Prior to coming to College Park, Rychleski served for eight years at Wake Forest University where his tenure could best be described as diverse. For the 1999 and 2000 seasons, Rychleski was the Demon Deacons' tight ends coach while also serving as the team's special teams coordinator. For the three years prior to becoming tight ends coach and special teams coordinator (1996-98), he worked with WFU's outside linebackers. During his first three seasons at Wake (1993-95), Rychleski coached the defensive line.

Rychleski began his coaching career on the prep level in Pennsylvania in 1979 before heading to Temple University, where he took a position as a graduate assistant. After a short time as the Owls' graduate assistant, he was promoted into his first full-time collegiate coaching post. He spent eight years at Temple (1981-88) before heading to Northeastern (1989-90) as a defensive coordinator/ inside linebackers coach. After two years at Northeastern, Rychleski spent a year at Penn State (1991, graduate assistant) and one summer with the Toronto Argonauts (1992, defense) as a volunteer assistant.





In 1992, Rychleski was hired as a special team coordinator and defensive backs coach at East Stroudsbur University where he helped the Warriors to their best recor in 13 years. After his brief stint there, he left for Wake Fores in 1993.

A native of Old Forge, Pa., Rychleski eamed hi degree in social studies from Millersville (Pa.) State Colleg (now known as Millersville University) in 1979.

OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS/SPECIAL TEAMS ASST.

AL SEAMONSON

Wisconsin '82 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Al Seamonson is in his fifth season as outside linebackers coach for the Terrapins. He also assists Ray Rychleski in working with special teams. In 2004, his unit will consist of the strongside linebacker position as well as one of the defensive ends (the "drop end), as the Terps' defensive scheme switched to a 4-3 last year.

In four years in College Park, Seamonson has quickly gained the respect of pundits and peers as an outstanding, organized defensive football coach. Last season, he helped Shawne Merriman to a first team All-ACC nod as the third-year player ended up second in the ACC in sacks and tackles for loss en route to being the 12th overall pick of the 2005 NFL Draft. In addition, the development of "Sam" linebacker David Holloway – a former walk-on – was one of the pleasant surprises of the 2004 season as the sophomore finished fifth on the team in tackles and tied for the team lead in fumble recovenes.

In 2003, Seamonson helped lead a defense that was again one of the top units in the nation in scoring (sixth) and total defense (15th). Merriman finished the season with the second-most sacks in the ACC. In '02, he helped coach a Terp defense that ranked first in the ACC and seventh nationally in scoring, allowing just 16.3 points per game. In addition, the Maryland rushing and passing defense each ranked in the top three in the league while the team was second in the conference in sacks (37) and red-zone defense. Seamonson's outside linebackers were a source of both steady improvement and big plays while Merriman was named to The Sporting News' ACC All-Rookie team. All of this came on the heels of a team that had the nation's fourth-best turnover margin (+1.45 average) and the ACC's lowest scoring defense (19.1 points per game) in his first season on the job in 2001.

Seamonson boasts 22 years of collegiate coaching experience. Prior to coming to Maryland, he spent the 2000 season at Bowling Green State University — where he worked under current Terp defensive coordinator Gary Blackney — as the Falcons' special teams coordinator and linebackers coach. In his lone year at Bowling Green, Seamonson helped the Falcons produce a defensive unit that ranked fourth in the MAC in rushing defense and total defense.

Seamonson's coaching tenure prior to BGSU was weighted heavily in military settings. From 1987-99, he coached at The Citadel, where he started as a wide receivers coach (1987) before serving the remainder of his tenure (1988-99) as special teams coordinator and linebackers coach. At The Citadel, Seamonson coached under current Terp offensive coordinator Charlie Taaffe and worked alongside defensive line coach Dave Sollazzo. He helped coach five linebackers to All-Southern Conference honors and one (J.J. Davis) to an appearance in the Senior Bowl. The highlight of his tenure was in 1992 when the Bulldogs led Division I-AA in scoring defense, yielding just 13.0 points per contest en route to a Southern Conference championship while advancing to the I-AA playoffs for the third time in five years.

The Citadel was not Seamonson's first taste of the military life, however, as he was a linebackers coach at the U.S. Military Academy (Army) in West Point, N.Y., for the 1985 and '86 seasons. In his first season at Army, the Cadets were one of the surprise teams in the country as they won the 1985 Peach Bowl, 31-29, over Illinois. It was one of just four times in the Academy's history that it had gone to a bowl game.

A 1982 graduate of Wisconsin and a two-year letterwinner for the Badgers at wide receiver, Seamonson got his start in coaching in Madison. In 1982, he served as a volunteer coach for Wisconsin's wide receivers. He then was a graduate assistant for the next two years where he worked for the Badgers' secondary unit.

Born September 7, 1959, in Stoughton, Wis., Seamonson was a wide receiver at Stoughton High School and was a captain for the all-state Shrine Team in 1977. He and his wife, Kristi, have three children: Kylen, Kalvin and Karter.

DEFENSIVE LINE/RECRUITING COORDINATOR

DAVE SOLLAZZO

The Citadel '77 • Fifth Year at Maryland

Dave Sollazzo is in his fifth season as defensive line coach and first season as recruiting coordinator at the University of Maryland. It is his eighth season overall at the university as he was a volunteer defensive line coach for the Terps in 1986 and '87 as well as a graduate assistant in 1984. In his four years with the Terps, Sollazzo's unit has been one of the most overachieving groups on the team.

Last season, the Terrapin defense ranked 21st nationally, giving up an average of 315.3 yards per game. Though it had lost standout DT Randy Starks a year early (selected by the Tennessee Titans in the 2004 NFL Draft), the defensive line still performed well helping the team to top 25 rankings in three categories. In '03, the Terps were first in the league in total defense (15th nationally) and pass defense while finishing third in rushing defense. They recorded 35 sacks, just one fewer than league leader Florida State, and Starks became just the second Maryland tackle in 15 years to earn first team all-conference honors.

In 2002, Maryland finished second in the league in total defense while holding its opponents to an average of 57 yards below their season rushing averages coming into their respective games with the Terrapins. In addition, the Terps finished atop the league and seventh nationally in scoring defense, yielding just 16.3 points per game. Individually, Starks earned second team All-ACC honors in just his second season.

In his first year back at UM, Sollazzo took a group that entered the season as a concern in terms of talent and depth, and turned it into a rock-solid unit that helped anchor one of the top defenses in the ACC as the team led the league in rushing and scoring defense. Under his tutelage, nose tackle Charles Hill became an honorable mention All-ACC pick and, ultimately, a third-round choice of the Houston Texans in the 2002 NFL Draft.

Prior to his current stint at Maryland, Sollazzo was at Georgia Tech in 1999 and 2000 as a defensive tackles coach. In his two years in Atlanta, Tech participated in a pair of bowl games — the Gator Bowl in 1999 and the Peach Bowl in 2000.

Before joining the Yellow Jackets, Sollazzo was the defensive line coach at The Citadel from 1989-98. The Citadel was another homecoming for Sollazzo, as he had lettered for the Bulldogs for three years on the defensive line from 1974-76. In that time, he started 33 consecutive games under former Maryland coach Bobby Ross. His position coach was Ralph Friedgen.

As a coach at The Citadel (where he was hired by current Terp offensive coordinator Charlie Taaffe), Sollazzo coached Brad Keeney to All-America honors and Southern Conference-leading totals in sacks and tackles for loss in 1995. In addition, he coached nine other defensive linemen to all-conference honors while with the Bulldogs. The highlight of his coaching career in Charleston, however, may have been his involvement in helping The Citadel in 1992 to the Southern Conference championship and a No. 1 ranking at the end of the regular season. That '92 squad led the nation in scoring defense at 13 points per game and finished six in pass efficiency defense. In 1997, he was a part of a impressive defensive effort in which the Bulldogs finishe their season by not allowing a touchdown in their final 1 quarters.

Along with his ties to Maryland and The Citade Sollazzo has an extensive history in prep coaching. With th exception of the Maryland job in 1984 (a season that sa the Terps win the ACC and earn a berth in the Sun Bow Sollazzo was a high school defensive coordinator in Sou Carolina from 1978-85.

Sollazzo was born in the same hometown as Friedge Harrison, N.Y., on Christmas Eve, 1955, and earned h degree from The Citadel in 1977. He is married to th former Ellen Beloin of Farmington, Conn. The couple's fir child, Christopher Francis, was born in October of 2003.

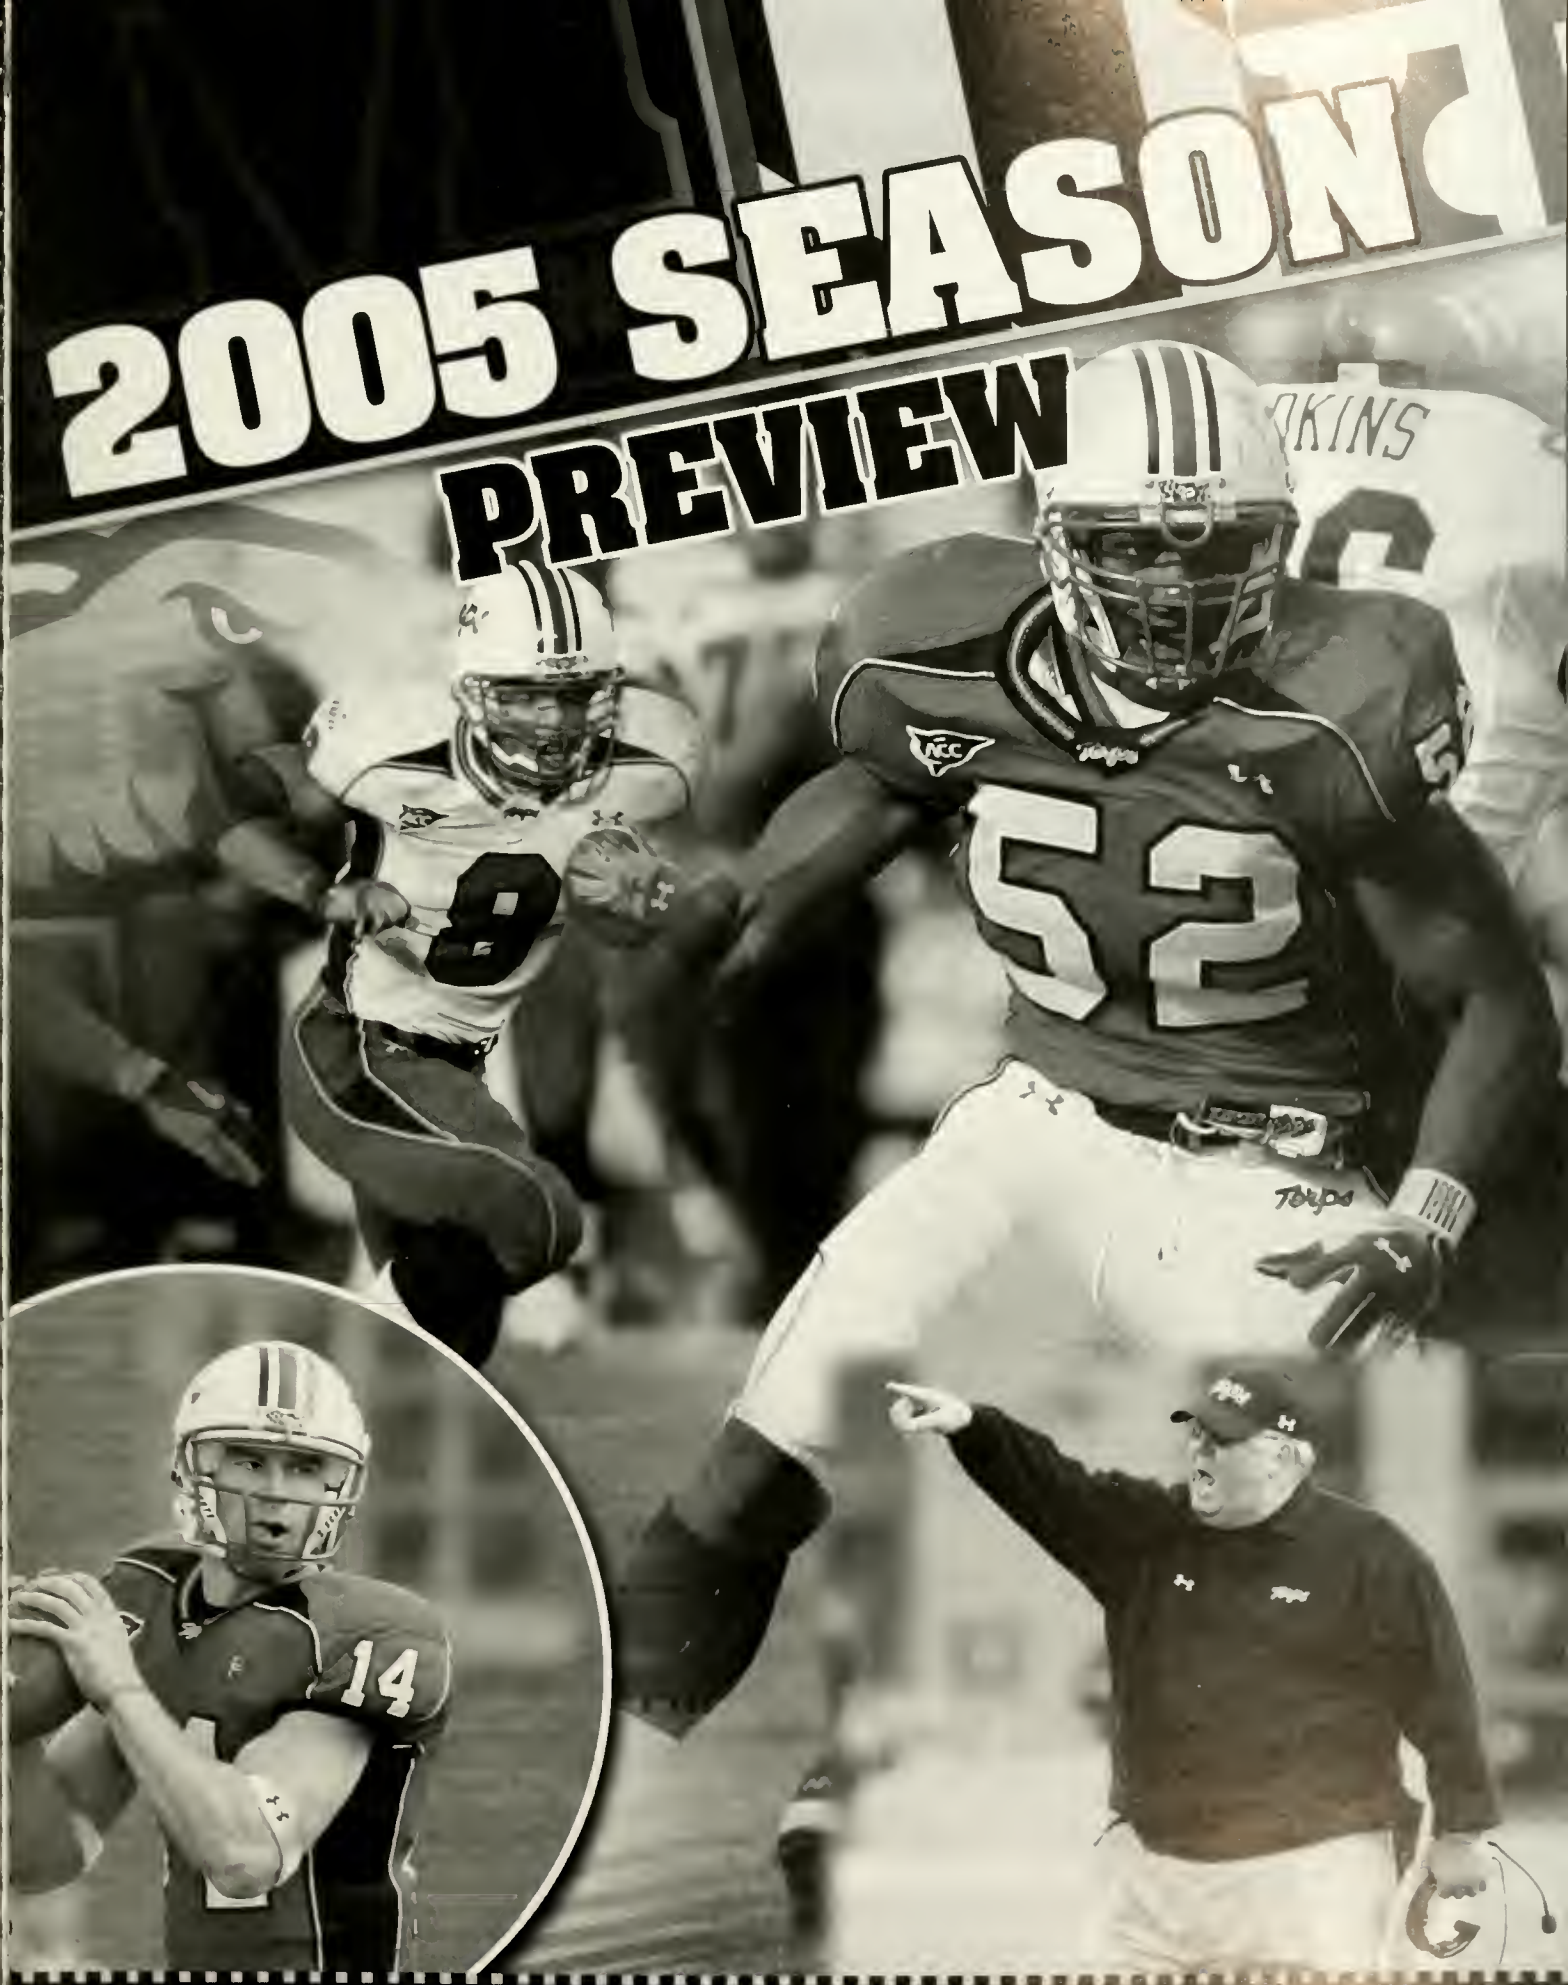
2005 SEASON PREVIEW



2005 SEASON PREVIEW

It has not been a typical four-year run in College Park for Ralph Friedgen. Things started with a Cinderella, ACC Championship first season and a pair of bowl wins as the encore in years two and three. And just when the entire nation started to believe that there was nothing the Maryland grad could touch that wouldn't turn to gold, the fourth season produced the highs and lows of a 5-6 campaign. Friedgen's off-season response? Work harder.

And hard work is exactly what his group of Terrapins have put in since the end of 2004, a fact that did not go unnoticed with strength and on-the-field improvements that became apparent in the spring.

The 2005 Maryland football team will open fall camp eerily resembling that of Friedgen's first season – rife with question marks (and similar questions at that). Both seasons had to answer who would start at quarterback (though a returnee, Shaun Hill was no guarantee prior to 2001). Both would have to answer who would replace a star at the tailback position (LaMont Jordan in 2001; Josh Allen in 2005). And among a myriad of other questions, both the 2001 and 2005 teams would have to replace its top player on the defensive front (Kris Jenkins in 2001; Shawne Merriman in 2005).

OFFENSE

For the second consecutive year, the media focus in College Park will start at the quarterback position. Like the rest of the Terrapin offense in 2004, it was a source of both joy and frustration and will be considered unresolved until the team returns to the successful balanced attack of the previous three seasons.

Youth played a role in last year's struggles and while the offense is again inexperienced in some areas, it also has a year more under its belt than it did at quarterback. While all eyes will be on the signal callers, there remain key battles at tailback and several spots on the offensive line. And though some of those battles will be taking place with young players, the team's depth and talent is unprecedented in the Friedgen era.

Spring left the Terps with a pecking order at quarterback, the knowledge that there are at least three – and maybe more – capable players at tailback and that the offensive line's future is exceedingly bright. In addition, the team knows it has what is likely the deepest and most talented corps of tight ends in the ACC and the receivers – though depleted in the off-season and young this fall – have a new attitude and displayed some of their finest moments under the guidance of some senior leadership.

"I feel we have the potential to be a good offense," said Friedgen. "What we have to do is become physically and mentally tougher as a team. I think our wideouts and running backs have to come through for us, making plays not only running and receiving but also blocking and protecting. If we can get those things going well and our line continues to improve, we will be fine. Most importantly, I think our attitude has been good and our work ethic has made it so that I expect us to be better, not only from last year to this year, but from this spring to fall."

Quarterback

Spring ball started with Sam Hollenbach atop the depth chart at quarterback and that is how it ended. The other players expected to challenge – Joel Statham and Jordan Steffy – flip-flopped on the depth chart with Steffy missing most of the off-season workouts due to injury. With "qualifying" now completed, the race for the starting job will hit the home stretch.

Of the three signal-callers, Hollenbach could have once been considered the dark horse. Though he has very

"WE'VE GOT WORK TO DO TO BECOME A REAL GOOD FOOTBALL TEAM, BUT I THINK WE'VE MADE PROGRESS, AND I AM EXCITED ABOUT THE ATTITUDE OF THIS TEAM." - RALPH FRIEDGEN

Though the questions seem daunting, one other similarity should help Terrapin fans breathe easier – Friedgen has re-focused his efforts and dedication to the same thing that stood out in the first days he set foot in the Gossett Team House. That he will work, plan, organize and do everything in his power to help his team win.

In addition to the question marks on offense and the defensive line, this year's team also remains a young bunch. A total of 69 players on the roster will enter this year with three or more years of eligibility remaining, 45 of those being first- or second-year freshmen. The defense is especially young with only three seniors playing a major role in the two-deep.

All that said, this team is the most athletically-gifted of any one of the last five years. It has better size, more speed at the skill positions and more high-profile recruits. In regard to the offense and quarterback in particular, it has one more season of experience under its belt. In the end, the expectations that at times seem lower from outsiders looking in, are just the opposite from those donning the red, black and gold.

"Overall, I am happy with where we are," said Friedgen. "We've got work to do to become a real good football team, but I think we've made progress, and I am excited about the attitude of this team."

The following is a position-by-position breakdown of the Maryland Terrapins as they enter the 2005 season:

QUARTERBACK

14	Sam Hollenbach	6-5	218	Jr.	1V
16	Joel Statham	6-2	219	Jr.	2V
19 (d)	Jordan Steffy	6-1	222	So.	1V
10	Chris Turner	6-4	205	Fr.	HS
4 (d)	Bobby Sheahin	6-1	170	Fr.	RS

good size and strength, he is not as nimble or as strong-armed as the other two. But what little he lacks, he makes up for with savvy and good decision making. His throwing has improved dramatically since he joined the team and he led the team to a win in his lone start (Wake Forest) of last season, playing nearly mistake-free football, something the team could have used at other times during the season.

The starter for most of last season, Statham seems more relaxed entering 2005. He is stronger physically and seems to be mentally as well in his knowledge of the offense. His athleticism and arm strength have never been in question. It is as simple as how he performs "when the bullets are flying" as Friedgen says, that will determine his fate. If he is playing to his talent, he will be hard to keep out of the lineup.

Steffy missed most of spring with an injured knee and a nerve condition in his throwing arm. But the knee has healed and the arm has been effectively treated with surgery, so his chance to compete will rest solely on where he is mentally in the offensive system. He has added 20 pounds since last year and is arguably the most athletically gifted of the three challengers. In Friedgen and offensive coordinator Charlie Taaffe's system however, that is all for naught if the right read or check is not second nature.

The final player who could factor in the three-deep is newcomer Chris Turner, a true freshman who played in a pass-oriented attack in California as a prep, throwing for nearly 5,500 yards and 46 touchdowns his last two seasons.

"Entering the fall, I would say that Sam Hollenbach has a slight edge," said Friedgen. "It is still going to be a competitive situation and there is still a lot of football to be played on the practice fields before our first game, so you never know. But what he has shown is that he will not turn the ball over, he is a quick study and he continues to improve. Joel did not hurt himself in the spring and we'll see where Jordan is, but I would say that's where we will be heading into camp."

Tailback

Though all eyes will be on the battle at quarterback, the competition for the starting job in the backfield will likely be the most highly contested throughout the season. The Terps have four to five players who could contend for the starting job.

Ball does not have the straight-ahead speed the other two possess, but he has the intangibles that will help him compete. He has quick feet, good size and seems to have the innate ability to find a hole and then run to daylight. Humber has been dealing with an injured shoulder since last year but is another big back with good feet.

"(TAILBACK) IS A VERY CLOSE RACE HEADING INTO FALL BETWEEN MERRILLS, LATTIMORE AND GREEN. AND WE WILL SEE WHERE HUMBER IS WHEN HE COMES BACK HEALTHY. " - RALPH FRIEDGEN

Josh Allen's late-season knee injury against Wake Forest last year has sidelined him for 2005 and paved the way for the first wide-open competition at tailback since Bruce Perry won the job in 2001. Allen's recovery seems to be on line for a completely healthy return in '06, but in the meantime, senior Mario Merrills will try to stave off challenges from sophomores Keon Lattimore, Lance Ball, junior J.P. Humber and true freshman Morgan Green.

Merrills is a hard-charging back with breakaway speed who played well enough in the spring to enter fall atop the depth chart. Pound-for-pound, he is the strongest player on the Maryland roster. As spring drew to a close, however, Lattimore may have been the most complete back as his running and pass catching caught up to his talent as the team's best one-on-one blocker. Lattimore possesses the size (235 pounds) and speed (4.5) to be a big-time back and simply needs to show more of what he showed at the end of spring for his playing time to increase.

TAILBACK

7	J.P Humber	6-0	225	Jr.	1V
8	Mario Merrills	5-10	203	Sr.	3V
21	Keon Lattimore	6-0	235	So.	1V
25	Morgan Green	6-0	210	Fr.	HS
31 (d)	Albert Jones	5-11	214	Jr.	SQ
33	Josh Allen	5-11	207	Sr.	3V
41	T.D. Callahan	6-0	227	Jr.	SQ
44	Lance Ball	5-9	225	So.	SQ

Transfer T.D. Callahan ran well enough in the spring to warrant another look as a short-yardage back, and Green, a true freshman, is one of the leading ball-carriers in the history of the state of Maryland (5,133 career yards) who could also get a look if he is up to speed in terms of his knowledge of the offense.

"It is a very close race heading into fall between Merrills, Lattimore and Green," said Friedgen. "and we will see where Humber is when he comes back healthy. Of the three guys, I think Merrills has the most burst but he and Ball need to get a little smaller when they have the ball. Keon is probably the best pass protector and receiver at this point. They all did a nice job in the spring. We will just have to see who emerges."

Josh Allen, the Terps' second-leading rusher in 2004, will be sidelined for the entire 2005 season, opening up the battle at the tailback position.

Fullback

Due mainly to personnel issues, the Terps went away from, to some degree, the "traditional" fullback a year ago. In the off-season, the team made an effort to go back to the isolation-blocking, hard nosed, fullback-as-lead blocker approach, and it paid off in the form of a number of players performing very well in the role.

Senior Ricardo Dickerson and sophomore Tim Cesa each made the full-time move from the defensive side of the ball in the spring and both looked very good as blocking backs. Both are hard-nosed players with Dickerson being the more experienced player at the position, but both will share time, regardless of who is the starter. Cesa is strong and has a hitter's mentality while also showing good hands out of the backfield. In the duo, the Terps will have what they possessed in the running game prior to 2004.

While athletic newcomer Jeremy Navarre also got a look in spring and will be a player to watch in the future whether it be at fullback or elsewhere, the young player who came out of nowhere was redshirt freshman Matt Deese. Deese was nearly a non-factor a year ago, but now at 253 pounds, he proved to be an outstanding blocker and another player who could be in the mix for playing time.

"I think the way these guys are playing is a dimension we didn't have last year," said Friedgen. "Both Dickerson and Cesa bring an attitude of toughness. Both are going to play a lot. And once Matt Deese learns what to do, he is going to be a factor. He showed me that he can be a very good blocker and if he isn't in the mix this year, he is likely no more than a year away."

FULLBACK

32	Tim Cesa	6-1	243	So.	1V

43	Matt Deese	5-11	253	Fr.	RS

Wide Receiver

Despite a spring where the number of receivers was below what was needed, the team had one of the most productive off-seasons in recent memory. Most of that can be credited to the attitude of the unit and the leadership of a pair of seniors.

First-year coach Bryan Bossard got all that he could have asked from seniors Derrick Fenner and Jo Jo Walker. Both put in their best work in the weight room and were vocal leaders of a receiving corps that noticeably made more plays in spring. The unit lost a pair of productive players in Steve Suter and Rich Parson, but Fenner and Walker seem ready to step in and ease the burden for what will be the youngest unit on the team.

Fenner is one of the team's best route runners and blazed to a personal-best time of 4.37 in off-season testing in the 40-yard dash. With a 40-inch vertical jump, he also offers the team a go-to player in goal line situations if needed. He will be backed up at the "X" spot by Drew Weatherly, Paschal Abiamiri and Isaiah Williams. Now a junior, Weatherly should be ready to take the next step and utilize the best combination of size (6-4, 210) and speed (4.5) that the team has to offer. Like Fenner, he has a 40-inch vertical jump and good hands. Abiamiri has been a player who has looked good in spring ball almost every year, but has been unable to make the next step. With the unit being so young, his contribution would be very important this year. Finally, Williams is one of five true freshmen who will be given a legitimate shot at playing time in the fall, and he brings another big body (6-3, 200) to the mix.

At "Z," Walker heads into the season as the starter after a spring where his improvement was notable. He ran a 4.43 in spring testing, but more importantly he made more plays and more big catches than any other player on the field. He has always been one of the team's quickest players and it looks like in his senior campaign, he is ready to maximize his talents. Behind him, senior Danny Melendez gives the team a speedy receiver with good hands who knows the system well enough to line up on either side and behind Melendez will be another pair of true freshmen, Darrius Heyward-Bey and Terrell Skinner. Heyward-Bey is one of the nation's top prep sprinters as well as one of the top-rated wideouts in the nation in 2004. Skinner is a converted quarterback from Florida who will get his first look on offense, but showed his wares to recruiters as a defensive back at several prep camps last year and could get moved there if need be.

At slot receiver, Walker will be the first player in as he is the most experienced after spending the last three seasons there. Behind him will be the hard-working Greg

Jo Jo Walker (left) and Derrick Fenner are expected to be the key targets in Maryland's passing game in 2005.

Powell – a player who had five catches in the spring game – as well as Danny Oquendo and Nolan Carroll, two more true freshmen. Oquendo is a high school track star (hurdles) with good football skills, while Carroll is another Floridian who will be looking to return to the form that had him as one of the state's top receivers his junior year before injuring his knee.

"Our wide receivers looked much improved to me in the off-season and they stayed healthy, which is amazing with as many reps as they had to take in spring," said Friedgen. "What I am hoping with these kids is that they will continue to take this attitude and maturity and give some of that to some of these young kids who are coming in. But when they have been on, they have been complete players – catching, running with the ball and blocking."

Tight End/H-backs

Maryland's group of tight ends are likely the deepest and most versatile group on the team and should end up being one of the most productive tight-end units in the league. The Terps will have the ability to line up with as many as three tight ends and can do any one of a number of things out of such a set.

The tight ends will likely be used less this year in the H-back and wing role they became accustomed to last year and become more of the traditional tight end, though they will certainly split out and be able to form some four-wide type sets and other potential matchup problems. Sophomore Jason Goode will be the team's only true H-back.

Junior Vernon Davis and Goode return to give the team a versatile, athletic duo that can line up at tight end, in the slot or in the backfield if needed. But with the use of the more traditional, blocking fullback, both – and especially Davis – are expected to use their speed and athleticism to help the Terps in the passing game more than anything. Davis led the team in receiving yards last year and will continue to improve as his knowledge of the offense progresses. He has become a complete player and should be one of the top players in the league at his position this year.

Senior Derek Miller returns to head a group of tight ends who will be counted on more for their blocking. Miller has worked hard in the off-season and could play a bigger role in the passing game while the progression of Joey Haynos, Dan Gronkowski and Brad Schell have pleased the coaching staff, making them viable options as well. All three players have size similar to Miller's (in the 6-6 to 6-8 range) and who will gain playing time of the three is a decision that will be determined in preseason camp.

"I think Vernon was much more productive for us as a blocker and receiver this past off-season," said Friedgen. Playing one position has really helped him. He is much more of a complete player. He is very quick off the ball, with real good strength and he should have a good year. Derek Miller is probably at his physical peak right now and obviously gives us another good blocker. And in Haynos, Gronkowski and Schell, we have three solid players who will have to distance themselves from the other to determine who that third tight end will be."

Goode would have been more involved a season ago but injury slowed his progress. Like Davis, he runs well and is a good blocker and in his first season, he showed a knack for picking things up quickly which should help him in his quest for playing time this year. His integration into the offense will only increase the team's versatility in play calling.

"Jason still has a little ways to go," said Friedgen, "but he is the type of athlete – physically and mentally – who can do all the things you want out of an H-back. Our tight ends as a whole give us a lot of multiplicity within our offense without changing a lot of the learning."

Offensive Line

A position that exemplified the state of this year's team this off-season is the offensive line. The Terrapins will be relatively young at the position, entering fall camp with the possibility of as many as four players starting who are no more experienced than sophomores. But more than any other position, the offensive line – though young – looks to be as loaded as any other in terms of talent. This year's offensive line will have more players with prototypical size and athleticism than any Terp group in recent history.

On the left side, OT Stephon Heyer is the lone senior returning who started in all 11 games last year on the line. He is a bookend tackle with a long wingspan who moves well and should gain some attention come postseason honors time. Heyer is as strong as he has ever been and showed the type of leadership in the spring that will be needed with such a young cast surrounding him. He will be backed up by Dane Randolph – a player who is moving over from the defensive side of the ball and has thus far picked things up very quickly – and the intriguing freshman Jared Gaither. At 6-9 and 330 pounds, Gaither is a former basketball recruit who moves unbelievably well and whose progress will be worth watching.

At left guard, sophomore Donnie Woods appears to be the front runner for the starting job after a solid spring and playing in the final 11 games of last year, starting the finale. Woods is a savvy player who posted four "big blocks" against just three missed assignments on 177 plays in his first season of playing time. His primary challenge will come from redshirt freshman Jaimie Thomas, a player coaches have been impressed with physically, but who needs to continue to work on his assignments. He has good size (6-4, 327) and moves very well. Redshirt freshman Lee Oliver will also look to continue his progression after walking on last year.

Center will be a very interesting position with a good deal to be determined prior to the start of the season. What happens here will likely affect the rest of the line as well. Sophomore Andrew Crummey will start camp atop the depth chart. He is a heady player who moves well and started half of last season at guard. His versatility combined with the progress of Edwin Williams, a redshirt freshman who the coaches compare to former Terp (and current Cleveland Brown) Melvin Fowler, will play a big role in who goes where. If Williams wins the starting job, Crummey will move back to right guard and compete for the job there. Senior Ryan McDonald missed spring but will be back in the fall and his return is key, giving the team depth in the event Crummey starts and an experienced backup if Williams starts. Though there will be many good battles on the offensive line this fall, this one may be the most important.

On the right side, the only senior atop the depth chart other than Heyer – Russell Bonham – will look to stay healthy and give the team a run-blocking force. Bonham shared time as the starter (five games) at the position last year with Crummey, but missed four games due to injury including the season finale. Should Crummey stay at center, Bonham's primary challenge will come from Garrick Clig, a physical sophomore whose forte is also pushing the pile. Junior Dave Quaintance will also compete in his second year on the offensive side of the ball.

Right tackle will be a look into the future of the Terp line and will be one of this year's best battles. Third-year sophomore Brandon Nixon (6-6, 314) has improved greatly in the last year and it seems as if the mental aspect of his game is catching up to his physical gifts. His challenge will come from second-year player Scott Burley (6-6, 316), a player with a mean streak who is very physical despite his youth but is another Terp who just needs to work on getting his assignments straight. Regardless of the starter, Maryland has as impressive a young tandem as it has ever had to throw at opponents.

the overall athleticism. As was the theme last year, the play and leadership of the team's veterans will prove vital.

"I have been encouraged by what I have seen out of the defense thus far, even though they are young," said Friedgen. "We have some players who could make a difference for us on the defensive line if they can come along, and we are all pretty happy with how things have gone at defensive back. At linebacker, our depth is better and we return all our starters, so we'll see what happens. We don't lose much to graduation after this year, so it is safe to say their best days are ahead of them."

Defensive Line

The Maryland defensive front is young and will be looking for a few newcomers to step up in 2005. Though young, its depth will be improved, and if one or more of the first- or second-year players is able to step into significant playing time, this group will – like the offensive line – be one to watch in coming years. The defensive line is without a single senior this year.

At the rush-end spot, sophomore Jack Griffin left spring as the starter. He is a versatile player whose strength is his motor and ability to stop the run. Sophomore Omarr Savage, a long, lean, player with very long arms, will work to try to regain his spot atop the depth chart, while redshirt freshman Mack Frost will also try to earn playing time. In addition, three newcomers – Melvin Alaeze, Dwight Galt and Jared Harrell – will be trying to supplant the veterans. Alaeze was the top-rated prep defensive player in the country by several recruiting services and would give the team a speed merchant on the outside if he could work his way into a regular role.

On the opposite side, sophomore Jermaine Lemons and redshirt freshman Trey Covington will likely share time. Both have improved against the run while holding the point of attack is probably more Lemons' strength, and Covington's is getting after the passer and making plays in the backfield. Behind them will be another pair of true freshmen in Jeff Clement and Barrod Heggs.

"I HAVE BEEN ENCOURAGED BY WHAT I HAVE SEEN OUT OF THE DEFENSE THUS FAR, EVEN THOUGH THEY ARE YOUNG. WE HAVE SOME PLAYERS WHO COULD MAKE A DIFFERENCE FOR US ON THE DEFENSIVE LINE IF THEY CAN COME ALONG, AND WE ARE ALL PRETTY HAPPY WITH HOW THINGS HAVE GONE AT DEFENSIVE BACK." - RALPH FRIEDGEN

"We have some good battles now between some big, athletic kids who would be playing in anybody's program," said Friedgen. "We just need to get some more experience. We could end up with a lot of sophomores and redshirt freshmen on the field, but that will bode well for us based on their talent if we can get them the reps they need. We will only really lose Heyer, McDonald and Bonham so it looks like the future is pretty bright if we can keep it going."

DEFENSE

Each year, Maryland's defense shuttles players in and out of Gary Blackney's system. Four years running, the success of the unit has not had a hiccup – it has been one of the best in the nation. With one of his youngest groups taking the field this year, the hope is that the success will remain a constant once again.

Last season, the Terps' defense had many moments where it could stake claim to being one of the better units in the league, if not the country. The Terrapins replaced three of four starters in the defensive backfield (all three of whom ended up in NFL camps) and a player in Randy Starks on the defensive line who ended up being one of the best defensive rookies in the National Football League last year. The result – a unit that ranked eighth nationally against the pass, 21st in average yards allowed and 27th in scoring defense.

The team returns all three starters at linebacker, a unit ranked best in the ACC by Athlon. The defensive backs again replace three starters, but the athleticism of the group as a whole is improved. Finally, the defensive line loses Shawne Merriman and former All-ACC performer Kevin Eli, but has young talent that could, again, improve D'Qwell Jackson, an All-America and Butkus Award candidate, led the ACC in tackles in 2004 and is expected to be the leader of the Terps' defensive unit this season.

Conrad Bolston, who could be an All-ACC perfomer on the defensive line, is a double-threat defensive tackle, being able to stuff the run and rush the passer.

"Jermaine and Trey have improved so much against the run," said Friedgen. "Are they Shawne Merriman at this point? No, they aren't. But are they solid and improved and do we expect them to get better? Yes. On the other side, we will have some real good competition leading into the season with Griffin, Omarr (Savage) and Alaeze. Griffin's ability to move inside will help us there but just like everywhere else, we want the best guys on the field and will see who prevails."

On the inside, junior Conrad Bolston returns at defensive tackle after starting in all but one game last year. Bolston had a tremendous spring, has proven to be a hard worker and shows the ability to collapse the pocket both as a pass rusher and run stopper. His strength is the leverage with which he plays. Griffin will serve as the primary backup along with Dennis Marsh while freshman Travis Ivey has filled out quickly and looks as if he may be a factor as well.

Junior Rob Armstrong overcame an injured back in the off-season and performed well enough to regain his starting job. His strength is holding the point. Sophomore Dre Moore missed most of spring but is a playmaker and will challenge to regain the spot atop the depth chart. At 6-4, 298 pounds, Moore is the fourth-strongest player on the team pound-for-pound and runs a 40 time in the neighborhood of 4.8. Fellow sophomore Carlos Feliciano will work behind the duo, giving the Terps another player who plays with good pad position and leverage.

"Overall on the defensive line, we are going to be young this year," said Friedgen. "I don't think Coach (Dave) Sollazzo loses a single guy for next year. We are going to have more depth than we have had in the past, but a lot of it is going to have to come from some of these young guys if we are to be as good as we want to be."

Linebacker

As has happened on occasion in the past, an injury has actually helped this year's group of linebackers.

The Terrapins return all three starters from last year, but heading into spring ball, star "Mike" linebacker D'Qwell Jackson had wrist surgery, making him was unavailable to work in the spring. As it turns out, his absence helped a pair of players step up.

In the middle, highly touted sophomore Wesley Jefferson stepped in for Jackson and played the best he has played since arriving at Maryland in 2003 as the nation's top-rated prep linebacker. Jefferson is an instinctive player who seems to have turned the corner. What he will give the Terps this year is an outstanding backup and some rest to arguably the league's top returning defensive player.

Jackson finished second by two votes in balloting for last year's ACC Defensive Player of the Year, is on almost everybody's list as a first team All-American for 2005 and is a candidate for the Butkus, Bednarik and Lombardi awards. The league's leading tackler a year ago, his time away in the spring helped him continue his role as the leader of the defense as he was in almost every defensive huddle throughout off-season workouts. He is a great tackler who plays sideline to sideline and is a warrior on game days.

While what Jackson will bring is a given, several players including Chase Bullock and Marvin Peoples will be looking to gain experience.

The other spot that seemed to benefit from Jackson's absence in the spring was the "Will" position. Senior starter William Kershaw was noticeably the best defensive player of the off-season, making plays all over the field and looking like the player the Terps thought they have had for years. He is strong, runs well (4.6) and seemingly gets through blocks with ease. Backing him up, redshirt freshman Erin Henderson posted the best numbers in almost every scrimmage of the off-season, looking like a smaller version of his Butkus Award-winning brother, E.J., (a comparison the younger Henderson both appreciates and dreads). The bottom line is the brothers are both playmakers. Newcomer Dave Philistin of New Hampshire, another athletic true freshman, will be playing behind the duo.

At strongside linebacker, David Holloway returns for his junior season after playing above any expectation anyone had for him last year. Holloway is very good against the run, a solid tackler and is very strong despite his size (4.7, 36-inch vertical, 405-pound bench, 600-pound squat). The hope is that either redshirt freshman Eric Lenz or junior Jeris Smith can step in to help the team's depth at the position.

"Wesley Jefferson really gives us a lot of depth when he is at 'Mike'," said Friedgen. "I don't think there is any question that is where he is supposed to be. William Kershaw had a very, very good spring and Erin Henderson finds the football and his added size and strength has helped. And with D'Qwell, we obviously know what we have there and Holloway has been a very good linebacker for us. As a group, I would say we are pretty good."

Defensive Back

It isn't every day that a team can lose three starters and still end up being better the following year. That scenario is a possibility for the Terps this year.

Though the loss of a player like Broncos third-round pick Domonique Foxworth – with his leadership and consistency – will certainly not help, it should be considered that the three starters other than Foxworth from last year were also in their first year in that starting role. Meanwhile, players like junior Josh Wilson and senior Gerrick McPherson (far left) and Josh Wilson (middle) are expected to see significant playing time at cornerback, while Adam Podlesh has been a Ray Guy Award semifinalist for the past two seasons.

Gerrick McPhearson were gaining valuable experience, splitting time in the starting lineup. In addition, depth has improved at safety and the team seems to have gained more versatility after determining who plays where in the off-season.

At cornerback, McPhearson enters his final year as the starter at the field spot formerly occupied by Foxworth. The fastest player in school history and an All-ACC performer on the Terps' track team in the off-season, McPhearson can cover and run with any receiver in the league. He is playing harder than he ever has and can break on the ball like few players in the country. His senior campaign could be a breakout season if his progress stays the course. Behind McPhearson is a pair of freshmen in redshirt Kevin Barnes and true frosh Anthony Wiseman. Barnes is the team's tallest corner and has very good cover skills, while Wiseman was a high school All-American who will be coming back from a knee injury. He will be healthy in the fall and brings the team another speedy defensive back and all-around athlete (he also excelled at tailback and in returns as a prep).

At boundary corner, Wilson is also looking to take the next step toward being one of the league's top backs.

30	J.J. Justice	6-2	217	So.	1V

Wilson also ran track in the off-season and clocked in at 4.4 in the 40-yard dash. He is both intelligent and headstrong and though he spends much of the game talking, he spends just as much backing it up. Sophomore transfer Isaiah Gardner (Notre Dame) has moved from safety and will back up Wilson as well as seeing action in nickel and dime packages. Redshirt freshman Richard Taylor and newcomer Jamari McCullough will be working behind the duo.

"We were concerned going into spring about having enough players, but I thought Josh Wilson had a very good off-season and Gerrick (McPhearson) has improved his consistency and his toughness," said Friedgen. "He has really matured for us as a kid and I am hopeful that he has the year it looks like he will have. We have some young guys back there, but from what I have seen with Gary (Blackney)'s guys, the longer they are with him, the better their technique will get."

At safety, things played out probably as well as could have been expected in the spring. Senior Milton Harris made a move at strong safety and will enter fall camp competing with junior Marcus Wimbush for the starting job. Wimbush, one of the team's best hitters, has stepped up his play in coverage and will play in nickel and dime at worst. One other player who could be a factor to start at the position is sophomore Christian Varner.

Varner will enter fall as the starter at free safety, but his situation is to be determined. He missed most of spring with a high ankle sprain but came back for the last practice and the spring game and played very well, showing the intelligence and reckless abandon that has him likely penciled in at one spot or the other. What has precipitated the possible move, despite his strong play, is a combination of both his cover skills (and Blackney's preference for a player with corner cover skills at strong safety) and the emergence of J.J. Justice. Justice is big, physical and runs very well. Once considered a little "stiff," his progress in the last year has excited coaches and has him knocking on the door of a starting job. True freshman Jeff Allen, another athletic player, gives the team yet another big, physical safety to throw in the mix.

"At safety, we have been very happy with the play of J.J. Justice and that might give us some options at both safety spots," said Friedgen. "Then when we go nickel we can use Josh there and Isaiah at corner and then move Wimbush in when we are in dime. Anyway, things are better at both safety and corner than what we thought they were going to be, and if these young players continue to improve, we will be in good shape for a few years."

Special Teams

For the first time since Ralph Friedgen's first season, the team has to concern itself with placekicker and long snapper. Both Nick Novak – the league's all-time leading scorer – and LS Jon Condo are in pro camps and need to be replaced.

At kicker, junior Dan Ennis and redshirt freshman Obi Egekeze are neck-and-neck heading into the fall. Ennis is a hard-working former soccer player who has gotten better with each season since walking on three years ago. Egekeze struggled at times last season but finished spring very strong, showing a good leg and accuracy. Egekeze will handle kickoffs, while newcomer Chris Roberts will also work there.

"I tried to make both of those guys choke," said Friedgen. "I froze them, I talked to them, I would make them run sprints...they handled the pressure pretty well. Obi has the better range and improved as the spring went on, but they are both still in there battling for the job."

Adam Podlesh's first two seasons as the Terrapin's punter could not have been much better, with two seasons as a Ray Guy semifinalist under his belt. One of the best directional punters in the country, Podlesh is in better shape than he has ever been and will look to crack into the nation's top 10 in average once again. He has been a second team All-ACC performer in each of his first two years, averaging 43.1 yards in the last two seasons.

At long snapper, Tim Cesa will likely handle punts while Andrew Schmitt – younger brother of former Terp center Kyle – will compete with Brendan McDermond on kick-snapping duties.

In returns, the team must replace ACC career record-holder Steve Suter, but Jo Jo Walker has looked very good on both kicks and punts. Josh Wilson will get a look on punts as well, as will Vernon Davis – yes, 250-pound Vernon Davis – on kickoffs.

"Losing Novak and Condo were concerns, but we have made progress and I think that is something that will continue to improve as we move on," said Friedgen.

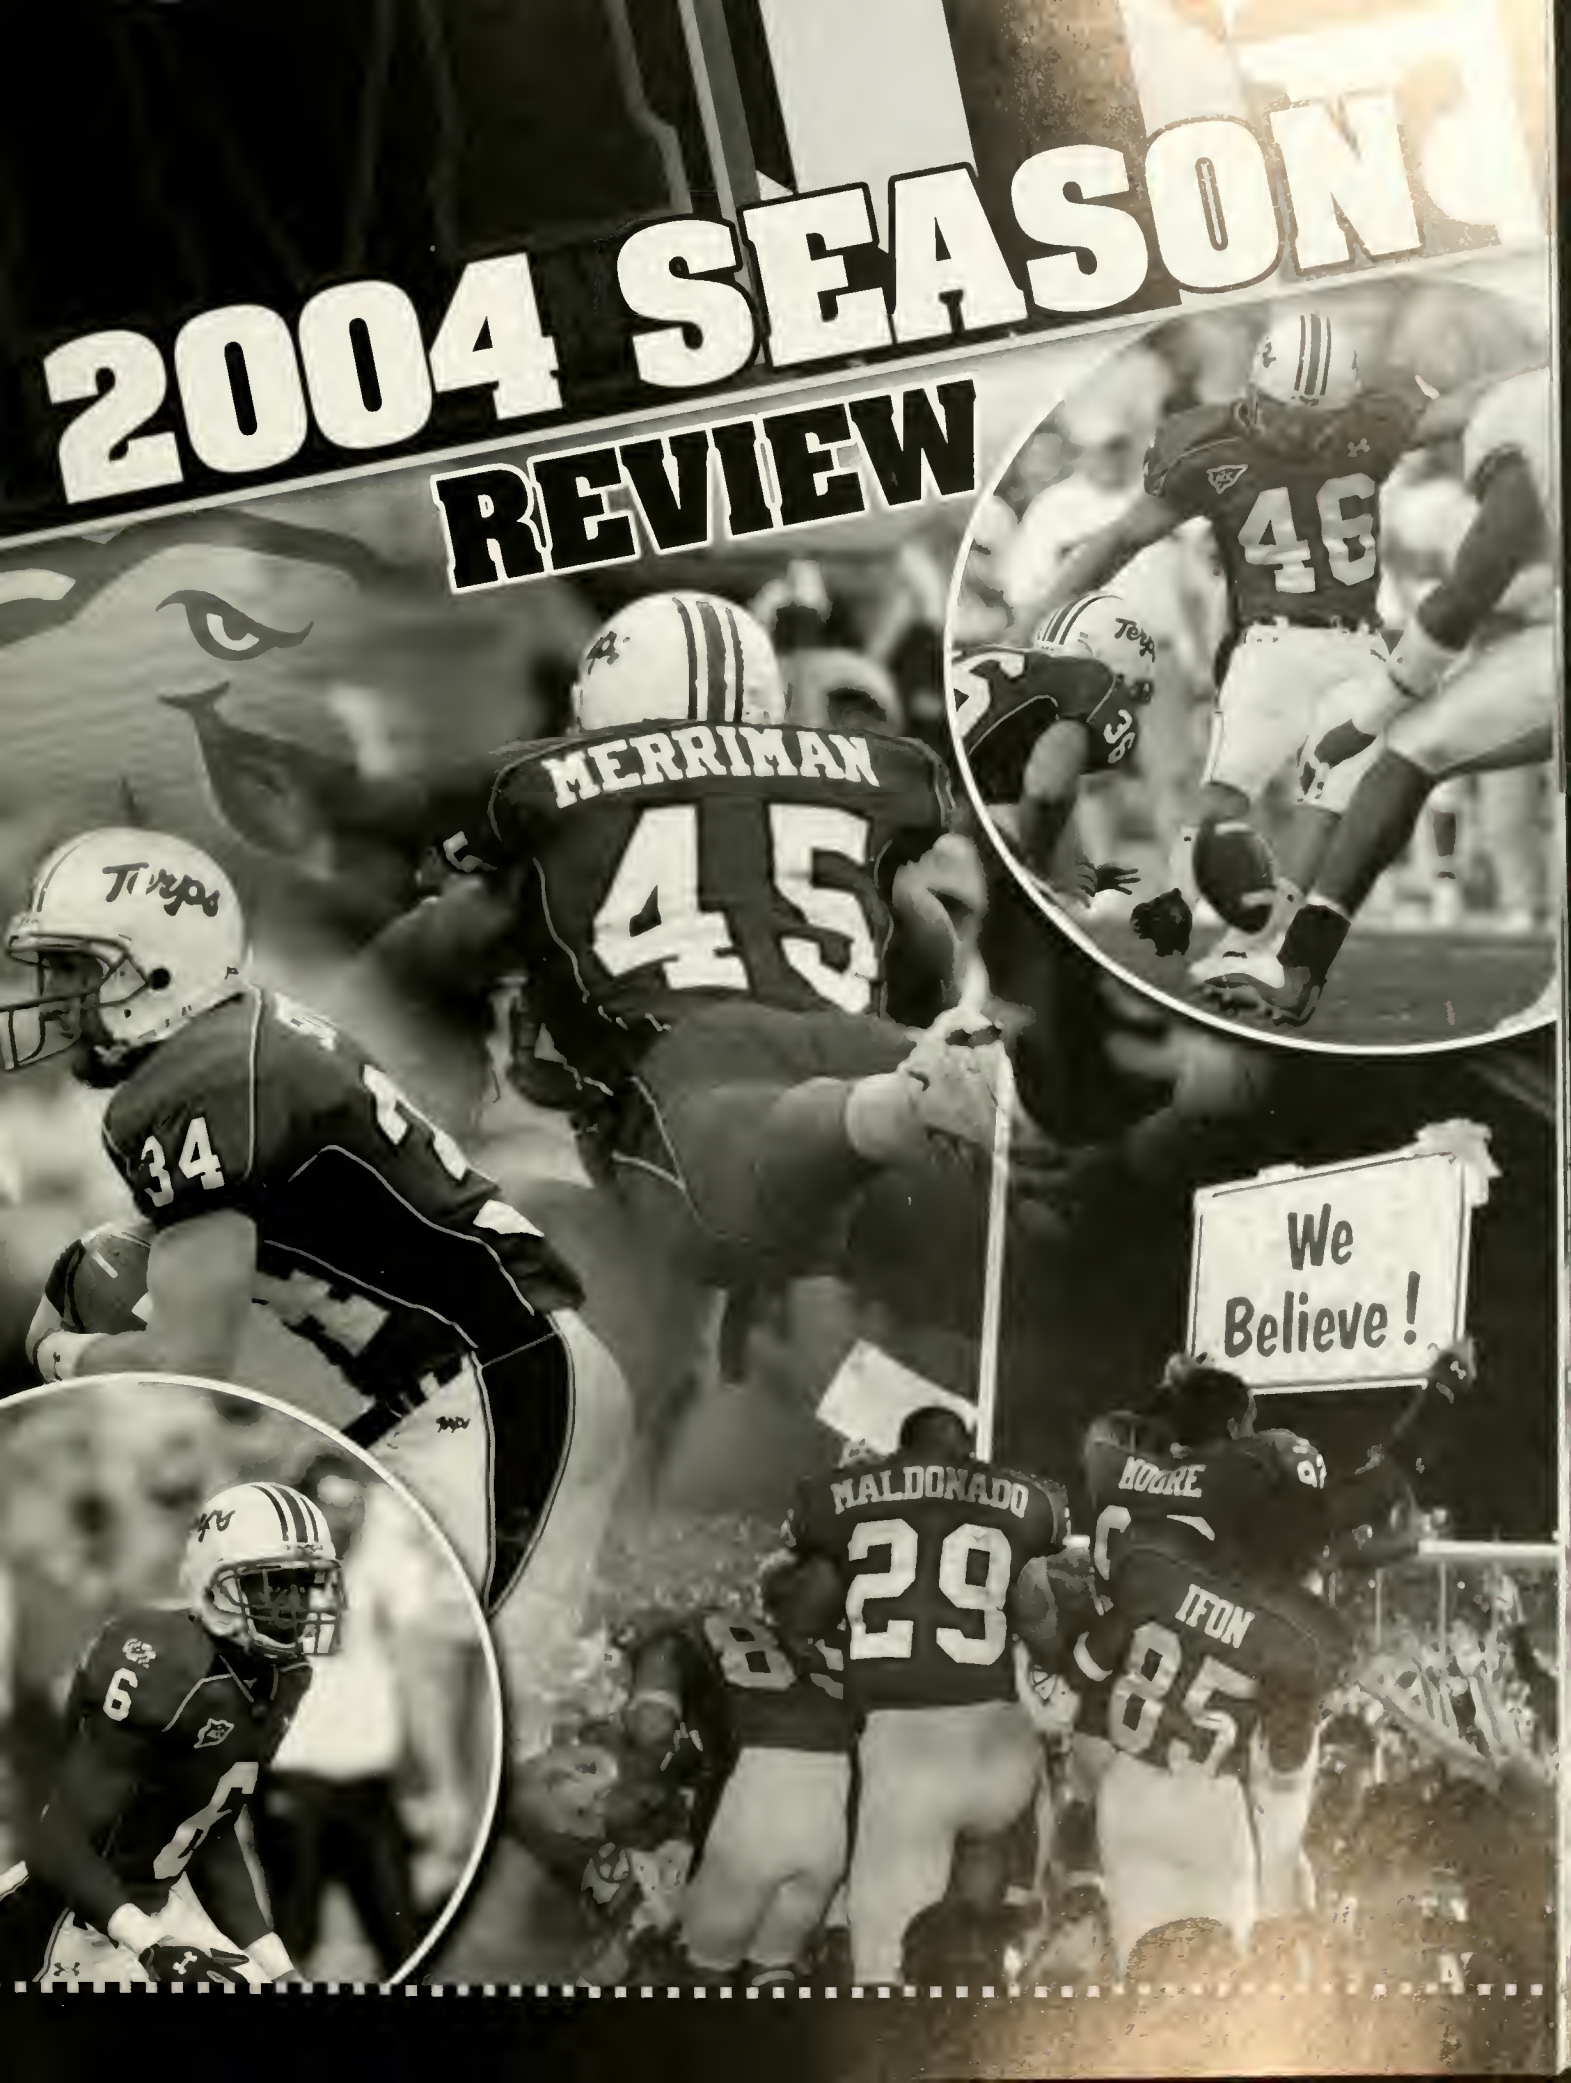
2004 SEASON REVIEW



2004 REVIEW NOTEBOOK

The Season

- The University of Maryland football team completed its 112th season with a 5-6 record, finishing in a tie for eighth in the Atlantic Coast Conference.
- The season was the Terrapins' first sub-.500 campaign since 2000, but was not far from being the team's fourth consecutive bowl season. The Terps lost three games by 10 points or less (two of which were three-point losses) with an overtime loss at then No. 7/8 West Virginia and a controversial late loss at Clemson.
- The 2004 season was one marked by all the traits of a young team -- which the Terrapins were. A total of 66 players with two or more years eligibility remaining (i.e. sophomores, redshirt freshmen and true freshmen) comprised the 107-man roster with 19 seniors playing their final games as Terrapins.
- The Terps began the season ranked 22nd in the Associated Press poll and 20th in the ESPN/USA Today poll. The team spent a total of seven weeks ranked in the Top 25 with its highest ranking coming in Week 4 when it made it to 21st in the AP and 19th in the coaches' poll.

Quick Hits, Version 2004

- Maryland's win over NIU was the first to open a season since head coach Friedgen's first year in College Park (2001 vs. North Carolina).
- Half of the Terps who started in the season opener were starting for the first time in their careers: Statham, Lombardo, Davis, Bonham, Haigler, Bolston, Holloway, Kershaw, Kelley, Custis, Scott.
- The Terrapins' home win over Temple was its 13th-straight at Byrd Stadium -- then, the sixth-longest in the nation -- a streak that would end in its next home game (vs. Georgia Tech). Maryland had only lost once in 22 games under Ralph Friedgen to that point at Byrd Stadium and though the season was the first under .500 for the fourth-year coach, the team still finished with a solid 4-2 record at home.
- The Terrapins had several notable offensive performances in their win over Duke. From a team standpoint, the Terps: tied the school record for first downs (35); had the most offensive plays (100) since a school-record 105 against NC State in 1992; posted the most passing yards since throwing for 425 against Wake Forest in the last game of 1993; and finished with the second-most yards (685) in a game under Friedgen (first was 697 against the Blue Devils in 2001).
- The Terrapins churned out 277 yards rushing against the Blue Devils but did so with no back going over 100 yards (Sammy Maldonado finished with 99).
- Maryland's 20-7 loss to Georgia Tech was its first loss at home since the 2002 season.
- The Terps held Clemson to 36 yards rushing (an average of 0.9 yards per carry), marking the third time in four games that the Terrapins' opponent had failed to rush for 100 yards or more.
- With the October 30th win over FSU, the Terps defeated the Seminoles for the first time ever in a series that dates to 1966.
- At the time, the Terrapins' win over FSU marked only the eighth by an ACC team over FSU since it joined the league in 1992. The Terps join Virginia (1995), NC State (1998, 2001, 2002), North Carolina (2001), Clemson (2003) and Miami (2004) as ACC victors over the Seminoles.
- The Florida State win marked Maryland's first over a top-five opponent since Oct. 29, 1983, when the Terps downed No. 3 North Carolina, 28-26, at Byrd Stadium. The Terps' last top-10 win was a 35-30 victory on Nov. 17, 1990, at Virginia.
- The Terrapin defense allowed Florida State only 50 rushing yards and 17 points — the lowest in the series. Williams Kershaw and Omarr Savage recorded sacks to help the Terps to four on the night.
- Joel Statham's rushing touchdown against the Seminoles broke a string of 13 quarters FSU had gone without allowing its opposition to find the end zone.
- With 333 passing yards, Statham threw for the most yards by a Terrapin against Florida State since 1995, when Scott Milanovich threw for 380 in a 59-17 loss in Tallahassee. Statham's 333 yards were also the most against the Seminoles by any player since Nov. 15, 2003, when NC State's Philip Rivers passed for 422 (28-of-38) in a 50-44 double-overtime FSU victory.
- Josh Allen's 72-yard catch-and-run in the third quarter against Florida State was the longest play of the season for Maryland. It was also a career-long reception for Allen, his second career receiving touchdown and his first of this season.
- Maryland gave up 55 points to Virginia Tech, the most in Friedgen's tenure at Maryland. A closer look, however, shows that though the defensive performance was not the best of the season, 31 points were scored off of turnovers. What's more, the Maryland defense was not put in a good spot early. Virginia Tech's first four scoring drives averaged 31 yards in length, and the Hokies were afforded six scoring opportunities of 38 yards or less (five touchdowns, one field goal) in the game.
- Josh Allen's 13-yard run in the first quarter against Wake Forest broke a string of eight quarters without a touchdown for Maryland and moved Allen up on the school's all-time rushing TD list. His fifth of the year, the score gave Allen 21 for his career, tying him for sixth all time with Ed "Big Mo" Modzelewski (1949-51).
- With a start in the season finale against Wake Forest, OT C.J. Brooks finished his career with 51 starts, most ever by a Maryland player.

Sammy Maldonado (left) was the Terps leading rusher in 2004, while C.J. Brooks (above) finished his career with a school-record 51 starts to his credit.

Friedgen's ACC*eptional* Start

- Ralph Friedgen has opened his career as a head coach by setting one coaching record after another and with his fourth season in College Park now complete, he has once again placed his name in several record books for coaching wins.
- In his four years at Maryland, Friedgen has -- season-by-season -- established himself as one of the top coaches in ACC history His first season featured an ACC championship and 10 wins, his second had him at the top of the record books for second-year mentors with a 21-5 record, and his third year had him atop the record books of third-year ACC coaches with a 31-8 record.
- With 31 wins in those first three years, Friedgen entered 2004 ranked seventh on the NCAA's all-time list for third-year head coaches. Along with Miami's Larry Coker (2nd), he is one of two active coaches on the list that features legendary names like Walter Camp (1st), Barry Switzer (4th) and John Robinson (6th).
- Now with 36 wins, Friedgen heads the list of fourth-year ACC head coaches. With the season-ending win over Wake Forest, he moved ahead of Clemson's Danny Ford who was 35-10-1 in his four years.
- Notably, Friedgen now stands just eight wins from tying Ford for the most wins by an ACC coach in his fifth year. When the 2005 season begins, Friedgen will already rank sixth on that list, tied with long-time friend George O'Leary.

Select Company

- Ralph Friedgen's 36 wins in four years ranks tied for 10th in NCAA Division I-A history for fourth-year coaches. His company on that list is noteworthy.
- Nestled between Nebraska's Tom Osborne (9th) and Boston College's Frank Leahy (12th) stand Friedgen and a coach who Terp fans may recognize -- current defensive coordinator Gary Blackney Blackney posted a 36-8-2 record at Bowling Green from 1991-94

Raising the Bar

- With its season-ending win over Wake, Maryland has 36 victories over its last four seasons — all since Ralph Friedgen took over in 2001.
- The Terps' total of 36 wins from 2001-04 is the second-highest four-year win total in school history. Maryland's top effort was 37 wins under Jerry Claiborne from 1975-78.
- This season marked the first time in Friedgen's tenure that the team will have failed to win 10 games. In the 108 years of football prior to Friedgen's arrival, Maryland had never put together three straight nine-win seasons, much less 10 like the Terps' did from 2001-03.
- Since 1892, Maryland has had seven 10-win seasons, three of which have come in the last four years.

Kevin Eli (left) and Chris Kelley helped anchor a Maryland defense that finished the season ranked 20th in the nation in total defense.

Defense The Backbone

- When he was hired to come to Maryland, the talk about the mark Ralph Friedgen would make in College Park was all about offense. What has been unquestionably the team's most consistent unit in four seasons, however, has been its defense and it is once again proving to be a force in 2004.
- Defensive coordinator Gary Blackney's group has been a unit characterized by stopping the run and making teams score by moving the ball through the air. With a scoring average of 18.0 points allowed per game since 2001, that feat has obviously been a tall order for Terrapin foes.
- Just one team -- Georgia -- has finished higher than the Terrapins in scoring defense each of the last four years.
- The Terps' scoring average took a hit in the late-season loss to Virginia Tech as the team went from 17th nationally and allowing an average of 17.6 points per game to 36th and giving up 21.3 per outing. After a strong finish against Wake Forest, the Terps finished the season allowing an average of 20 points per game, 27th-best in Division I-A.
- The Terrapins' defensive scoring average was skewed somewhat in '04 due to events beyond the defense's control. If one were to eliminate points scored off turnovers and kickoff returns for touchdowns, the Maryland defense allowed 11.9 points per game compared to its final average of 20.0.
- Since 2001, 35 of Maryland's 50 opponents (70%) have been held to 20 points or less.
- Maryland has yet to see a year under Blackney's watch where opponents average more than 20 points per game.
- Since 2002, Maryland has held its opposition scoreless in 73 quarters (18 in 2004).
- The Terrapins finished 2004 ranked in the nation's top 25 in three defensive categories: total defense (20th), pass defense (8th) and pass efficiency defense (19th).
- Maryland has held six opponents to 100 yards or less passing since 2001.
- The Terps have not allowed a quarterback throw for 250 yards or more since Philip Rivers of NC State did so in Game 11 of last season (FSU threw for over 250, but did so with two different quarterbacks and attempting 51 passes).
- Virginia Tech's Bryan Randall became the first QB to pass for more than one touchdown against the Terrapins since Chris Rix of Florida State did so in Game 2 of the 2003 season.
- Against Duke, the Terp defense held the opposition to 185 yards of total offense (83 rushing, 102 passing). Along the way, the defense held six of the Blue Devils' 12 drives to three plays or less.

Run Stuffers

- Maryland's defense got progressively better as the 2004 season went on, due in large part to the progression of a group of young defensive tackles. In the last eight games of the season, just four teams were able to manage 100 yards rushing against the Terrapins.
- Against Florida State, Maryland buckled down and held the Seminoles to 50 rushing yards. Florida State came into the game averaging 190 per game and the output was its lowest of the season
- In their loss to Clemson, the Terps held the Tigers to 36 yards rushing (0.9 yards per carry), their lowest output of 2004
- Since 2001, Maryland has held its opposition below 100 yards rushing 13 times

Seniors Bid Adieu

- A total of 19 seniors played the final game of their careers when the Terps took the field against Wake Forest. The class was one of the most successful in Maryland history, finishing with a 36-14 record in their four years. They appeared in three bowl games, two of them wins.

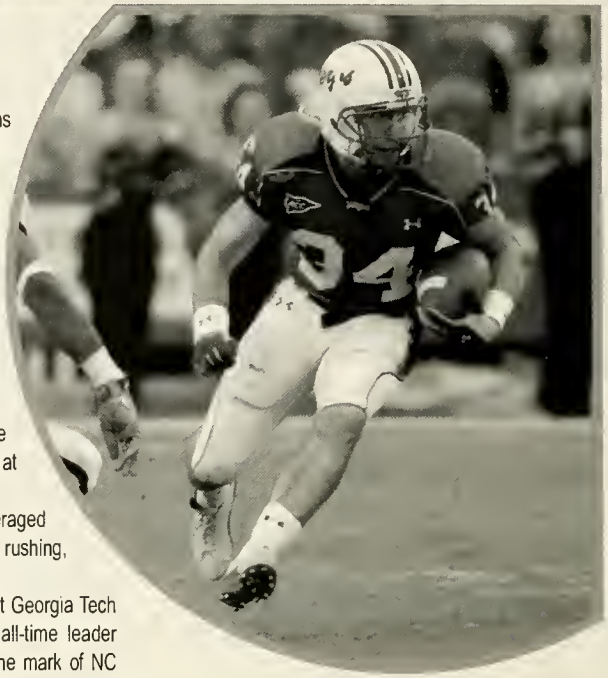
Living Up To Their Name

- After stumbling out of the blocks in their first year, Maryland's special teams have been nothing short of, well, special the last three years under coordinator Ray Rychleski.
- In placekicker Nick Novak, punter Adam Podlesh and return man Steve Suter, the Terrapins have the ACC's first team all-conference kicker from 2002 and 2003, its second-team punter from 2003 (and the first Terp freshman in history to make All-ACC) and a specialist who has been first team all-league since 2002.
- The Terps have drawn national attention for their unit in 2004, as they were ranked in the preseason as one of the best units in the nation by Collegefootballnews.com (1st), Lindy's (1st), ESPN (3rd) and Phil Steele (3rd).
- Suter (punt return yards) and Novak (scoring) finished their careers atop the Atlantic Coast Conference record books in their respective categories. Podlesh was named a Ray Guy Award semifinalist for the second year in a row.

Suter ACC Record-Holder

- Steve Suter started his career as somewhat of an unknown on the Maryland football roster. Four years later, the Terrapins' "Mr. Everything" is leaving with his name penciled in the ACC record books.
- His eligibility at Maryland now exhausted, Suter did it all in his four seasons with the Terps. A starting wideout who returned punts and kicks, Suter was also involved in the running game and was one of the team's few receivers who could play at any spot (X, Z or slot).
- In the last three years, Suter has averaged 15.0 yards per touch whether it be rushing, receiving or in the returns game.
- With his first return of the day against Georgia Tech in 2004, Suter became the ACC's all-time leader in punt return yardage, surpassing the mark of NC State's Ledel George (1,191, 1990-93). He finished his Terp career with 1,271 yards.
- In 2002, Suter tied the NCAA record for punt returns for a touchdown in a season (4). He returned two punts in 2003 for scores, leaving him just two shy of tying the current NCAA career record of eight (Wes Welker, Texas Tech, 2000-03; Antonio Perkins, Oklahoma, 2001-pres.).
- Suter's six returns for a TD are a Maryland record.



Novak Finishes Stellar Career

- It seems like ages since placekicker Nick Novak hit a pair of memorable kicks at Georgia Tech that got the ball rolling for him and the Terrapins in 2001. Eligibility now exhausted, Novak has gone from the focal point of a position of concern on the Terp roster to one of the premier players at his position in the country over the last four years.
- Starting with his game-tying kick at Georgia Tech in '01, Novak made 76 of his final 93 field goal attempts (82%), with five of the 18 misses coming from 50 yards or further (and two being blocks).
- A semifinalist for the Lou Groza Award in 2002 and 2003, Novak finished his career 31 points shy of the NCAA scoring record. Novak finished his career with 393 career points, a total which ranks tied for fifth in Division I-A history.
- For the efforts of his career, Novak was named the 2004 recipient of the Jim Tatum Award, an honor bestowed upon the top senior student-athlete in the league.
- Novak's first field goal of 2004, a 43-yarder against Northern Illinois, set a new ACC scoring record, breaking the mark of FSU's Scott Bentley (326).
- With his game-winning 43-yard field goal in the '03 NC State game, Novak became the all-time leading scorer in Maryland history, surpassing the 308 points of Jess Atkinson (1981-84).
- The Charlottesville, Va., native made 54 percent (7-of-13) of his attempts for his career from 50 yards or further. He owns the school record with a 54-yard kick against Duke in 2003.

Nick Novak finished his Terrapin career as the ACC's all-time leading scorer.

Podlesh A Ray Guy Semifinalist

- Sophomore Adam Podlesh had a tall order as a freshman in filling the shoes of Maryland's all-time leading punter, Brooks Barnard. Podlesh is playing like Barnard's record-setting career will barely have a chance for the ink to dry in the team's media guide before being moved aside.
- Podlesh averaged 42.3 yards per punt in 2002, third-best in the ACC, the fifth-best in school history and best ever by a freshman. It was his net punting and, more specifically, his ability to pin an opponent that had him finish the season as a Ray Guy Award semifinalist (an honor he achieved again in 2004).
- In 2004, Podlesh maintained a 44.8-yard average (second-best in the ACC and 10th-best in the nation) and his net average (39.4) led the ACC and was also seventh in the NCAA.
- On 116 career punts, Podlesh has dropped 37 percent (43) inside the opponents' 20-yard line.
- Podlesh placed 21 of his 63 punts in '04 inside the 20.
- Podlesh was critical to the win over Florida State, averaging 45 yards per punt while dropping three inside the 20 and booting three for over 50 yards.
- A week after being named ACC Specialist of the Week for his play against Georgia Tech, Podlesh followed that performance with an 11-punt day that featured a 45.2-yard average, two punts inside the 20, no touchbacks and a career-long 70-yard effort that was downed at NCSU's 5-yard line.
- In being named a second team All-ACC selection at punter in 2003, Podlesh became the first freshman in school history to be recognized by the league. He earned the honor for the second straight season in 2004.

DJ • Defensive Juggernaut

- The question surrounding the 2004 Terrapins heading into the season was virtually all about the quarterback position. In '03, however, that same "buzz" was surrounding "who would replace E.J. Henderson" at middle linebacker. Thanks to the play of D'Qwell Jackson, those questions are as good as forgotten.
- Maybe the fiercest competitor on the Terp roster, Jackson has led the Terrapins in tackles in 13 of 24 games the last two years. He has also had 15 career games with double-digit tackles.
- Jackson, a first team All-ACC selection who finished second in balloting for Defensive Player of the Year honors, led the league in tackles with 123. His average of 11.2 tackles per game made him the only player in the ACC to average 10 or more tackles per game.
- Jackson's average of 11.2 tackles per game ranked 11th-best in the NCAA for 2004.
- Jackson earned ACC Defensive Lineman of the Week three times in 2004 and was one of just three ACC players (Devin Hester, specialist, and Jonathan Abbate, rookie) to have earned ACC Player of the Week more than twice.
- The Largo, Fla., native was everywhere against Clemson, notching a staggering career-high 18 tackles (nine solo) to go along with 2.5 TFLs and a sack.
- Jackson was one of the few bright spots against Georgia Tech, tying what was then his career-high with 16 tackles (four solo) while adding a half-TFL and a PBU.
- After suffering a hyperextended elbow against Temple in week two, concern was that Jackson might have trouble playing against West Virginia. On the contrary, he finished with 16 tackles, a sack, one TFL and one PBU.
- In the opener, Jackson racked up nine tackles and intercepted two passes against Northern Illinois, both of which led to Terrapin scores.
- In the 2003 season -- his first as a starter -- Jackson led the team in tackles with 136, one shy of the record for tackles by a sophomore at Maryland. His 10.5 tackles per game ranked him seventh in the ACC and tops among sophomores.

Jackson vs. Butkus

- Below are Jackson's statistics alongside the three finalists for the 2004 Butkus Award (nation's top linebacker), Virginia's Ahmad Brooks, USC's Matt Grootegoed and Texas' Derrick Johnson:

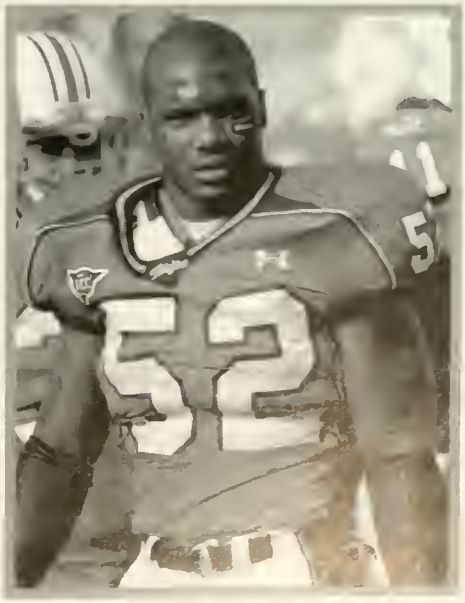
Merriman Ends Career in Style

- After playing through injury most of [illegible] DE Shawne Merriman -- a.k.a. "Lights Out" -- had his best season in 2004. After earning first team All-ACC status, he opted in early January to declare himself eligible for the NFL Draft, the second Maryland junior defensive lineman to do so.
- Merriman completed just his first season as the full-time starter but was still able to make waves in the Terrapin record books. In 37 career games, Merriman posted 33 tackles for loss and 22 sacks.
- In the team's season finale against Wake Forest -- what was ultimately his final game as a Terp -- Merriman registered a team-high 12 tackles, 3.5 TFLs and 2.5 sacks.
- Merriman ends his career ranked seventh in tackles for loss (33) and second in sacks (22). His 17 TFLs tie him for the fifth-best single season in school history while his 8.5 sacks tie his own mark of a season before which rank 11th on the single-season list.
- Merriman led all ACC defensive linemen and was second on the Terp team with 85 total tackles.
- Merriman led the Terrapins and finished tied for second in the ACC in sacks (8.5 total/0.8 avg.), was third in the league in TFLs (17 total/1.55 avg.) and led the league in fumbles forced with three.
- Midway through the season, Merriman was added to the list of nominees for the Ted Hendricks Award, an honor given to the player considered the nation's top defensive lineman.
- At Clemson, Merriman made big play after big play, registering seven tackles, three TFLs, one sack and one forced fumble.
- The Upper Marlboro native posted a career-high 16 tackles from his defensive end position against NC State.



Shawne Merriman (left) and D'Qwell Jackson each earned first team all-ACC honors in 2004.

A total of 35 sophomores and freshmen saw action in 2004. Included in that number were eight true freshmen, including quarterback Jordan Steffy, who saw the field six times last season.

Youth is Served

- With 22 seniors (12 of whom were starters), the 2003 Maryland squad was the most experienced in the last four years. One year later, the 2004 edition of the Terps had just three less seniors but it was easily the least experienced of Ralph Friedgen's tenure.
- The '04 team had the largest group of true freshmen in recent memory (30). All told, there were 49 Terrapins on the roster with four years or more of eligibility remaining at the beginning of the season.
- For the season, a total of 35 sophomores and freshmen saw action including eight true freshmen, two more than all of 2003.

Upon Further Review

- In addition to the high number of youthful Terps taking the field, the more experienced Terps in terms of their academic eligibility were not what one would consider long in the tooth when it comes to playing time.
- A year after opening the season with 15 senior starters, Maryland finished 2004 with eight seniors in its starting lineup. Four of those players, however, were in their first season as starters.
- Of the 22 offensive and defensive players listed as starters on the two-deep heading into the season-ending Wake Forest game, 13 were in their first year as starters.
- Notably, Maryland lost 12 players in 2003 who made their way to in NFL camps in the fall.

A Milestone Win

- The Terrapins' 20-17 win over Florida State on October 30 was notable in many respects. It was a landmark win for the current coaching staff and takes the program to heights not achieved in decades. The win was:
  - Maryland's first in 15 tries against FSU.
  - The team's first over a top five opponent since 1983.
  - The first over a top 10 team under Friedgen and for the school since 1990.
  - The first by Maryland over one of the "big three" in Florida since the Terps beat Miami in 1984, a game that saw them trail 31-0 at halftime.

Terps Among Nation's Elite

- Over the course of the past four years, the Maryland football program has been among the best in the nation. The Terrapins are 36-14 in that span with a 23-3 record at home.
- Maryland was one of just five BCS programs to win at least 10 games each season from 2001-2003. The four others were Miami (Fla.), Oklahoma, Texas and Washington State.
- The Terrapins are joined by just four other schools since 2001 to finish 2001, 2002 and 2003 ranked in the nation's top 20 in both major polls while also earning a spot in the top 25 of both preseason polls for 2004 (Miami (Fla.), Oklahoma and Texas and Michigan are the others).

A Class Act

- The success of the Maryland football team has not stopped on the playing field in recent years, as the team has improved its academic standing under Ralph Friedgen's watch.
- All 19 members of the 2004 senior class were on schedule to earn their degrees on time.
- Since Friedgen joined the Terps in 2001, 58 of 66 football players who have exhausted their eligibility have graduated, including 30 in fewer than five years.
- Suter was one of the team's top scholar-athletes, earning a 4.0 grade point average in 2003-04.
- From the membership has its benefits file: when on the road, Friedgen lets players line up to eat by grade point average. The Terps must be hungry -- 11 players earned a 3.5 GPA or better for the entire 2003-04 academic year.

#22/21 MARYLAND 23
NORTHERN ILLINOIS 20

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Nick Novak kicked three field goals to become the all-time leader in scoring in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Maryland Terrapins won their first season-opener in three years in outlasting Northern Illinois before a sellout crowd at Byrd Stadium.

Novak hit field goals of 43, 34 and 44 yards and added a pair of extra points. His 11 points gave him 335 for his career, breaking the league's previous record of 326 by Scott Bentley of Florida State.

His third field goal was a 44-yarder that gave Maryland a 23-12 lead with 10:33 left in the game. But Northern Illinois pulled within three points five minutes later when Jason Hawkins scooped up a fumble and went 85 yards for a touchdown and Huskie quarterback Phil Horvath found Sam Hurd with a two-point pass

Maryland managed two first downs and drove to midfield on its next possession, but was forced to punt. The Huskies got the ball back with 2:04 to play, but their attempt to tie the game fell short when the clock ran out with NIU on the Terp 33-yard line.

Josh Allen opened his junior year by hitting the century mark, rushing for 102 yards on 22 carries and scoring on a 1-yard touchdown on Maryland's opening drive of the third quarter.

Sammy Maldonado also ran well for the Terps, gaining 84 yards on 14 rushes and scoring Maryland's first touchdown of the season on a 9-yard scamper early in the second quarter.

Northern Illinois scored first when Josh Allen covered a fumbled pitchout by Terp QB Joel Statham in the end zone for a Huskie safety.

The Terps rallied for a 10-2 halftime lead and went ahead 17-2 early in the third quarter when Allen's 1-yard scoring run cashed in a Huskie turnover on the second-half kickoff.

NIU came right back to go 80 yards on 10 plays to set up a 4-yard scoring pass from Horvath to Garrett Wolfe

Maryland came back on the next possession with a 67-yard, 12-play drive to set up a 34-yard field goal by Novak and pull ahead 20-9.

The Terrapin defense held NIU to just 337 yards in total offense. The effort was led by junior defensive end Shawne Merriman, who finished with a career-high 10 tackles, including three for loss and one sack. D'Qwell Jackson, the Terps' leading tackler from a year ago, finished with nine tackles and a pair of interceptions.

#23/21 MARYLAND 45
TEMPLE 22

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Sammy Maldonado hit the century mark for the first time in his career rushing for 106 yards and a pair of 1-yard touchdowns to lead Maryland to a non-conference victory over Temple before the second straight sellout crowd at Byrd Stadium.

Maldonado, a transfer from Ohio State, sparked the Maryland rushing offense while sophomore quarterback Joel Statham passed for 268 yards to pace a balanced Terrapin attack.

Statham completed 18 of 25 passes and threw for two touchdowns before leaving the game in the middle of the third quarter. He threw for 201 yards in the first half, staking Maryland to a 28-0 halftime lead.

After the Terps' defense forced a three-and-out on the first Temple possession, Maryland went 51 yards in nine plays to set up a 12-yard scoring pass from Statham to Jo Jo Walker.

The same pattern again occurred on the next set of possessions, with a Maryland defensive stand setting up an 11-play, 46-yard drive that resulted in Maldonado's first touchdown.

Josh Allen scored on a 5-yard run early in the second quarter and Statham found Derrick Fenner on a 14-yard TD pass prior to halftime, as Maryland scored on its first four possessions of the game.

Temple got the first score of the second half, as quarterback Walter Washington ran for a 3-yard touchdown midway through the third quarter. But Maldonado's second score brought the Maryland lead back to 35-7 later in the period.

Washington added an 18-yard scoring run early in the fourth quarter. The Owls QB ended the game as his team's leading rusher with 75 yards on 15 carries and threw for 188 yards on a 16-for-27 performance.

Senior defensive lineman Henry Scott fell on a Temple fumble in the end zone for the Terps' final touchdown of the game.

The victory was the 13th straight at home for Maryland and ran Head Coach Ralph Friedgen's Byrd Stadium record to 21-1 in three seasons plus two games.

Freshman Wesley Jefferson led the Maryland defense with 12 tackles, playing mostly with the second team.

Mountaineer Field
Morgantown, W.Va.
Sept. 18, 2004

#7/8 WEST VIRGINIA 19 (OT)
#21/19 MARYLAND 16

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — Chris Henry caught a 7-yard scoring pass from Rasheed Marshall to end the first overtime period and lift No. 7 West Virginia to an overtime victory over 19th-ranked Maryland before a sellout crowd at Mountaineer Field.

The WVU victory ended a four-game losing streak in the series.

The Mountaineers won the overtime coin toss and selected to have the ball second in the extra period. Maryland scored first, as Nick Novak's third field goal of the day was a 33-yarder that put the Terps ahead 16-13 in the OT.

West Virginia got a first down on its possession, then faced a third-and-4 at the 7-yard line. Marshall found Henry on a 7-yard slant pattern in the corner for the victory.

Despite four turnovers in the first half, Maryland trailed only 7-3 at halftime. Brad Cooper then hit a 45-yard field goal midway through the period to put West Virginia up 10-3.

But two possessions later, Maryland took advantage of a short punt and started a drive on the WVU 43. It took the Terrapins only four plays to cover the 43 yards, as Joel Statham hit Derrick Fenner on a 27-yard touchdown pass that tied the game with 1:21 left in the third quarter.

Maryland took its first lead of the game when Novak ended the Terps' opening possession of the fourth quarter with a 46-yard field goal. The score, with 9:23 left in the game, capped a 12-play, 52-yard drive.

Novak and Cooper then traded misses, with the Terps' Novak missing from 49 yards with 1:15 left and Cooper having a 39-yarder blocked by William Kershaw with five seconds to play in regulation.

WVU's Kay-Jay Harris finished with 142 yards on 32 carries, scoring the game's first points on a 6-yard touchdown run in the first quarter Henry finished with five catches for 72 yards.

Sammy Maldonado had 69 yards rusing and Josh Allen added 66 for Maryland.

A strong defensive performance by the Terps was led by D'Qwell Jackson, who finished with 16 tackles.

#15/15 VIRGINIA TECH 55
MARYLAND 6

BLACKSBURG, Va. — Virginia Tech turned four first-half turnovers into a 41-3 halftime lead and went on to take a victory over Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference game played before a Thursday-night crowd at Lane Stadium.

On the first possession of the game, the Terrapins threw an interception that turned into a short-field drive, as Tech went 29 yards to set up a 1-yard touchdown run by Mike Imoh.

The next offensive play by the Terps resulted in a fumble that was recovered by the Hokies. This time, Imoh went over from six yards out, finishing a 17-yard drive that led to a 14-0 Virginia Tech lead just four minutes into the game.

Maryland's Nick Novak put the Terrapins on the board late in the opening quarter with a 42-yard field goal, his first of two field goals in the game. But Tech got a 35-yard pass from Bryan Randall to Jeff King for its third touchdown of the first quarter and a 21-3 lead.

Again, Maryland suffered an interception on its final possession of the first quarter, and Tech turned the opportunity into a 5-yard touchdown run by Justin Hamilton on the opening play of the second quarter. The score capped a 24-yard scoring drive.

Virginia Tech got its offense going later in the quarter, going on scoring drives of 74 and 62 yards to set up scores. The first ended in a 27-yard field goal by Brandon Pace, and the second was a 15-yard touchdown pass from Randall to Jared Mazzetta.

The Terps' fourth turnover of the period, an interception in the final minute, led to a 34-yard field goal by Pace as the first half ended.

Randall scored on a 1-yard run late in the third quarter, and Jimmy Williams returned an interception 34 yards for a score for Tech just a minute later.

Novak hit a 33-yard field goal for the Terps in the fourth quarter.

Derrick Fenner had a season-high seven catches for Maryland, while Steve Suter had six receptions. Reserve quarterback Sam Hollenbach came off the bench to complete 5 of 8 passes for 53 yards.

Despite the lopsided score, the Maryland defense held a strong Tech offense to just 376 yards. The Terp defenders were led by William Kershaw, who had 14 tackles.

GAME 11

College Park, Md.
Nov. 27, 2004

MARYLAND 13
WAKE FOREST 7

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Sam Hollenbach threw for 164 yards in his first college start and Maryland's defense held Wake Forest to just seven points as the Terrapins closed the 2004 season with an Atlantic Coast Conference victory before 48,226 at Byrd Stadium.

Hollenbach, a sophomore making his first collegiate start, went 16-for-27 with no interceptions. Going 7-for-10 in the opening quarter, as the Terrapins took a 7-0 lead.

The Maryland defense was effective, holding the Demon Deacons to 272 yards in total offense, despite a 103-yard rushing effort by junior tailback Chris Barclay.

Maryland forced a crucial turnover by the Demon Deacons midway through the final period that preserved the victory. Wake Forest trailed 13-7 when Cory Randolph replaced starting quarterback Ben Mauk and drove the Demon Deacons to the Maryland 10-yard line. But the march ended when safety Chris Kelley forced a fumble at the 1 and the Terrapins recovered with 8:25 remaining.

Maryland then punted, and Wake Forest failed on a fourth-down try from the Maryland 27 with 4:06 to go. The Deacons' final drive ended before they reached midfield.

Nick Novak kicked two field goals for the Terrapins and finished his career with 393 points, most in ACC history and tied for fifth on the NCAA Division-I list.

Wake Forest's only touchdown came in the third quarter on a 28-yard drive following a Terrapin turnover.

The Terrapins led 13-0 in the third quarter when a Wake Forest punt hit a Maryland player and the Deacons recovered the fumble. That set up a 5-yard touchdown run by Barclay, and late in the quarter Jeremy Thompson blocked a 37-yard field goal try by Novak to keep the score at 13-6.

It was 13-0 at halftime, the first time this season the Demon Deacons were held scoreless in the first half.

After Ryan Plackemeier missed a 25-yard field goal for Wake Forest, Hollenbach directed an 11-play, 80-yard drive that produced the Terrapins' first touchdown. Hollenbach went 3-for-4 for 40 yards before Josh Allen scored on a 13-yard run.

In the second quarter, Hollenbach engineered a 13-play drive that produced a 22-yard field goal by Novak and a 10-0 lead with 2:27 left. Allen carried nine times for 43 yards during the march.

Maryland then forced a punt, and the Terrapins moved 34 yards in seven plays over 40 seconds before Novak kicked a 47-yard field goal as time expired in the half.

Allen gained 74 yards on 18 carries before leaving the game with an injury late in the half.

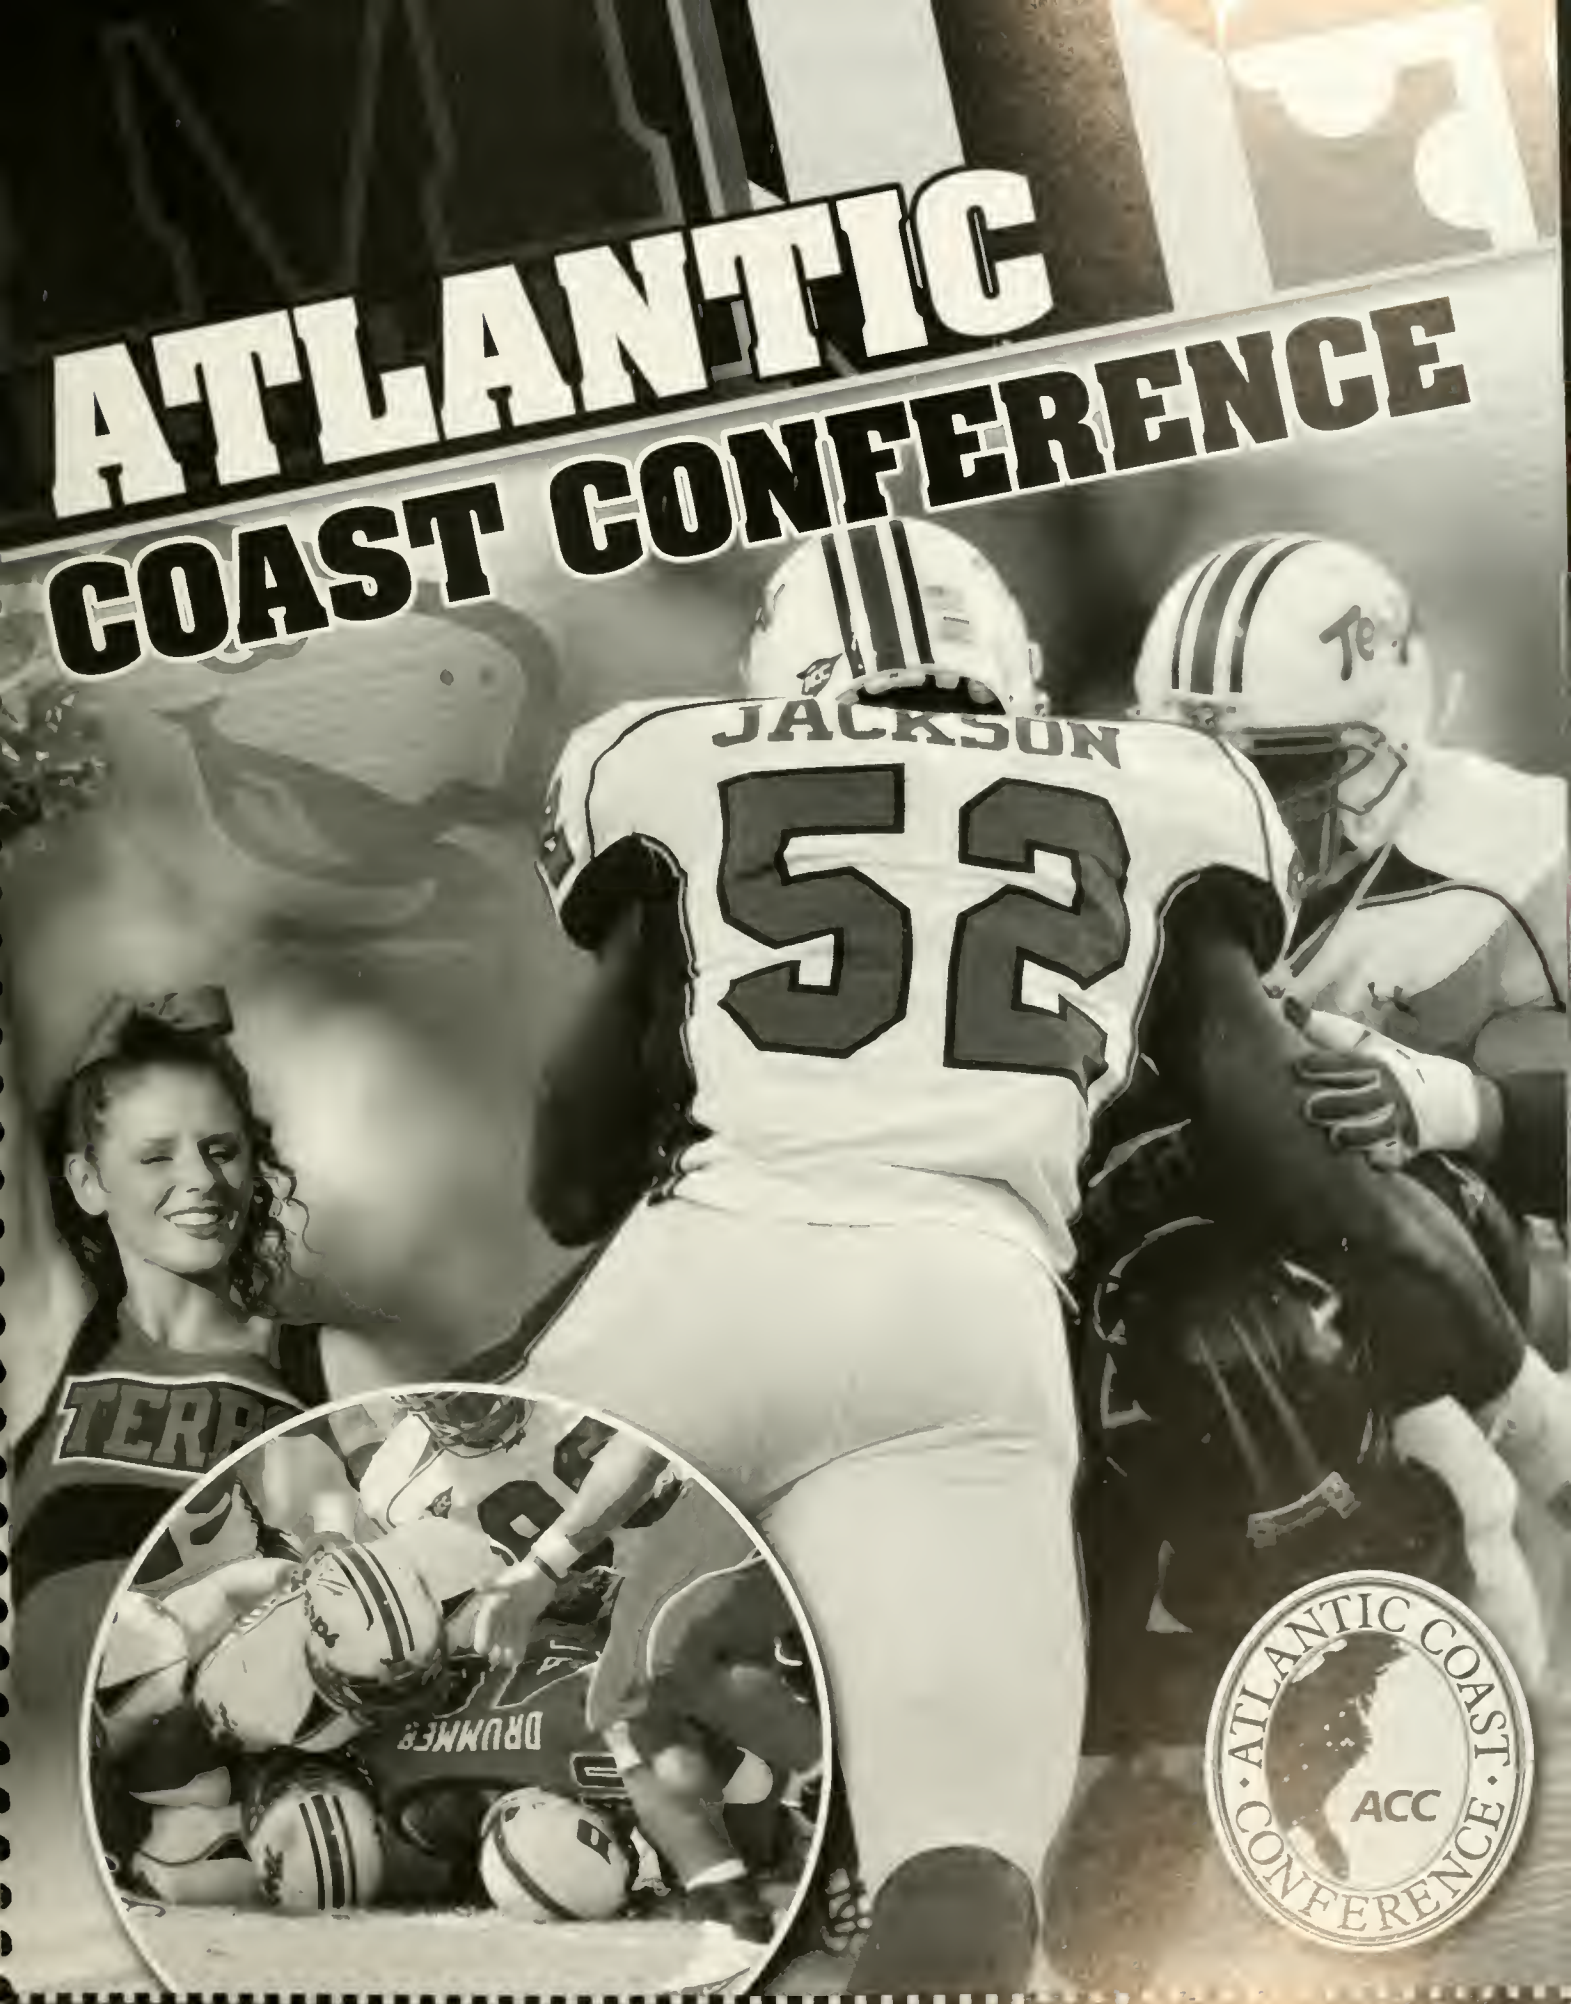
ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE



THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

The Tradition

John Swofford, ACC Commissioner

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 53rd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 94 national champion-ships, including 49 in women's competition and 45 in men's. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 120 times in men's competition and 60 times in women's action.

The conference had an immediate impact on the national college football scene in the fall of 1953 when the University of Maryland captured the first of what would eventually be five national football titles for the ACC. Clemson laid claim to the league's second national title in 1981 while Georgia Tech followed suit in 1990. Florida State pocketed national titles No. 4 and 5 in 1993 and 1999, respectively.

In addition, Miami has laid claim to five national gridiron titles over the past 22 seaons. Four of the Hurricanes' five national titles (1983, 1987, 1989, 2001) were unanimous with both the sportswriters and coaches polls in agreement, while in 1991 Miami (AP) shared the national title with Washington (coaches).

The 12 institutions that take to the field this fall under the ACC banner have produced 497 first or second team gridiron All-Americans and 70 first-team academic All-Americans. ACC schools have had 2,125 players selected in the annual professional football draft, including 191 first round selections.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC over the years has proved itself to be among the elite in Division I-A football. The ACC is the nation's winningest bowl conference, as the 12 current league teams are a combined 132-115-5 (.533) in post-season play.

Following its 3-3 bowl mark in 2004, the ACC is the only conference to post a .500-or-better record in post-season play in each of the past four seasons. Since 2001, the ACC is 16-9 in postseason play and has the best bowl winning percentage (.640) among all BCS conferences.

In 2002, the ACC set an NCAA record when seven of its nine teams (78%) received bowl bids.

Georgia Tech is the winningest bowl team in Division I-A history. Following its 51-14 win over Syracuse in last year's Champs Sports Bowl, the Yellow Jackets are 22-11 (.667) while Boston College (.625) is fourth and Florida State (.606) is eighth.

For the first time in league history, the ACC surpassed the 3.5 million mark in total attendance in 2004 and for the fifth straight year, the league set new single-season records in attendance. In 66 home games during the 2004 season, ACC teams drew 3,693,032 fans, breaking the existing record of 3,006,841 set during the 2003 season.

2004-05 in Review

The 2004-05 academic year concluded with the league pocketing three more national team titles and seven individual NCAA crowns. In all, the ACC has won 51 national team titles over the last 15 years.

The ACC's 2004-05 national champions were Wake Forest in field hockey, North Carolina in men's basketball and Duke in women's golf. In addition, a total of 181 student-athletes from the ACC earned first, second or third team All-America honors this past year.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200.00 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

In front of the first capacity crowd in Gator Bowl history, 16,666, Maryland's Lu Gambino was a one-man wrecking crew, rushing for 165 yards and scoring three touchdowns. Gambino's three scores propelled Maryland to a 20-7 lead, but Georgia reeled off 13 points in the fourth quarter to tie the game. The Bulldogs threatened to win the game in the closing seconds, but time ran out with Georgia on Maryland's four-yard line. Despite the tie, there was no question as to the game's most valuable player. Gambino won the Burkhalter Award, signifying the game's outstanding performer. Gambino was inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame in 1992.

Three times in the first half Missouri turned the ball over, and all three times Maryland scored a touchdown as the Terrapins defeated the Tigers, 20-7, to earn their first-ever postseason victory. The Terrapin running attack, led by Bob Shemonski and Ed Modzelewski, amassed 266 rushing yards, the second-most by a Maryland bowl team. Maryland defensive back John Idzik set up Maryland's first score with a 26-yard interception return to the Tiger 11-yard line. Shemonski scored on a sweep on the next play for the go-ahead touchdown. Shemonski scored again on a six-yard run late in the second quarter to put the Terps up 20-0.

In what may have been perhaps the biggest win in Maryland football history, the Terps upset No. 1-ranked and regular season national champion Tennessee, 28-13, in the 1952 Sugar Bowl. The Terps were led by running back Ed "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski (153 yards on 28 carries) and the brilliant play of running back/defensive back Ed Fullerton who scored two touchdowns and threw for another. The Terps put the game out of reach in the third quarter with a 46-yard interception for a touchdown by Fullerton, giving the Terps a 28-6 lead. Maryland finished the season with an overall record of 10-0-0 and a No. 3 national ranking

OKLAHOMA 7 MARYLAND 0

This was the first game of the contract that pitted the Big Eight Conference champion against the Atlantic Coast Conference champion. The Terrapins took an undefeated season and the nation's No. 1 ranking into the game against an Oklahoma squad that used a powerful running attack to grind out a second quarter touchdown to propel the Sooners to a 7-0 win. Twice the Terps had first down opportunities with the ball inside the 10-yard line and failed to come away with any points. Despite the narrow loss, the Terrapins claimed the 1953 national championship.

The third-ranked Terps came into the Orange Bowl riding a 15-game winning streak, only to have it snapped by an Oklahoma team that extended its winning streak to 30 games with its 20-6 win. Maryland came away from its first bowl game in 18 years a bitterly disappointed team. The Terrapins dominated Georgia in all phases, but the game was tied 10-10 at the half thanks to a couple of big plays by the Bulldogs. The Terps' lone touchdown came via Walter White's 68-yard touchdown reception.

The Maryland defense, led by All-ACC defensive tackle Randy White, shut out Tennessee for nearly four quarters but lost the game when the Volunteers' quarterback, Randy Wallace, found Larry Seivers for an 11-yard touchdown pass with 2:08 to play. The Terps were punting from their own 13 when a bad snap from the center was recovered by the Volunteers on the Maryland seven-yard line. Maryland had a chance to win the game but an apparent 20-yard touchdown pass was ruled out of bounds.

MARYLAND 13 FLORIDA 0

The ACC champion Terrapins headed into the 1975 Gator Bowl as a seven-point underdog to the Florida Gators. However, this did not deter the Terps, who were coming off their best season (8-2-1) in 20 years. Maryland shut out the Gators, 13-0, in front of a large pro-Florida crowd in a steady downpour. The Maryland defense held the SEC's total offense leader scoreless and intercepted two Florida passes which led to the first 10 Maryland points. This was the first Terp win over an SEC team since 1955.

Maryland entered the 1977 Cotton Bowl with a perfect 11-0 record, but the hopes for a perfect season were dashed quickly when Houston scored 21 first-quarter points en route to a 30-21 win. The Terps cut the lead to 27-21 in the fourth quarter, but a 5:42 drive by the Cougars late in the quarter resulted in a field goal, slamming the door on any Terp comeback hopes.

1949 RANKED 14TH

The Tatum system was clicking by the third season under the new coach. Maryland scored more points than in any previous season in its history – 266 to its opponents' 81. Jim Tatum and a collection of new players lifted Maryland to its first ranking in the AP poll. Newcomers such as Ed Modzelewski, Bob Ward, Bob Shemonski and junior All-America tackle Ray Krouse were instrumental in leading the Terrapins to eight decisive regular season victories, losing only to No. 13 Michigan State, 14-7. The Terps plowed through the opposition, and after beating No. 15 Boston U. by a 14-13 count, earned the No. 15 poll position themselves. Maryland ended the regular season with a 13-0 shutout at Miami. The Terps earned their first bowl victory with a 20-7 rout of Missouri in the Gator Bowl.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE CO-CHAMPIONS

Maryland completed its only undefeated season in history and clobbered top-ranked and heavily favored Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl to lay its own claim to a national crown. Led by All-America tackles Bob Ward and Ray Krouse, brothers Ed and Dick Modzelewski, and QB Jack Scarbath, Maryland accepted a Sugar Bowl invitation against the recommendation of Southern Conference presidents who sought for all league institutions to boycott the bowls. The Terps were decided underdogs against No. 1 Tennessee, but Ed "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski's 153 rushing yards and a 28-13 victory prompted Tennessee coach Bob Neyland to state, "We were soundly beaten by a superior team."

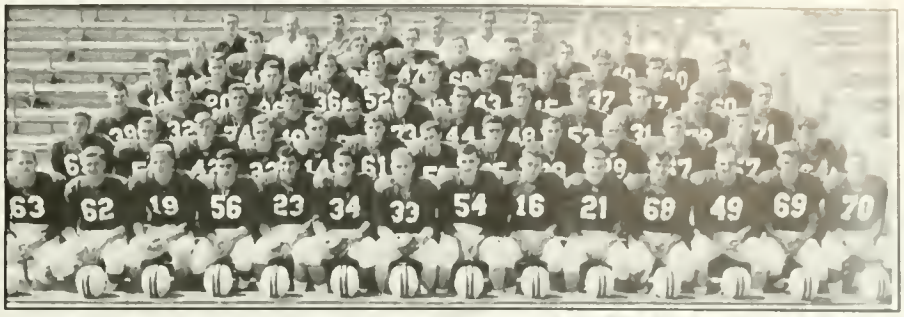
1952 RANKED 13TH



The amazing win streak continued in 1952, but it ended abruptly and Maryland was kept out of a bowl game despite its No. 13 final ranking. The Terps had amassed 19 straight wins and 22 straight games without a defeat before falling 21-14 at Mississippi on Nov. 15. The end came in the eighth game of a schedule that was revised heavily after Southern Conference teams refused to play Maryland because the Terps had chosen to play in the previous season's Sugar Bowl. Ole Miss scored a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns to upend the Terps, and Maryland fell 27-7 to Alabama the following week to quell any hopes of a bowl bid. Bernie Faloney and Jack Scarbath both were All-Americans and Scarbath, a preseason favorite to win the Heisman Trophy, finished second in the balloting.

1953 NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

ACC CO-CHAMPIONS

College Park is home to the nation's No. 1 football team. The Maryland grid team swept past its 10 regular-season opponents with a perfect record and, in so doing, scored a total of 298 points while limiting its opposition to a record 31. Coach Jim Tatum was named the national coach of the year and many Old Line players were selected to various all-star teams. Operating out of the split T, Maryland ranked sixth in the nation in total offense with a 359.5-yard average. On defense, the team yielded only 193.2 yards per game and led the country in rushing (83.9) and scoring defense (3.1). During the '53 campaign, the Terps made up for two defeats handed them in 1952 by decisively beating Mississippi and Alabama. After the Terps downed Miami 30-0, Hurricanes coach Andy Gustafson summed up the nation's top team by saying, "Maryland has one of the greatest teams I've ever seen." Maryland began the season with a No. 9 preseason ranking by the Associated Press and took over the top spot in the polls on the final week of the regular season after the No. 2 Terps waxed the No. 11 Crimson Tide, 21-0. The top-ranked and undefeated Terps tied No. 18 Duke for the inaugural ACC title, but fell to 10-1 after losing the Orange Bowl to Oklahoma, 7-0.

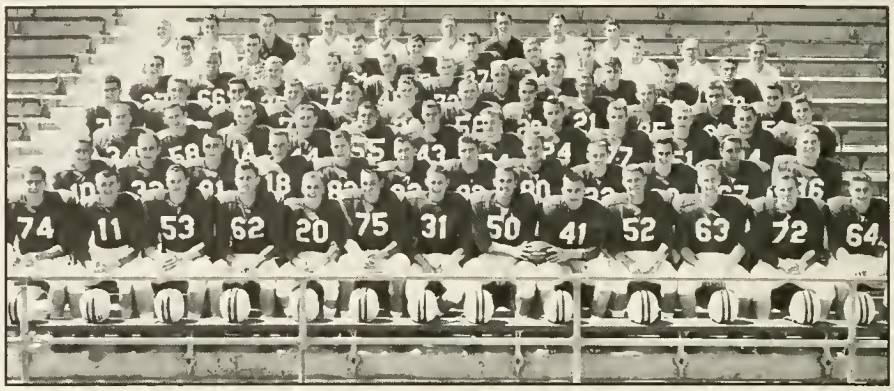
The Terps carried coach Jim Tatum off the field at UNC after a 20-[illegible] victory of the Tar Heels.

1954 RANKED 8TH



Entering the season ranked No. 3 in the nation, the Terps began the 1954 campaign in convincing style, shutting out Kentucky 24-0 in their season opener. But the Terps stumbled in their next game, losing a close 12-7 decision to fourth-ranked UCLA. That dropped Maryland to No. 13 in the polls heading into its ACC matchup vs. Wake Forest. A 13-13 tie with the Demon Deacons sent the Terps tumbling out of the national rankings for the first time since 1950. Maryland rebounded to shut out North Carolina 33-0 before dropping a 9-7 road decision to Miami. The Terps went on to win their final five games by a combined score of 200-33, including a 74-13 Thanksgiving Day shellacking of Missouri. Maryland finished the season with a No. 8 national ranking

Jerry Claiborne's second season as Maryland coach lifted the Terps to a 5-1 mark in the ACC, and their first national ranking in 12 seasons. The Terps were 5-3 after a 42-22 loss to No. 6 Penn State, but three decisive wins over Virginia, Clemson and Tulane earned Maryland a bid to its first bowl game since the 1956 Orange Bowl. Maryland dominated Georgia in the Peach Bowl, outgaining the Bulldogs 461 to 284 on offense and driving inside the Georgia 20-yard line seven times. Four turnovers proved costly, however, and after a 10-10 tie at intermission, all Maryland could muster were a pair of fourth-quarter field goals by Steve Mike-Mayer. Defensive tackle Randy White earned the first of his two All-America awards.

The Terps fired out of the gates 8-0 including a 31-7 homecoming win over No. 20 NC State. Maryland steadily rose in the polls, and after a 27-0 shutout of Duke, was No. 5 heading into a showdown at No. 2 Penn State. The Nittany Lions won a 27-3 decision in front of 78,019 which dropped Maryland to No. 13 in the polls. But after a 17-7 win at Virginia, the Terps were paired with Clemson for an ACC first-place showdown. No. 11 Maryland and No. 12 Clemson entered the regular-season finale both tied at 5-0. Clemson emerged from the Byrd Stadium shootout a 28-24 victor. The loss sent Maryland into a Sun Bowl matchup with Texas, where it suffered its worst bowl loss ever, 42-0.

1982 RANKED 20TH

Junior quarterback Boomer Esiason led the Terrapins and first-year head coach Bobby Ross to a seven-game midseason win streak which earned Maryland its first national ranking in two seasons. After early season losses at No. 7 Penn State and No. 17 West Virginia, Maryland scored points at will while rolling through its ACC schedule. The Terrapins' 31-point average was second only to its undefeated season of 1951, and Ross was named the national coach of the year by the Washington Touchdown Club. A 31-24 win at No. 10 North Carolina put Maryland back in the rankings, and another shootout with Clemson would determine the ACC champion. No. 16 Maryland was invited to the inaugural Aloha Bowl in Honolulu where it surrendered a last-second touchdown to No. 9 Washington, losing 21-20.

QB Scott McBrien leaps into the end zone for the game-winning touchdown against NC State on Nov. 9.

2003 RANKED 17TH

After starting its season 0-2, Maryland finished the season by winning 10 of its last 11 games for the second year in a row. In doing so, the Terrapins became the first team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to win 10 games after starting 0-2. The Terps finished 2003 10-3, winning the Toyota Gator Bowl by a resounding 41-7 margin over regional rival West Virginia, a team they had beaten once already earlier in the season. Scott McBrien was named the game's MVP after posting a career performance (21-33, 381 yards, 3 TDs, 0 int, 2 rush TD) against his former school. Ralph Friedgen's 31 wins in three years marked the seventh-most in NCAA history by a third-year coach and most-ever by an ACC coach. Ten players were named first or second team All-ACC, most by any team in the league.

TERPS IN THE HALL OF FAME

JERRY CLAIBORNE

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1999)

Former Maryland football coach Jerry Claiborne was selected to join 12 legendary college football players and two other coaches among the 1999 class of inductees into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame.

Claiborne coached 28 seasons overall between stints at Virginia Tech (1961-70), Maryland (1972- 81) and Kentucky (1982-89), and compiled a 179-122-8 record in the process.

At Maryland, Claiborne was named The Sporting News National Coach of the Year in 1974 after winning the Atlantic Coast Conference and finishing the season ranked No. 13 by the Associated Press. He was the District III Coach of the Year in 1973, 1975 and 1976.

In all, Claiborne was the coach of the year in three different conferences --- Southern (1963), ACC (1973, '75, '76) and Southeastern (1983) --- while leading his teams to 11 bowl games. Throughout his coaching career, he was a strong advocate of the right combination of academics and athletics. In his years as head coach, he had four players named Academic All-America and 87 players earn academic all-conference honors. On the field, he coached 13 All-Americans and 53 who earned all-conference status.

DICK MODZELEWSKI

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1993)

Through three All-America years at Maryland and 14 All-Pro years in the National Football League, Dick Modzelewski was always "Little Mo." At 6-0, 235 pounds during his playing days at Maryland, he was one of the bigger collegiate linemen during the early 1950s. He was the second Mo at Maryland, following his older brother Ed, "Big Mo."

Dick Modzelewski played three years at defensive tackle for the Terps on the great teams which were 24-4-1. He became Maryland's first winner of a major national honor when he received the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman in 1952. Through his career at Maryland, the Terps fashioned a 22-game unbeaten streak.

At the end of his senior season, Modzelewski was named to every All-America team. He was a second-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins. He spent 14 seasons in the NFL, with the Redskins, the Pittsburgh Steelers, the New York Giants and Cleveland Browns. Modzelewski was an All-Pro and on NFL championship teams with both the Giants (1956) and the Browns (1964).

Dick Modzelewski was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1993.

STAN JONES

Pro Football Hall of Fame (1991) National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (2000)

Stan Jones was the starting right tackle on the Terp defense that allowed only 31 points during 10 regular season games in 1953. With Jones leading the way, Maryland recorded six shutouts and allowed only one team, Georgia, to score more than six points.

It all added up to a 10-0 regular-season for the Terps, who captured the national championship despite an upset loss to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Jones earned consensus All-America honors in 1953 and was chosen "Outstanding College Lineman of 1953" by the College Football Coaching Board. A fifth-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears, Jones went on to have a lengthy pro career. He spent a majority of his career with the Bears (1954-65) before finishing at Washington (1966).

"I was very prepared for the NFL when I left Maryland," Jones said. "From my coaches who taught me football to my professors who taught me anatomy, physiology and weight training, I received a great education. I couldn't have picked a better place to go."

Jones was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1991 and selected for the College Football Hall of Fame in 2000.

BOB PELLEGRINI

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1996)

Bob Pellegrini was recruited to Maryland as a quarterback, but made his name as one of college football's best linemen. In his first season, Pellegrini was a 6-2, 215-pound sophomore guard for the 1953 national champion Terrapins. He would play guard again in 1954 in an era when players went both ways, before switching to center for his senior year to fill a Terrapin void.

As a senior, Pellegrini led Maryland to its second 10-0 regular season and ACC championship in three years as the Terps defeated defending national champion UCLA. He was selected ACC Player of the Year, named consensus All-American and pictured as Herman Hickman's cover boy for Lineman of the Year in 1955.

Pellegrini led the Terps to a 27-4-1 record over his career, with rankings in the Top 10 each season. He was the first pick in the National Football League draft by the Philadelphia Eagles. Pellegrini became one of the building blocks of an Eagle turnaround that took the team to the top of the football world. A losing team when he joined, the Eagles defeated Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers for the World Championship four years later with Bob Pellegrini at linebacker

Pellegrini was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in December 1996.

JACK SCARBATH

Jack Scarbath is an integral part of Maryland football history. In his first start, the All-America quarterback scored the first touchdown in the new Byrd Stadium, a 21-yard run in the first game of the 1950 season.

Scarbath was the quarterback for head coach Jim Tatum's new split T offense for three seasons (1950-52). Scarbath led the Terps to a 24-4-1 record, including a perfect 10-0 season and a 28-13 upset of national champion Tennessee in the 1951 Sugar Bowl. Scarbath called the signals during Maryland's 22-game unbeaten streak over the course of the 1950, '51 and '52 seasons.

During his stellar career, Scarbath rewrote the Terrapin record book, completing 125 of 260 passes for 2,287 yards, an average of 18.3 yards per completion. In 1951, AP and UPI voters named him honorable mention All-American. In 1952, he was honored with first team All-America citations from AP, UPI, International News Service, Colliers, and Look. He finished runner-up to Oklahoma's Billy Vessels in the 1952 Heisman Trophy balloting.

A first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, Scarbath went on to play with the Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1983.

BOB WARD

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1980)

Bob Ward weighed all of 165 pounds throughout his four-year playing career at Maryland and, even in the early 1950s, that was no size for a lineman. Especially a lineman who was a first team All-America middle guard on defense as a junior in 1950 and a first team offensive guard as a senior in 1951.

The forte of the Maryland teams of the early 1950s was consistency—a winning consistency. During Ward's four years, the team was a combined 32-7-1, winning two bowl games (1949 Gator over Missouri, 1951 Sugar over Tennessee to complete a perfect 10-0 season).

The awards and honors Ward earned as a Maryland player belie physical stature, but speak volumes about the man. He was the MVP of the 1949 Gator Bowl, Maryland's first bowl victory. He was the only player ever to earn All-America honors as both an offensive and defensive position player. He earned Southern Conference Player of the Year honors as a senior and was chosen Lineman of the Year by the Washington Touchdown Club and the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association in 1951.

Bob Ward was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1980.

JIM TATUM

In a brief time as a college football head coach -- one season at North Carolina (1942, 5-2-2), one at Oklahoma (1946, 8-3, Gator Bowl victory over North Carolina State) and nine years at Maryland (1947-55, 73-15-4, 2-2-1 in bowl games) -- Jim Tatum had become a coaching legend.

Tatum's Maryland teams from 1950-55 were 51-8-2, with a perfect 10-0 record and Sugar Bowl victory in 1951. The squad posted 10-0 regular-season records in 1953 and 1955 before both teams were upset by Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. Tatum's 1953 team was declared national champion, and Tatum was named national Coach of the Year.

During his career at Maryland, Tatum led the Terps to 19 consecutive wins and an unbeaten streak of 22 games (21-0-1) during the 1950, '51 and '52 campaigns. In the 1952 Sugar Bowl, the Terrapins defeated top-ranked Tennessee 23-13.

Tatum left Maryland following the 1955 season to return to his alma mater, North Carolina. He coached the Tar Heels for three more seasons.

RANDY WHITE

Pro Football Hall of Fame (1994) National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1994)

Randy White changed the look of football's defensive lines. At Maryland, and later in an All-Pro National Football League career with the Dallas Cowboys, he was regarded as the quickest defensive lineman to play the game. He could be in an opponent's backfield before a quarterback could make a hand-off.

In 1974, White cleaned up the college football awards plate. He was honored with the Outland and Lombardi trophies as the top collegiate lineman, was ACC Player of the Year, was an unanimous first-team All-America choice, named the Delaware (his home state) Athlete of the Year and named the Amateur Athlete of the Year by the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association.

A first round draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys, White was an All-Pro performer throughout his career and shared Super Bowl MVP honors with Dallas teammate Harvey Martin when the Cowboys defeated Denver in Super Bowl XII.

White's jersey number, 94, has been retired at Maryland. He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame and the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1994.

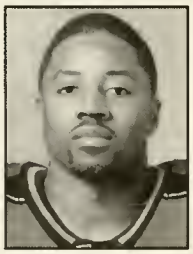
LEFRAK SCHOLARSHIP

The Samuel J. and Ethel LeFrak Foundation donated $1 million in 2003 to establish the Samuel J. LeFrak Scholars Fund at the University of Maryland.

The gift will fund annual LeFrak Scholars in the sports of men's basketball, football and men's track. Beginning in 2004-05, the three LeFrak scholarships will be awarded annually, concurrently and in perpetuity to three student-athletes who exhibit extraordinary athletic ability, leadership and academic achievement.



Josh Wilson

Men's basketball player Nik Caner-Medley was the first-ever recipient of the LeFrak Scholarship at Maryland for the 2003-04 season and Sean Lowe earned the honor for men's track.

Cornerback Josh Wilson is this year's recipient from the football team.

Prior to his death in April 2003, Samuel J. LeFrak, a 1940 graduate of the University of Maryland and one of its most distinguished alumni, was chairman of the Lefrak Organization, one of the world's largest private development companies. The firm's accomplishments include building Lefrak City, a community of apartments, stores and office buildings in Queens, N.Y.; and creating and developing Battery Park City in New York City, as well as Newport, a $10 billion mixed-use community in New Jersey on 600 acres overlooking the Hudson River.

While a student at Maryland, LeFrak was a varsity track letterman, president of the Latch Key Honor Society, and an officer of his class and of Tau Epsilon Phi.

"In keeping with Dr. LeFrak's dedicated support of the university for more than 60 years, the foundation is happy to sustain his wishes to help the school in its many endeavors to maintain high scholastic and athletic standards," said Deborah Dolan, director of the LeFrak Foundation.

Said athletics director Deborah A. Yow, "The LeFrak scholar-athletes will serve as role models to young people across the country We are very grateful for the generosity of Dr. and Mrs. LeFrak."

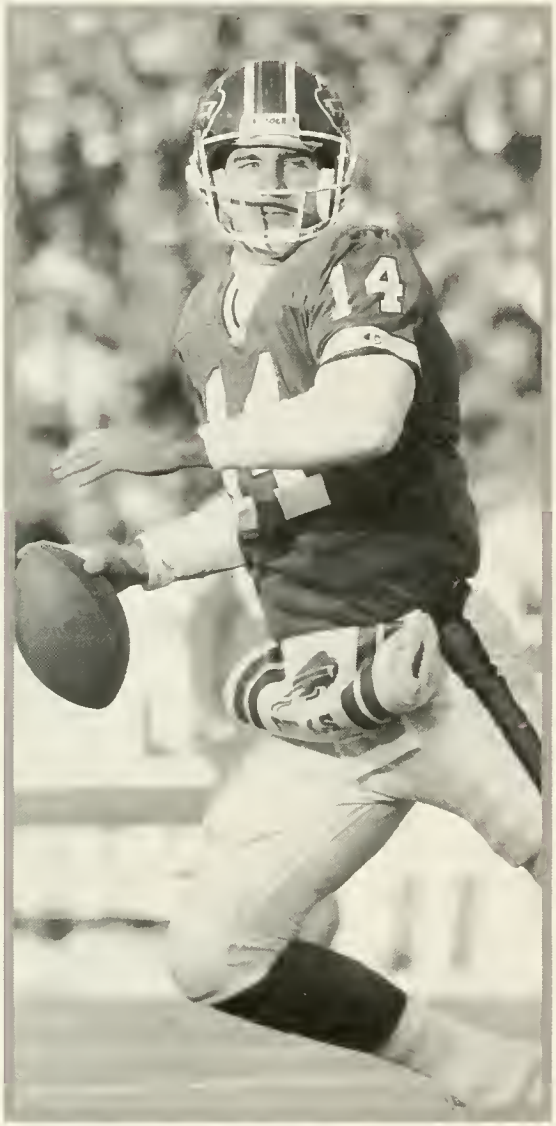
FRANK REICH: THE KING OF COMEBACKS



Reich led the Bills back from a 35-3 third-quarter deficit.

When it comes to engineering record-setting comeback victories, no one has done it better than Maryland's Frank Reich, who was at the controls for the greatest comebacks in NCAA and NFL history.

Reich's first encounter with greatness occurred as a senior in 1984, when he came off the bench to lead the Terps to what then ranked as the biggest comeback in NCAA history. Down 31-0 at halftime to the defending national champion Miami Hurricanes, head coach Bobby Ross inserted Reich into the lineup in place of Stan Gelbaugh, and Reich proceeded to complete 12 of 16 passes for 260 yards and three touchdowns in propelling the Terps to a 42-40 victory in the Orange Bowl.

Eight years later, on Jan. 3, 1993, Reich met destiny again as he led the Buffalo Bills to the greatest comeback in pro football annals. As in the Miami game in 1984, Reich came off the bench and performed his heroics against a top-notch opponent. This time the foe was the Houston Oilers, who appeared on their way to an easy playoff win by building a 35-3 lead early in the second half.

Reich, however, wasn't deterred. Filling in for the injured Jim Kelly, he demonstrated grace under fire by throwing for a career-high 289 yards and four touchdowns as the Bills went on to win 41-38 in overtime.

YEAR-BY-YEAR RESULTS

Game-by-game results for every Maryland football season since 1892. Maryland was known as Maryland Agricultural College from 1892-1915, and as Maryland State College from 1916-1919. Maryland's conference affiliations: Atlantic Coast Conference since 1953, Southern Conference from 1921-51 (SC standings not available from 1921-32) and South Atlantic Intercollegiate Athletic Association in 1920.

Home games were played at Byrd Field or "Old" Byrd Stadium, across the street from the campus on Baltimore Ave., from 1923-1947 and again in 1949. Home games in 1948 were played at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D.C. Home games since 1950 have been played at Byrd Stadium on campus.

Home, road and neutral records are in parentheses (H, A, N). Maryland and opponent Associated Press rankings are in brackets – AP polls began in 1936. From 1961-1967, the Associated Press ranked only the nation's top 10 teams.

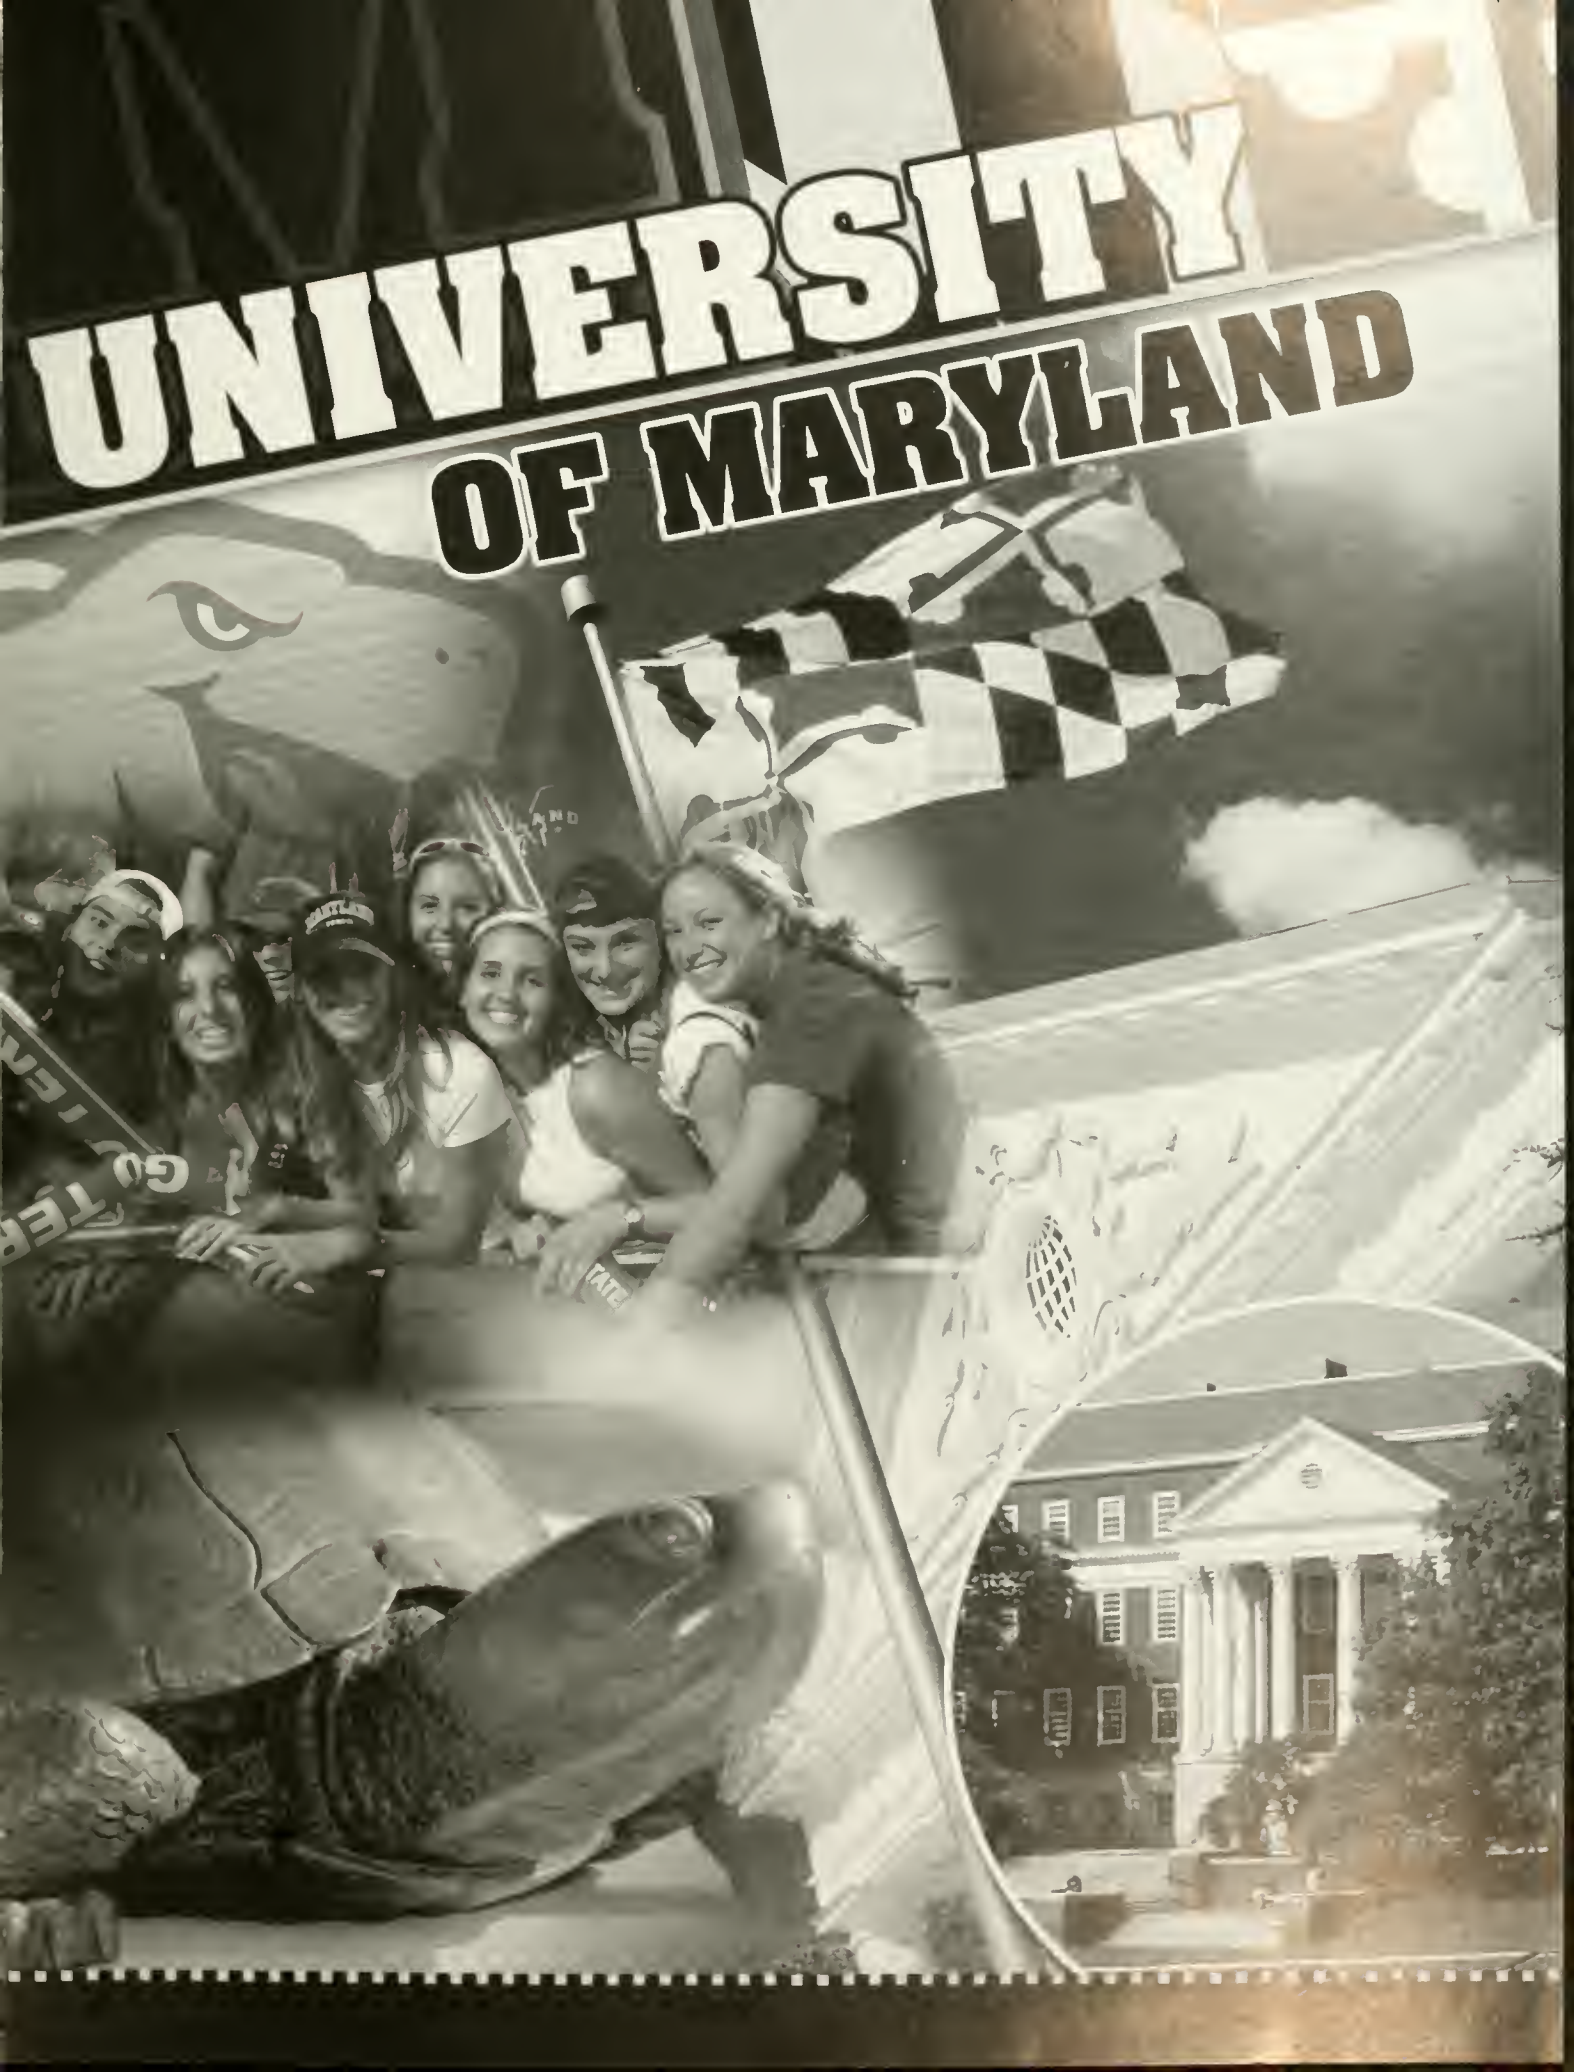
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND



MARYLAND

"STRIVE FOR CLARITY, BUT ACCEPT AND UNDERSTAND AMBIGUITY.

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Thirteen years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment."

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions and accept ambiguity."

AND WE ALSO HOPE YOU ENJOY THE JOURNEY.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

The Campus

By virtually every measure of quality, the University of Maryland has gained national recognition as one of the fastest-rising comprehensive research institutions in the country. The momentum of recent years has poised the university to move it into the top ranks of higher education and take leadership in shaping the research university of the 21st century.

The university has enjoyed a decade of momentum in all of the areas that affect quality. The average high school GPA of entering students has zoomed from 3.01 to nearly 3.90, and the average SATs are now more than 1270. The student body is a model of diversity, with minorities making up more than 32 percent of all students, and at least one graduate and undergraduate student from every state in the nation.

The university has 76 graduate and undergraduate programs ranked in the Top 25 by U.S. News and World Report, up from just one program in 1991.

Sponsored research and outreach has nearly tripled in the same 10-year period, exceeding $350 million last year. Private giving also has increased, and the university last year concluded its first campaign by topping its $350 million goal by more than $100 million. Alumni Association membership has been growing at an average rate of 10 percent a year since 1992.

One of the largest research universities in the United States, Fall 2002 enrollment was 25,240 undergraduate and 9,561 graduate students. There are 94 undergraduate programs, 89 master's programs, 70 doctoral programs and one first professional degree program. More than 100 centers and institutes are engaged in research and outreach.

Faculty at the University of Maryland, in all fields of knowledge, are engaged at the highest levels of national and international concern. The university's location near the center of federal policy-making and international political and economic activity enables it to play an active role in research and analysis of public policy.

Maryland is one of 30 public universities in the prestigious 63-member Association of American Universities and the only public institution in the Maryland-D.C. area with membership in the nation's most distinguished honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

In 1991, Maryland had one program listed among Top 25 entrants in the U.S. News & World Report Rankings. Maryland now has 76 programs ranked among the nation's elite, and the university is ranked 18th nationally among public universities.

A report card published in Technology Review rated the top U.S. universities in their quest for intellectual property, commercial partners and profits. Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland (28th) were the Mid-Atlantic (Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia) schools to make the "campus patenting" top 50 list.

Black Issues In Higher Education ranked the university fourth nationally in bachelor's degrees earned by African-American students at traditionally white schools. Maryland ranks first in African-American undergraduate degrees in social sciences and history.

The Wall Street Journal ranked the Robert H. Smith School of Business No. 16 among the world's business schools. Maryland is the top-ranked school in the Mid-Atlantic region (Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia). The Financial Times of London ranked the Robert H. Smith School of Business No. 8 in information technology, No. 6 in faculty research and No. 7 in entrepreneurship.

In the only undergraduate program rankings released by U.S. News & World Report–business and engineering–both the A. James Clark School of Engineering (No. 16) and the Robert H. Smith School of Business (No. 27) were ranked among the top 25.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system. McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library and White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, College Park, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their unique interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

With more than 90 high-technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

The university last year opened the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center, with its six state-of-the art performance halls, which has quickly become a center of cultural programming in the Washington metropolitan area. The university also boasts four art galleries and a broad range of public art throughout the beautiful campus. Additionally intercollegiate, club and intramural sports provide students of all levels an opportunity to participate as spectators or athletes.

PRESIDENT C.D. MOTE JR.

University President California '59 Seventh Year

In September 1998, C. D. (Dan) Mote, Jr. began his tenure as President of the University of Maryland and Glenn L. Martin Institute Professor of Engineering. He was recruited to lead the University of Maryland to national eminence under a mandate by the state. Since assuming the presidency, he has encouraged an environment of excellence across the University and given new impetus to the momentum generated by a talented faculty and student body. Under his leadership, academic programs have flourished. In 2005, the University was ranked 18th among public research universities, up from 30th in 1998. President Mote has emphasized broad access to the university's model, enriched undergraduate curriculum programs and launched the Baltimore Incentive Awards Program to recruit and provide full support to high school students of outstanding potential who have overcome extraordinary adversity during their lives.

He has spurred the university to lead the state in the development of its high-tech economy, especially in the information and communication, bioscience and biotechnology, and nano-technology sectors. President Mote has greatly expanded the university's partnerships with corporate and federal laboratories and successfully negotiated to bring to the College Park area the first Science Research Park sponsored by the People's Republic of China. Under his leadership, the University has established a research park, The University of Maryland Enterprise Campus, M-Square, located on a 115-acre site adjacent to the University of Maryland/College Park Metro with 3 million square feet of development potential. Among its first tenants are the Center for Advanced Study of Language, a joint venture of the University and Department of Defense, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's new World Weather and Climate Prediction Center.

During President Mote's second year in office, the University began the largest building boom in its history, with more than $100 million in new projects breaking ground that year. New facilities address every aspect of university life, from the arts to recreation to classrooms and laboratories, and, in creative partnership with the private sector, new residential facilities. Highlights of the construction activity include the stunning Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center; the Comcast Center, a state of the art sports complex; a high tech research greenhouse; and new classrooms for chemistry, computer science, business and engineering. President Mote also led the development of a new Facilities Master Plan for development in the next 20 years, which is noted for its emphasis on environmental stewardship.

Dr. Mote is a leader in the national dialogue on higher education and his analyses of shifting funding models have been featured in local and national media. He has testified on major educational issues before Congress, representing the University and higher education associations on the problem of visa barriers for international students and scholars and on deemed export control issues. He has been asked to serve on a high level National Academies Committee appointed at the request of the Senate Energy Subcommittee of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee to identify challenges to United States leadership in key areas of science and technology and to be a member of the Leadership Council of the National Innovation Initiative, an activity of the Council on Competitiveness. He has served as vice chair of the Department of Defense Basic Research Committee, and is a member of the Council of the National Academy of Engineering. In 2004-2005, he served as President of the Atlantic Coast Conference. In its last ranking in 2002, "Washington Business Forward" magazine counted him among the top 20 most influential leaders in the region.

Prior to assuming the Presidency at Maryland, Dr. Mote served on the University of California, Berkeley faculty for 31 years. From 1991 to 1998, he was Vice Chancellor at Berkeley, held an endowed chair in Mechanical Systems and was President of the UC Berkeley Foundation. He led a comprehensive capital campaign for Berkeley that raised $1.4 B. He earlier served as chair of Berkeley's Department of Mechanical Engineering and led the department to its number one ranking in the National Research Council review of graduate program effectiveness.

Dr. Mote's research lies in dynamic systems and biomechanics. Internationally recognized for his research on the dynamics of gyroscopic systems and the biomechanics of snow skiing, he has produced more than 300 publications, holds patents in the U.S., Norway, Finland and Sweden, and has mentored 56 Ph.D. students. He received the B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. in mechanical engineering from the University of California, Berkeley. President Mote has received numerous awards and honors, including the Humboldt Prize awarded by the Federal Republic of Germany. He is a recipient of the Berkeley Citation, an award from the University of California-Berkeley similar to the honorary doctorate, and was named Distinguished Engineering Alumnus. He has received two honorary doctorates. He is a member of the U.S. National Academy of Engineering and serves on its Council, and is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was elected to Honorary Membership in the ASME International, its most distinguished recognition, and is a Fellow of the International Academy of Wood Science, the Acoustical Society of America, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In Spring 2005, he was named recipient of the 2005 J. P. Den Hartog award by the ASME International Technical Committee on Vibration and Sound to honor lifelong contribution to the teaching and/or practice of vibration engineering.

He and his wife of over 47 years, Patricia Mote, have two married children, Melissa and Adam, and four grandchildren. Patsy Mote has continued her strong support of the arts and is spokesperson for the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center and a member of Prince George's County Arts Commission.

DEBORAH A. YOW

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS • 12TH YEAR AT MARYLAND

Deborah A. Yow has just completed the 11th year of her outstanding tenure as director of athletics at the University of Maryland, a tenure that has seen unprecedented success and achievement in Maryland athletics. Each year has brought continued improvement and accomplishment in Terrapin athletics. In Yow's 11 years at Maryland, the Terrapins have won a remarkable nine NCAA national championships and graduated its student athletes at an enviable rate as Maryland athletics has soared to sustained new heights.

The comprehensive success of Terrapin athletics under Debbie Yow's leadership is a clear and compelling testimony of her values of excellence, teamwork and accountability.

Likewise, her prior election to the presidency of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics is an indication of the wide respect with which she is regarded among its 6,100 members representing 1,600 colleges and universities in the U.S. and Canada.

She was honored in December, 2004, by Street and Smith's Sports Business Journal as one of the 20 most influential people in intercollegiate athletics, and she has received the Carl Maddox Sport Management Award presented by the United States Sports Academy for excellence in athletics administration.

Yow was selected to serve on the U.S. Department of Education's Commission on Opportunities in Athletics to review the status of Federal Title IX regulations. She recently served as the chair of the Atlantic Coast Conference Committee on Television. The committee is charged with overseeing the league's TV contracts and dealing with issues related to television. Yow led the committee during the successful renegotiation of comprehensive, multi-year ACC football and basketball contracts with ABC, ESPN, ESPN2 and syndication entities.

Additionally, she has represented intercollegiate athletics with presentations in a number of prominent settings such as the Harvard University School of Law conference on "Shaping the Future of Collegiate Athletics" and the Street and Smith's Sports Business Journal "National Forum on the Direction of Intercollegiate Athletics." She was also recently inducted into the State of Maryland Women's Hall of Fame.

Yow, who has served on the NCAA Management Council and the NCAA Division I Budget Committee, is a strong and steady voice on behalf of intercollegiate athletics in America.

Since taking over as AD at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.
- Balanced all 11 of the department's annual budgets (the first balanced budgets in the 10 years prior to her arrival). The budget has now reached $53 million annually and the multi-million dollar accumulated operating debt which her administration inherited has been eradicated.
- Greatly enhanced the academic support services provided for student-athletes, with an enviable exhausted eligibility graduation rate of approximately 85 percent for student athletes at Maryland.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper seven percent of all NCAA Division I institutions.
- Significantly expanded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased over 350% and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by over 300 percent during her tenure at Maryland.
- Continued to dramatically improve venues and facilities for the department's 27 teams. The Comcast Center for men's and women's basketball and other sports that use the facility is a prime example of the dramatic upgrade of athletic facilities.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fund-raising applications.
- Significantly improved customer care in every area of Maryland athletics.

The most recent achievements of Maryland athletics are exceptional:

- Maryland was selected by U.S. News & World Report as one of the Top 20 athletic programs in the nation (for overall quality and competitive excellence).
- In men's basketball, the Terps won the Atlantic Coast Conference title over Duke in the championship game in 2004 and won the NCAA National Championship in 2002. Under Coach Gary Williams, the men's basketball team has appeared in 11 of the last 12 NCAA Tournaments, one of only six schools to do so.
- Women's basketball also won its way to the NCAA Tournament in 2004 and 2005, advancing to the second round.
- In football, the Terps won the 2001 Atlantic Coast Conference championship and played in the 2002 Orange Bowl, followed that with an 11-win season and a 30-3 victory over the University of Tennessee in the Peach Bowl, again followed by a 10-win season and a 41-7 win over West Virginia in the Gator Bowl on New Year's Day 2004
  Additionally, Maryland is one of only six universities to win a National Championship in both basketball and football (UCLA, Michigan, Michigan State, Syracuse, Ohio State and Maryland).
- Maryland was ranked as the sixth-finest athletic program in the nation by the Laboratory for the Study of Intercollegiate Athletics in 2004, based on comprehensive criteria such as graduation rates, financial efficiency, equity effectiveness and competitive excellence.
- Hired the Associated Press National Coach of the Year, Brenda Frese, as the new women's basketball coach. In her third season at the helm, her team drew more than 17,243 to a regular-season game and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.
- Hired Dave Cottle, the third-winningest active men's lacrosse coach in the U.S., who guided his team to the NCAA Final Four in his second year.
- Field Hockey played for the National Championship in 2001 and continues to be a Final Four team.
- Women's Lacrosse has continued its winning ways with seven national championships from 1995-2001, with additional Final Four appearances.
- Football facilities have been significantly enhanced with team house, stadium and practice field upgrades. The Academic Center was the first improvement, as it took priority over all other initiatives.
- The Terrapins have moved into the new $125 million Comcast Center, housing athletic department offices and seating for 18,000 fans for basketball and other events.
- In 2004-05, 13 Maryland teams competed in NCAA postseason play
- The productivity, morale, and the competitive and academic achievement of Terrapin athletics are exceptional and continue to gain momentum.

Dr. Yow with Boomer Esiason (left) and Bonnie Bernstein (center).

Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past 11 years, Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied... our vision is to be one of the Top 5 programs in the nation consistently... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools... to work hard and smart... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves."

As a manager and a leader, she clearly models these principles. She is the only known current AD in NCAA Division I who has hired both the National Coach of the Year in football (while at Maryland) and the National Coach of the Year in men's basketball (while at Saint Louis University). Yow is known as "a coach's AD," while also being highly organized and a strategic and proactive leader and administrator. Quite simply, Debbie Yow personifies the relational and management dynamics that are necessary to be an excellent administrator.

A successful former basketball coach at the University of Kentucky and University of Florida, she moved into athletics administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, followed by a successful tenure as AD at Saint Louis University from 1990 through 1994.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics management and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

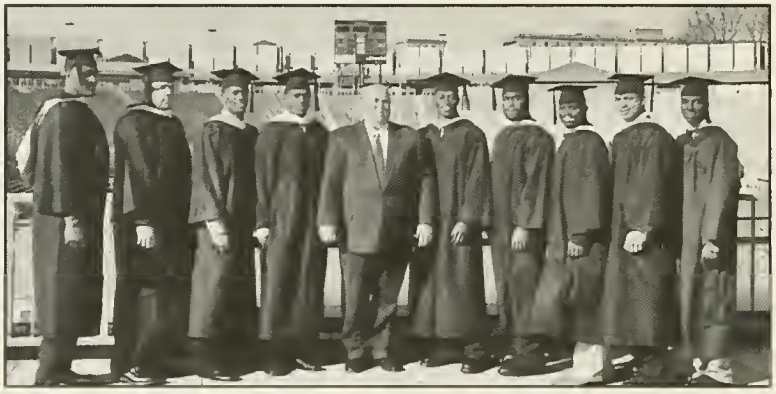
Reflecting on the status of the Terrapin football program, Maryland's Director of Athletics points out, "Our 2001 ACC Championship and three consecutive major bowls are an important part of our emergence as a preeminent national football program. Our football coaches care greatly about their players and their welfare. They emphasize the importance of going to class, being good students and getting their college degree. Parents of our football players understand that these young men are in good hands with this wonderful staff of coaches. Our young men in Terrapin football have a full range of support in training, academics and career guidance from our coaches and staff of caring specialists. We are winning in the classroom and on the football field."

Summing up the entire Maryland athletics program, our athletics director recently stated, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets, our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the M Club members who serve and give liberally. We are also blessed with a terrific President, Dr. Dan Mote, who has fostered a mindset of excellence across our institution. He is a strong and balanced advocate for what he calls 'the three A's of the University – Academics, the Arts and Athletics.' We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our success – and the basis for our bright future. It's a great time to be a Ter

ACADEMIC SUPPORT & CAREER DEVELOPMENT

The University of Maryland is committed to providing the highest quality education to all of its students. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to provide student-athletes excellent opportunities to participate in an intercollegiate athletics program of the highest quality, with the result that their athletics participation becomes an integral and valued component of their total educational experience at the university.

Terrapin student-athletes will find that the same hard work and discipline that has earned them success in athletics competition is also required in the classroom. Balancing the significant time demands and responsibilities required to be a successful student-athlete at the highest collegiate level is no small task. Therefore, as a result of their commitment to representing the university through athletics, Terrapin student-athletes are able to utilize support programs designed to meet their specific needs.



Led by assistant athletics director Anton Goff, the mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit (ASCDU) is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance academic progress, facilitate career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of all UM student-athletes.

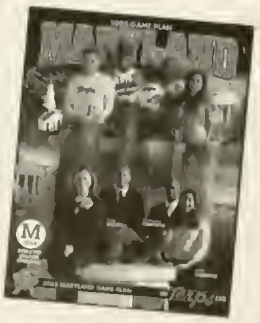
The Gossett Academic Support and Career Development Center for Terrapin student-athletes, named for long-time Terp supporters Barry and Mary Gossett, is located in the Comcast Center. It features a study center that includes 25 desktop computers, a tutoring center, a classroom, a CHAMPS/Life Skills resource room and individual offices for six professional academic counselors, a director of enrichment programs, an assistant program coordinator and two graduate assistants. In addition, a new academic wing was added to the Gossett football team house last Fall. It features offices for two counselors, a program assistant and the learning specialist; as well as a quiet study area, 29-desk computer lab, classroom, tutor rooms and classroom/lab for the individualized learning program.

Academic courses, programs and services offered by ASCDU include the following:

- Student-athlete orientation
- Academic counseling
- NCAA academic eligibility monitoring
- Academic enrichment and career development presentations and workshops
- Accredited tutorial support
- Individualized learning program
- EDCP 108-K (College learning strategies and skills)
- EDCP 108-M (Math learning strategies and skills)
- UNIV 100 (First-year transitions to the university)

Maryland Gameplan

The Maryland Gameplan is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin the job search process. It is distributed to more than 500 corporations and businesses across the country, in addition to being featured on the M Club website. Prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with resume information relative to academic, career and personal achievements. The Maryland Gameplan directory is produced annually in collaboration with the M Club.



Career Networking Night

Because career development is an ongoing process, ASCDU provides a variety of programs for student-athletes throughout the year. Professional assistance with resume-writing, interviewing skills, graduate school search and job search is readily available to all student-athletes. During the spring semester ASCDU hosts the Career Networking Night, where student-athletes can learn about career interests and career planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen areas of interest. Employers at the Career Networking Night recognize the marketable qualities student-athletes have gained through athletic participation. Student-athletes learn about opportunities for internships and full-time jobs.

Student-Athlete Advisory Council

The Student-Athlete Advisory Council (S.A.A.C.) plays an important role in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It consists of two representatives from each varsity sport and meets on a regular basis with representatives from the athletic administration. The S.A.A.C. mission is to enhance the total student-athlete experience by developing leadership skills, promoting student-athlete welfare and fostering a positive student-athlete image on the Maryland campus, local area and nationally.

CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs

ASCDU houses the NCAA's (National Collegiate Athletic Association) Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success (C.H.A.M.P.S.) Life Skills Program. The ASCDU staff, in collaboration with various other Department of Intercollegiate Athletics' units and campus resources, strives to provide a systematic personal development program designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The focus of the program is on the individual academically, athletically and emotionally, and on the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during college and after graduation. The menu of presentations, workshops and seminars is a comprehensive and balanced system of "life learning" programs promoted for use by each varsity sport team.

NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills PROGRAM

Highlights of the CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs:

- Support efforts of every student-athlete toward intellectual development and graduation
- Use athletics as preparation for success in life
- Meet the changing needs of student-athletes
- Promote respect for diversity among student-athletes
- Enhance interpersonal relationships in the lives of student-athletes
- Assist student-athletes in building positive self-esteem
- Enable student-athletes to make meaningful contributions to their communities
- Promote ownership by the student-athletes of their academic, athletic, personal and social responsibilities
- Enhance partnerships between the NCAA, member institutions and their communities for the purpose of education
- Encourage the development of leadership skills

CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs Commitment Statements

Commitment to Academic Excellence To support the academic progress of the student-athlete toward intellectual development and graduation.

Commitment to Athletic Excellence To build philosophical foundations for the development of athletic programs that are broad-based, equitable and dedicated to the well-being of the student-athlete.

Commitment to Personal Development To support the development of a well-balanced lifestyle for student-athletes, encouraging emotional well-being, personal growth and decision-making skills.

Commitment to Career Development To encourage the student-athlete to develop and pursue career and life goals.

Commitment to Service To engage student-athletes in service to his/her campus and surrounding communities.

Academic Support For Returning Athletes Program

The Academic Support for Returning Athletes Program was created in 1986 to support the academic efforts of former varsity student-athletes at the University of Maryland, College Park. In 1989, ASRAP was assigned by the President's Office to the Academic Achievements Program and enrolled 40 students that year. As a member of the National Consortium for Academics and Sports (NCAS), the University of Maryland is committed to assisting its former athletes with degree completion. A key component of the program is community outreach. Each returning student completes a "workship" that allows the cost of tuition and fees to be exchanged for community services with youth. In 2002, ASRAP moved into the ASCDU.

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

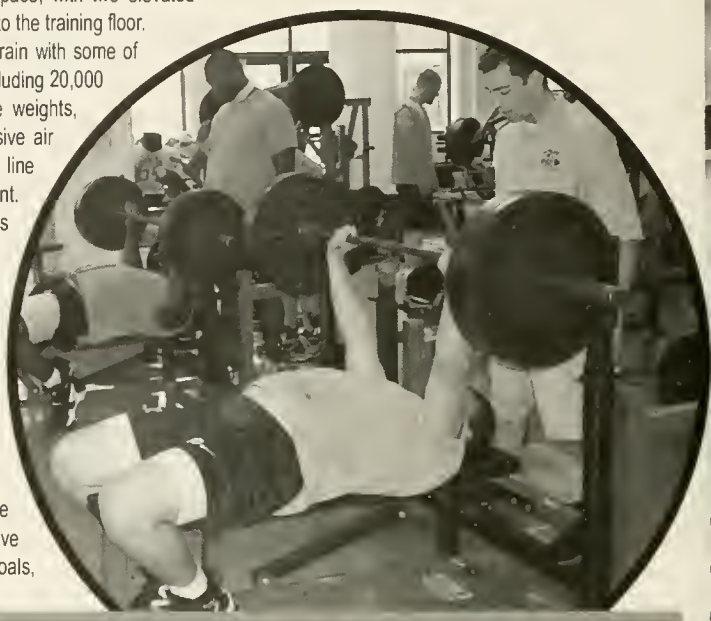
In today's highly competitive world of collegiate football, the off-field preparation of the student-athlete is a critical component to the on-field success of any Division I program. Dwight Galt, Maryland's director of strength and conditioning, believes strongly that a solid off-field training program can dramatically improve levels of performance, as well as significantly reduce the chance of injury. The benefit of performing structured strength and power training throughout the entire year has allowed the Terps to reach new levels in physical development.

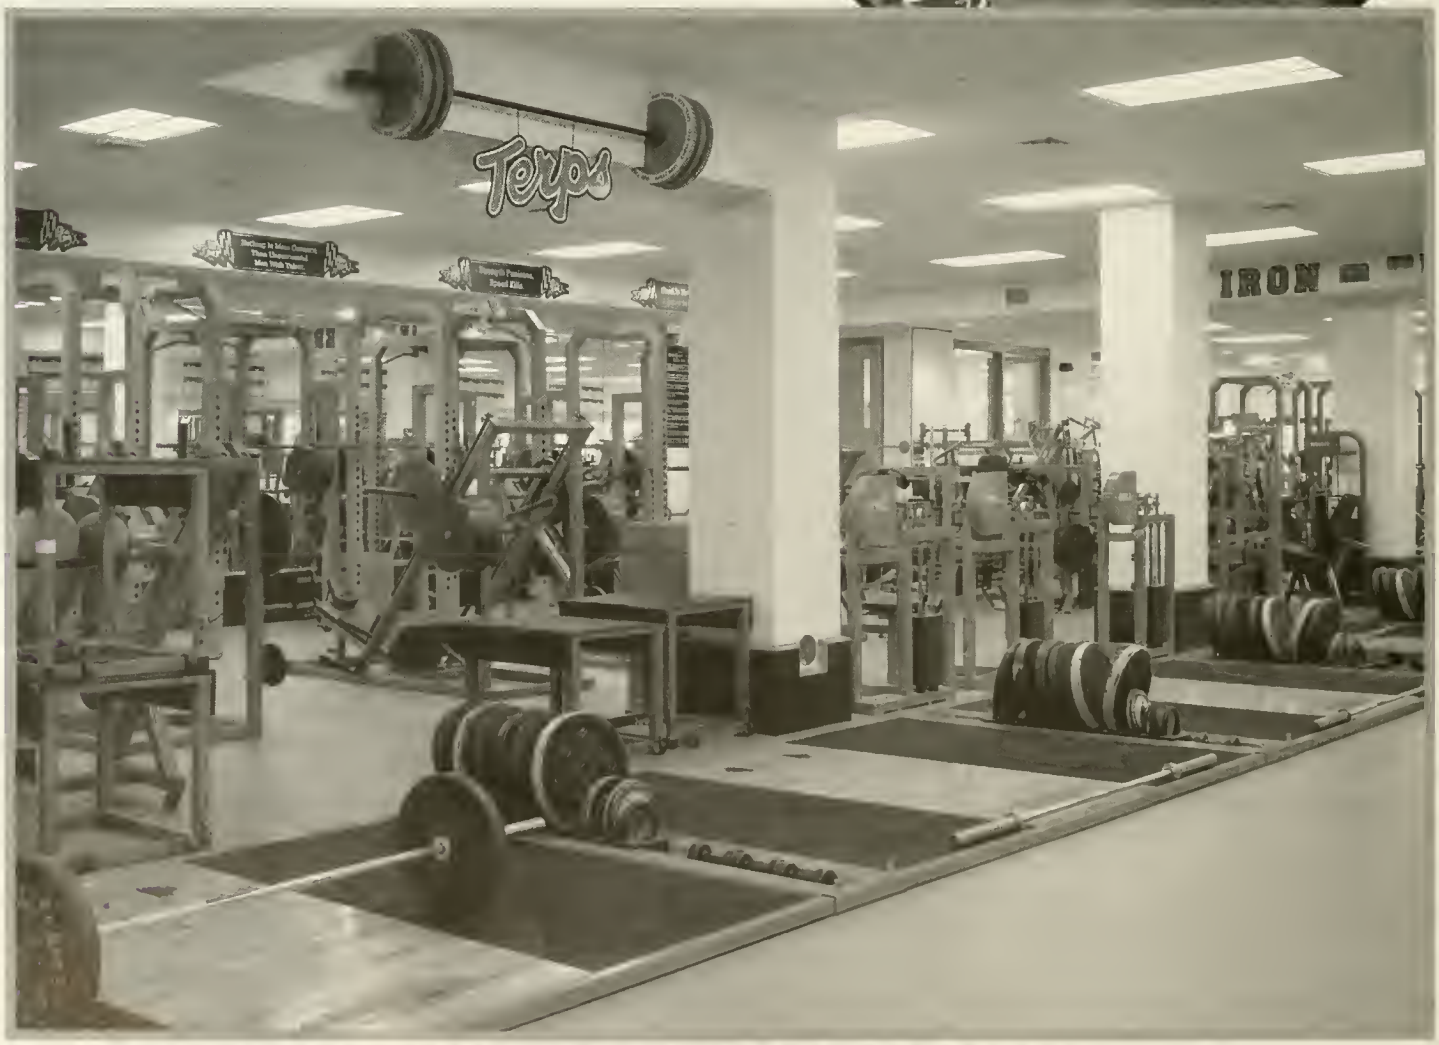
At the University of Maryland, the maximal development of athleticism is the primary goal of the strength and conditioning program. To accomplish this requires more than just strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, agility, flexibility, conditioning, plyometrics and nutrition also play critical roles. The Terps' strength staff places substantial emphasis on all these areas, with special attention to the improvement of speed potential. Galt and his staff employ a wide range of state-of-the-art training methods to assist in enhancing all aspects of speed development.

The Terrapins are fortunate to train in one of the premier weight training facilities in the country. Conveniently located in the Gossett Football Team House, this facility has excellent aesthetic appeal, with two magnificent skylights and large windows overlooking the playing field at Byrd Stadium. The Terps' spacious weight room includes 7,200 square feet of functional floor space, with two elevated offices that are easily accessible to the training floor.

Maryland football players train with some of the best equipment available, including 20,000 pounds of customized York free weights, seven pieces of Keiser progressive air resistance machines, and a full line of Hammer strength equipment. The weight complex also features immense, self-contained power rack stations, Olympic lifting platforms with Eleiko bumper plates and 10 upper body pressing stations.

A meaningful goal of every Terrapin football player is achievement of the prestigious "Iron Terp" award, which is recognized twice a year to those team members who achieve extremely challenging strength goals, based on body weight. It is a great honor and matter of pride to earn an "Iron Terp" award, and the Terps must "pay the toll" to accomplish this.





SPORTS MEDICINE

The University of Maryland Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the University of Maryland Medical Center's Sports Medicine program have joined forces to provide the best possible medical attention and care to all Terrapin student-athletes.

Says Deborah A. Yow, Maryland's director of athletics: "When we recruit student-athletes to play for Maryland, we owe them the best education, the best coaching and the best comprehensive health care. It is especially gratifying for us to partner with our medical center in the same fashion as other ACC institutions do with their medical schools."

DARRYL CONWAY

Darryl Conway was hired in June 2004 as Maryland's assistant athletics director for sports medicine after spending three years as the head athletic trainer at the University of Central Florida. He served as a clinical instructor/field experience supervisor for athletic training students, assisted in the development of marketing and fundraising projects for the sports medicine department and served as the site coordinator for the NCAA drug testing program at UCF.

From 1993 to 1996, Conway was an assistant trainer with the NFL's New York Jets.

Conway earned a bachelor's degree in physical education studies, magna cum laude, from the University of Delaware in 1993, before receiving a master's degree in physical education and a certificate in sports management from Adelphi University two years later.

Conway has taught numerous collegiate courses related to athletic training, has made numerous presentations and has co-authored several scholarly publications and book chapters. He has been a member of the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA) since 1989, and is also a member of the United States Weightlifting Federation.

The M Club
An 82-Year Tradition of "Athletes Helping Athletes"℠

The M Club was founded in 1923 by a group of former University of Maryland athletes led by Dr. H.C. "Curley" Byrd to encourage excellence in athletics. It is one of the oldest and most respected letterwinner clubs in the country with an organization of more than 4,500 former Maryland varsity athletes and a leader in the National Letter Winners Association.

The M Club goals are to help achieve the very best overall academic and athletic program for all the varsity teams, to aid the athletes in making positive contributions to the community, to obtain and maintain funds for awards and scholarships and to cultivate networking, social contact and good sportsmanship among the wearers of the "M."

Membership participation, through the payment of annual dues, helps build the scholarship endowment fund, support student-athletes' awards and recognition efforts and provide for career development initiatives. Members receive information about the current teams and news about former teammates through a monthly electronic newsletter and a quarterly printed newsletter.

In addition, active members receive information about, and discounts for, various M Club activities. Many benefits are intangible, though, including the satisfaction of having lettered at a great university and being a part of a unique and exclusive organization.

University of Maryland letterwinners interested in the M Club should call David Diehl at (301) 314-5372 or Dotti Warren at (301) 314-7020, or visit our website at www.themclub.org

Major Gifts Fundraising

The University of Maryland is about to launch its largest fund-raising campaign ever in our quest to be one of the top public research universities in the nation. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics will have a challenging, major goal for private donations to the campaign. We are seeking gifts to improve our athletic facilites and endow scholarships for student-athletes to a level that matches the university's great expectations for the future.

During this new campaign, the Athletics Major Gifts staff will raise money for capital improvements to our football facilities, Varsity Team House, Ludwig Field, Shipley Field and others that will benefit our entire athletics program. Major gifts for facility renovation and scholarship endowment are an opportunity to have your name permanently and prominently linked with the tradition of Maryland Athletics. Many exciting naming opportunities for athletic facilities (such as Field Hockey/Women's Lacrosse Stadium and the Softball Stadium) are available in recognition of major gifts.

To obtain information on facility naming opportunities or endowments for student-athlete scholarships, please contact the Athletics Major Gifts Office at (301) 314-7020, or toll-free at 800-653-7667, or by e-mail at terrapinclub@umd.edu.

TERPS ON THE RADIO

All of Maryland's games will be broadcast live on the Terrapin Sports Radio Network, which boasts one of the strongest coverage areas in college sports. Terrapin Sports Marketing, a division of Viacom Sports, manages the Terrapin Sports Radio Network. In it's fourth year as the multi-media marketing rights partner for University of Maryland Athletics, Terrapin Sports Marketing has built a stronger network that provides coverage in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, and Washington DC.

Live 105.7 FM (WHFS) and ESPN Radio 1300 AM (WJFK-AM) in Baltimore serve as network's flagship stations, with many more affiliates across the state picking up the games.

Maryland's broadcasts will be accessible on the Internet via the Terps official athletics website, www.umterps.com.

JOHNNY HOLLIDAY

Play-by-Play Announcer
27th Year

Johnny Holliday, now in his 27th year as "Voice of the Terps," is considered one of the finest play-by-play announcers in the country. Entering this season, he will have broadcast over 1,050 Maryland football and basketball games, including nine bowl games, 10 NCAA Sweet 16s, two Final Fours and the Terps' dramatic run to the national championship in 2002.

In addition to his exploits calling Terrapin contests, Holliday also hosts the Ralph Friedgen and Gary Williams Television and Radio Shows as well as a myriad of other athletics department speaking engagements.

Now in his 25th year with ABC Sports Radio and heard nationwide weekday mornings, Holliday's experiences in entertainment are as notable as those in sports. He was a long-time disc jockey in Cleveland, Ohio, once named the nation's premier DJ. He has had leading roles as an actor in musicals working the summer stock and dinner theatre circuit in shows such as The Music Man, 42nd Street and Bye Bye Birdie to name a few. In addition, he penned an autobiography in 2002, From Rock to Jock, which details his rise to one of the nation's most recognizable voices.

In the sports field, his credits include anchoring the radio coverage of every summer and winter Olymics since 1984 for ABC, major golf tournaments, the Orioles, Bullets, Wizards and Washington Senators to name a few.

A Rock and Roll Hall of Fame inductee (2003), Holliday earned a Distinguished Service Award from the Atlantic Coast Conference for his pioneering work in the league's broadcasts of women's basketball. He has also been named one of the top 16 radio announcers for college basketball by ESPN personality Dick Vitale. And when Washingtonian Magazine named him one of their annual Washingtonians of the Year, it was not just because of his voice. Holliday has helped raise in excess of $1.5 million for charity with his basketball and softball teams as well as spent countless hours working with the Special Olympics, March of Dimes, the Catholic Charities, Operation Smile and Victory Youth Center to name a few. In 1998, he was honored by the Greater Washington, D.C. chapter of Operation Smile with the "Smile Award" recognizing his service while in 1995 he earned Maryland's own M Club Distinguished Citizen Award.

A native of Miami, Fla., Holliday began his broadcasting career in Perry, Ga., and has worked in some of the nation's premier markets – Cleveland, New York, San Francisco and Washington. He and his wife, Mary Clare, are the proud parents of three daughters and grandparents seven children. His daughter Kellie is a physician who resides in Bel Air, Md., with her husband and fellow-physician, Steve; Tracie is a neonatal nurse at Shady Grove Hospital who resides in Potomac with husband Chris, an attorney; and Moira who is a freelance TV producer and resides with her husband, Bob, who is an account executive with the Lending Group, in Jacksonville, Fla.

JONATHAN CLAIBORNE

Color Commentary
Sixth Year

Former Terrapin standout Jonathan Claiborne is in his sixth season as the color analyst on Maryland's radio broadcast team. Claiborne, who lettered from 1975-77 as a safety, is the son of former Terp head coach Jerry Claiborne, who was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1999 after a 28-year career as head coach at Virginia Tech, Maryland and Kentucky.

Originally a walk-on at Maryland in the mid-'70s, Jonathan Claiborne eventually worked his way into a first-string safety position and earned a scholarship. He was a two-year starter and played on three bowl teams. The Terps were 28-7-1 during his varsity playing career.

Claiborne, who is now a practicing attorney in the Baltimore area for the firm Whiteford, Taylor and Preston, excelled on and off the field while playing with the Terrapins. He was a two-time All-ACC Academic selection and a 1977 CoSIDA Academic All-American. He also was the recipient of a NCAA Post-graduate Scholarship in addition to earning a fellowship from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. Claiborne earned a double degree at Maryland (history and accounting) with a cumulative GPA of 3.57. He was a two-time winner of the George C. Cook Award (given to the Terp varsity football player with the highest grade point average) and also won the Talbot T. Speer Award for leadership, scholarship and athletic ability.

TIM STRACHAN

Sideline Reporter
10th Year

Former DeMatha standout Tim Strachan is in his 10th season as the sideline reporter on Maryland's football broadcasts. Strachan, a 1999 graduate of the University of Maryland with a degree in communication, was a student assistant coach with the Terps from 1996-99. He graduated from Georgetown University Law Center in the spring of 2004.

Strachan, who was paralyzed in a swimming accident before his senior year of high school, launched T13 Charities — A Foundation for Spinal Cord Injuries as a way to benefit others with spinal cord injuries. Credentials

Credentials and working space for media members are issued at the sole and exclusive discretion of the University of Maryland Athletics Media Relations Office. Issuance of credentials may be based on the following priorities and guidelines:

1. Originating radio and television personnel involved in a live broadcast.
2. Daily newspapers regularly covering the University of Maryland, the current-game opponent or another Atlantic Coast Conference school. Wire services, regional and national publications are also afforded this priority.
3. Non-originating radio and television personnel producing reports on the game. Only local radio stations with a full-time sports director conducting a regular sports show receive consideration for credentials.
4. Officially recognized University of Maryland daily student publications or student electronic media outlets with daily sports reports.
5. Non-daily newspapers or publications reporting on the game.

Other Guidelines

- Season media credentials are issued to those outlets which cover Maryland Athletics on a regular basis. They do not guarantee working space in media work areas.
- With the exception of Terrapin beat reporters covering the team on a daily basis and producing daily reports, all passes are approved and issued on a game-by-game basis.
- Passes are non-transferable and are subject to immediate revocation if transferred to non-working members of a media outlet.
- Due to limited space and to ensure compliance with NCAA guidelines, no credentials will be issued to "free-lance" writers or photographers without a specific assignment received in writing by the assigning organization.
- The University of Maryland and the NCAA prohibit the issuance of credentials to representatives of an organization that regularly publishes gambling information, such as "tout sheets" or "tip sheets."
- Credentials are issued to web sites that are affiliated with national or regional media organizations, e.g. USA Today.com, ESPN.com, CBS SportsLine, etc., for web sites of Atlantic Coast Conference schools or non-conference opponents, or for the Atlantic Coast Conference office.
- Web sites that sponsor "message boards" or "chat rooms" where people are allowed to post anonymous information or rumors are ineligible for credentials or access to media functions. If a news-gathering medium has an online site that sponsors these anonymous forums, they may continue to request credentials under their traditional medium (newspaper, magazine, radio or television), but will not be granted additional passes or access for online staff.
- All persons picking up credentials will be required to furnish positive identification. All credentials are non-transferable, and no credentials will be issued to those under the age of 18.

Credential Requests

Credential requests must be made by sports editors or sports directors on official letterhead no later than five days prior to an event. They should be sent to the attention of Kelly Bramble, Athletic Media Relations Office, University of Maryland, 2725 Comcast Center, College Park, MD 20741-0295. They may also be faxed to 301-314-9094. No credential requests will be accepted via e-mail or by phone.

Admission to media facilities are for working media only.

E-mail Service

Football releases can be obtained electronically by contacting Greg Creese at gcreese@umd.edu. List TERP NEWS in the subject heading, and include the name of your media outlet and phone number in your message. (This is a media service only).

Internet Guidelines

The acceptance of media credentials is an acknowledgement of the University of Maryland's rights to the game and play-by-play coverage and an outlet's agreement to abide by any restrictions the University of Maryland may place on real-time play-by-play coverage and use of comprehensive game statistics. Failure to abide by these restrictions implemented by the University of Maryland may result in revocation of press credentials. Maryland reserves the right to grant approval for distribution of real time play-by-play, game-related statistics and information through the Internet ("real time" is defined as any online media providing live continual play-by-play coverage, in-game statistics, digital photographs, or audio or video of an event).

Parking

Game-day press parking is located in the Union Lane Garage which is adjacent to Cole Field House and along Field House Drive. The parking garage is best accessed from the Stadium Drive entrance to campus. Access is via pass only and is available on a limited basis.

Photography Regulations

Photo passes will be issued only to accredited photographers on assignment. Photographers should obtain an armband from the media-relations assistant on the field below Section 28 to gain admittance to the field. Under NCAA and ACC rules, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside of the restraining lines surrounding the playing field.

Photographers are expected to comply with all University regulations and policies. Any photographer or any media a member not complying with instructions of University staff may be required to surrender their credentials.

Player Interviews

All player interviews must be arranged through Greg Creese or Doug Dull. Players have been instructed not to participate in interviews unless they have been arranged through the Media Relations Office. Interviews will be conducted Monday through the start of practice on Thursday. No interviews will be allowed on Sunday or Friday. Player phone numbers will not be released, and members of the media are asked not to attempt to contact student-athletes or relatives on the telephone or via e-mail. Players are not available for live call-in radio shows.

Postgame Interviews

Head coach Ralph Friedgen and selected players will be brought to the Gossett Team House Dining Facility on the second floor of the Gossett Football Team House for postgame interviews following home games. The team room is accessed through the front door of the complex, located one level above the playing field. Please enter the glass doors and follow the hallway to the team room on the right. Interviews with the visiting team coach and players will be coordinated by the opponent SID staff. The interview area for the opposing coach is in the weight room of the Varsity Team House, located outside the stadium on the opposite side of the field from the Tyser Tower Press Box. The Terps follow similar guidelines for coach and player interviews for road games.

Maryland's locker room is closed following games.

Practice Coverage

Only the first 30 minutes of practice are open. Media wishing to attend practice should contact the Media Relations Office in advance. All members of the media are asked to view practice from the sloped portion of the field (along Stadium Drive). Once the team goes into pads in the fall, TV B-roll and still photographers will be allowed to shoot warm-ups, stretching drills and the first four periods of practice. Team meetings before, during and after practice are private. Practices generally begin at 3:45 p.m. and conclude at 6 p.m. The team does not practice on Sunday during the season with the exception of the weeks on Thursday night games.

Ralph Friedgen Interviews

Coach Friedgen will be available to the media at his weekly Tuesday media luncheons, which begin at 1 p.m. in the Gossett Team House Dining Facility. Friedgen will also be available on the weekly ACC Teleconference held each Wednesday at 11:20 a.m. ET.
